Few Reductions Made Which Will Aid the Consumer; All Increases Mean Higher Prices.

MEAT RATES TOO GREAT.

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Affecting every article of food eaten by the people of the United States, beginning with the producer and manufacturer, and ending with the consumer, the agricultural schedule of the new tariff law is of crowning importance to the country.

It would seem that, as the United States is a heavy exporter of cereals and their products, of meats and their products, and of various other articles which are the growth of our prolific soil, substantial reductions could have been made in the duties with a view to lowering the prices. As a matter of fact, there was not a decrease of duty made, save perhaps in one or two instances, which will affect favorably the cost to the purchaser, and not an increase of duty made but will operate to maintain prices at their present high level or even to augment them.

In dealing with the agricultural schedule congress was divided between the necessity of protecting the farmer, and consequently the interests which act as the middleman, and the consumer. As a result as few changes as posible were made in the rates in force under the Dingley law.

Live Stock Rate Prohibitive.

No modification whatever was made of the duties on live animals, which in effect are prohibitory. Of the cereals only three items were affected—broom corn, which was transferred from the free to the dutiable list at $2 per ton; buckwheat flour, the rate upon which was increased from 20 to 25 per cent; and sweetened biscuits, valued at over 15 cents a pound, which were made dutiable at 50 per cent ad valorem.

A milk product, known as casein, which is used in various manufactures, including glazed papers, paid 20 per cent ad valorem under the Dingley law, and under the new law will be free of duty. Of the farm and field products, all will continue to be dutiable as heretofore, except cabbages, which are reduced from 3 to 2 cents each; hops, increased from 12 to 16 cents a pound; dried and green peas, reduced from 35 cents to 30 cents a bushel; and peas for seed from 40 to 25 cents per bushel.

Gardeners will be affected by the increases made in rose plants from 2½ to 4 cents each, and various fruit trees which are increased about 100 per cent. Lemons, figs, dates, pineapples, and grapes have undergone increases of duty.

Reductions Made on Meats.

There has been a reduction of 1 cent a pound upon bacon and ham, and half a cent a pound upon beef, veal, mutton, lamb, and pork. A similar reduction has been made on lard. Tallow has been reduced from ¾ to ½ cent a pound, and wool grease from ½ cent to ¼ of a cent. Many starches have been given a reduction in duty. Salt has been lowered 1 cent a hundred pounds. Sugar beets have been reduced from 25 to 10 per cent ad valorem.

It is interesting to note in connection with the foregoing changes that with the exception of one or two articles, there has been and is little fear of competition from the foreign products. In the United States eight cereal crops are grown in large quantities. In the order of their importance they are: Corn, wheat, oats, barley, rye, buckwheat, rice, and kaffir corn.

The total improved area in the United States, according to the last census, was 414,793,191 acres, of which 289,821,549 acres were in crops of all kinds, and 184,994,568 were devoted to cereals. The production of corn amounts in the neighborhood of 3,000,000,000 bushels annually, having a farm value of $1,336,900,000; wheat, 650,000,000 bushels, valued at $550,000,000; oats, 754,000,000 bushels, valued at $334,568,000; barley, 170,000,000 bushels, valued at $100,000,000; rye, 32,000,000 bushels, valued at $23,000,000; buckwheat, 14,000,000 bushels, valued at $10,000,000.

Illinois Center of Production.

The center of production of the six most important cereals—corn, wheat, oats, barley, rye, and buckwheat—was located in 1900 about twenty-eight miles north of Quincy, Ill., and it is expected that the census just inaugurated will place this point a little farther west.

Of these farm products, the United States exports about 53,000,000 bushels of corn, over 100,000,000 bushels of wheat, and almost 50,000,000 barrels of wheat flour, as high as 4,000,000 bushels of oats, several hundred thousand bushels of buckwheat, 10,000,000 bushels of barley, and 2,500,000 bushels of rye.

The total quantities of these various breadstuffs imported aggregated during the last year to less than 8,000,000 bushels. Indeed, only the food of which any considerable quantity was imported, were macaroni and similar preparations, of which about 95,000,000 pounds, valued at about $4,000,000, entered the country. In explanation of this large import, attention is called to the fact that the immigrants from southern Europe, particularly Italy, prefer the product of their native country. Thirty million pounds of macaroni are produced in the United States. The manufacturers urged that no change in duty be made and congress respected their wishes.

Rice Rates Remain Same.

The rice industry has greater claims to protection than the other cereals, in view of the fact that something like 55,000,000 pounds of the raw product and 140,000,000 pounds of rice flour, meal, etc. are imported annually. The duties upon rice remain as under the Dingley law.

An urgent demand was made upon congress to change the duties on live animals. During the banner year of 1907 these imports amounted to less than $2,000,000. Consequently the duties were prohibitory. The attention of congress was called to the fact that beef on the hoof ranges from 2 to 4 cents in Central America and is not much higher in some of the other cattle raising countries of South America.

The total number of oxen and other cattle

TARIFF WAR IS ON, CUMMINS ASSERTS

WANT CONTROL OF PARTY

Aligned for Battle Against Element Represented in Congress by Nelson W. Aldrich.

War to the limit, with no quarter asked or given, and with the control of the Republican national organization the one great prize at stake, is officially declared by the "progressive" Republicans.

The Republican national convention of 1912 is the promised field of the most spectacular battle of the campaign already initiated. The tariff and how to revise it furnishes the line of demarcation between the opposing forces.

Senator Albert B. Cummins of Iowa, homeward bound from Washington, at Congress hotel yesterday afternoon, flung down the gauntlet and for all practical purposes officially and formally delivered the political ultimatum which opens hostilities between the progressive and the old order which has aligned itself behind the banner carried in Washington by Senator Nelson W. Aldrich.

Tariff the Republican Issue.

"The Democratic party has demonstrated thoroughly its innocuous inability to be trusted with the formulation of a tariff law for the United States," said Senator Cummins. "I do not foresee any serious possibility of a Democratic congressional or national victory because of the passage of the new tariff law. Any Republican law based upon the underlying principle of protection is preferable to any Democratic law based upon the principle of tariff for revenue. All Republicans will fight together when danger of a Democratic congress heaves in sight.

"In my judgment, the tariff never again will be an issue between the Republican and Democratic parties. It is the decisive issue between the two well defined elements within the Republican party. It is an issue which must and I believe will be settled definitely at the next national convention."

The Iowa senator talked candidly and freely of the campaign plans of the progressive wing of republicanism. He held nothing in reserve and evidently spoke as one of authority within the ranks of the senators and representatives who believe the Payne tariff bill does not keep the pledges made in the Chicago platform of 1908.

Program of the Progressives.

The big items emphasized by Senator Cummins as critical points to be pushed to the fore by the progressives are these:

1. Placing in control at the head of organized republicanism men who will stand absolutely by platform pledges.

2. Struggle for this policy at every convention, local, congressional or state between now and 1912 where there are enough progressive Republicans to make it worth while.

3. No general revision of the tariff for perhaps a decade, but revision from time to time in particular schedules, as expert investigation demonstrates to be necessary and at the same time conforming with the broad principle of protection.

4. Appointment of an expert tariff commission at the earliest practicable moment to furnish this information to congress.

5. And particularly—no opposition to President Taft, whom the progressives believe to have a thoroughly progressive program in hand for his administration—at least until the presidential policy demonstrates the contrary.

Campaign Is Under Way.

Senator Cummins followed this outline of policy with the statement that the campaign had begun; that the battle in congress and the roll call when some of the progressives openly went on record in opposition to the tariff bill as framed were integral and well defined strategical moves on the part of the progressives, and that he, for one, is prepared to immediately enter upon a speaking campaign in behalf of the general policy of the progressives. As for other progressives—known in Washington as the "insurgents"—they can speak for themselves, he declared.

"Is the tariff law such a one as can be indorsed by an Iowa Republican state convention?" he was asked.

"That is hardly a question for me to answer at this time," he replied. "I have every confidence in President Taft. I believe he has an administrative policy thoroughly progressive. The tariff law is a Republican law and superior to any that could be framed by the Democrats. In my judgment President Taft will demand that it be administered fairly and equitably. With his coöperation, an expert tariff commission can be secured which will furnish absolute and unchallengeable figures upon the actual cost of production of commodities in the United States and in foreign nations. Upon these figures the tariff schedules can be revised systematically where revision is necessary, always maintaining the protection principle."

States the Issue Flatly.

"What immediate step will be taken by the progressives?"

"We shall present the issue flatly to every Republican convention between the present and the national convention of 1912, where it is possible for the issue to be presented. That issue is: Shall the men now in control of party destinies be permitted further to disregard plain party declarations?"

Senator Cummins was emphatic in declaring that President Taft had exhausted every resource at his command in attempting to obtain honest tariff revision, such as had been offered in the Chicago platform, and that no blame justly attaches to the president because of the failure of congress to enact a law different from the Payne law.

The senator will depart for Des Moines this morning. It is his first trip to Iowa since he was elected to the senate for the long term last January. As to Iowa politics, he said:

"Never has there been a greater spirit of harmony within the Republican party in Iowa than at present. The party is thoroughly united. There will be no factional attempt to defeat men because they are 'progressives' or because they are 'standpatters.' Iowa is in a state of absolute political peace."

Senator Cummins dined with Senator William E. Borah of Idaho. During the evening in his apartments he was visited by several western congressmen on their journey home.

GEORGE W. JACKSON "STUNG"

BEAT VANDERBILT TO IT.

Country Dealer Arrested Declares Animal Sound When Sold.

"Do unto your neighbor as he would do you; but do it fust."

The foregoing sentiment as a guide for horse traders from a novel that was popular a few years ago has been running through the mind of George W. Jackson for several weeks.

About the middle of June Mr. Jackson bought a horse which he intended to enter at the Lake Forest horse show. Reginald Vanderbilt was anxious to purchase the same animal, but Mr. Jackson executed a coup by offering D. W. Hogan, owner of the horse, $100 more than the Vanderbilt bid.

Mr. Jackson counted out $1,500 into Mr. Hogan's hand and the latter, flinging the halter strap toward the purchaser remarked:

"The hoss is yours. There isn't a better piece of hoss flesh that stands on four feet. You've got a bargain, Mr. Jackson, and, take my word for it, there won't be any other hoss in it at the Lake Forest show."

But the horse was not among the Jackson entries. His Highness and Lady Churchill and Firefly were all at the show, and all of them won prizes for their owner, Mr. Jackson. The "Hogan" horse—the one that was going to carry away all the prizes—was munching hay in the Jackson stables, and never got any nearer to Lake Forest than Blue Island avenue.

Jackson Says He Was "Stung."

Mr. Jackson says he was "stung" in the deal. That is the only word that can adequately express his feelings.

Instead of being a "show" horse, sound in limb and body, and without a blemish, the animal, Mr. Jackson says, would look good hitched to a milk wagon. In some respects the horse is "classy," but Mr. Jackson asserts that it has string halt.

He went to Hogan, the former owner of the animal, and demanded the return of his $1,500, but Hogan, who has ideas somewhat like David Harum's, refused to "trade back."

"The hoss didn't have string halt or anything else when you bought it," said Hogan. "and I don't see why I should give you back the money you paid."

That was Hogan's ultimatum, and just to see if there was any law in this land that could make the former owner refund the purchase price, Mr. Jackson caused his arrest on a charge of obtaining money by false pretenses.

Detectives Bring Hogan In.

Armed with the warrant, Detective Du Bach of the Central station went out to the peaceful town of Byron, Ill., last Saturday night and brought Hogan to Chicago. On their arrival at the Harrison street police station early yesterday morning Hogan sent for A. B. Perrigo, an undertaker, who signed a $2,500 bond for his appearance in court this morning.

"That was as fine a hoss as ever a man drew rein over when I sold it to Mr. Jackson," said the Byron horse breeder. "Mr. Vanderbilt wanted to get it for $1,400 and I said 'No, he's worth $1,500 if he's worth a cent.'

"Mr. Jackson heard about the hoss and came down to see it. Later he sent two or three experts out to my place, and on their advice, I understand, the hoss was bought.

"If the hoss has got string halt it got it after it left my place in Byron. I'm willing to leave the matter to a committee of hoss men, and I'll bet a peck of oats the decision will be in my favor."

SECOND BLACK HAND WARNING FOLLOWS EXPLOSION OF BOMB

Tony Tavolacci, Whose Store Was Wrecked, Goes to Place Designated, but No One Comes for Money.

"Black hand" threats have been made against Tony Tavolacci, who was made the victim of a bomb explosion early in the morning of July 21. Tavolacci keeps a grocery at 123 West Erie street and lives in the rear with his family. He received two letters demanding $500 and when he failed to respond a bomb was exploded in front of his store, wrecking the two show windows and throwing sleepers out of bed. The police arrested several suspects, but they were discharged.

Last Tuesday Tavolacci received another letter which read in part as follows:

"We will give you one last warning. If no one calls at your store before Sunday, come to Chicago avenue and Larrabee street Sunday night at 9 o'clock and have the money, $500, with you. If you care anything for your family, you had better be on time."

This letter was signed with a black hand and a picture of a bomb.

Tavolacci turned the letter over to the police and last night six detectives from the Chicago avenue station were stationed in close proximity to Chicago avenue and Larrabee street and Tavolacci stood on the corner for over an hour, but no one approached him. The police will keep Tavolacci's store under guard, fearing another bomb.

WOMAN 86 YEARS OLD SWIMS AND DIVES LIKE A REAL SEAL.

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—During the last week the summer cottagers along the Rye beach coast, among whom are many expert swimmers, have gathered at Wallis Sands to witness the feats performed by Mrs. Patrick Burns of Dover, N. H. Mrs. Burns, who is 86 years old, has no equal as a swimmer at these beaches, and takes a dip in the waters of the Atlantic every fair day.

The daily sea bath has been her custom for years and no life saver on the coast can teach her anything about cleaving the waves. She is an artist at floating, diving, and swimming on her back, and is as graceful in the water as a seal. She delights mostly in diving, and can make as pretty a plunge as the instructor in a swimming pool.

Recently a girl bather at one of the beaches lost a valuable back comb from her hair and several of the men in the water at the time attempted to recover it, but failed. Mrs. Burns then came on the scene and after a few graceful dives brought up the lost article, while the crowd on shore vigorously applauded her act. She resides on Chapel street in Dover.

Following one of the most oppressive nights of the summer, the thermometers of Chicago got a good start yesterday morning, and before they stopped climbing the hottest day of the season was registered, with a maximum temperature of 93 degrees above zero as shown by the weather bureau figures. Thermometers in the downtown streets were several degrees above that. Notwithstanding the excessive heat, only one prostration was reported.

The hottest previous day of the season was July 29, when a temperature of 92.4 degrees was registered. Despite the excessive torridity of last week, it was one of the healthiest weeks of an unusually healthy summer, according to the city health department.

"Slight changes in temperature, but inclining to somewhat cooler," is the equivocal language which was employed by the weather bureau in a promise of some relief from the excessive heat for today.

Chicago's population sought the water for relief from the sweltering heat, which a high degree of humidity made hard to bear. Children by hundreds waded in the pools of every park in the city, and thousands went to the bathing beaches for a refreshing swim.

Thousands at the Beaches.

At the Wilson avenue beach it was said in the evening that more than five thousand persons had patronized the place during the day. The same number of persons bathed at the north shore beach and the Leland, Clarendon, Twenty-second street, Manhattan, and other beaches also had the record breaking patronage of the summer.

But children in the parks seemed to enjoy the water sports most keenly. They splashed in the pools, some in a diffident sort of way, but the majority with an abandon which showed that their chief object was, as one little chap put it, "to get wet and stay wet." The boys wrestled in the water, and only shouts of laughter followed the dozens of duckings which many were subjected to by their companions. The little girls, too, splashed about in bare limbs, browned by the sun, in a way that showed they enjoyed the cool water quite as much as their brothers.

The one heat prostration victim was Mrs. Annie Larson, 32 years old, 719 Foster avenue, who was overcome in the afternoon at Argyle and Evanston avenues. She was taken to her residence.

Great Crowds Cross Lake.

It is estimated that over 18,000 Chicagoans took advantage of the hot weather and crossed the lake on excursion boats.

Every pleasure boat leaving the city was tested to its capacity by the crowds. The steamer Roosevelt had to send its overflow party to Michigan City on the steamer United States. Many weary husbands arrived at the dock too late to board the former boat and had to take passage on the United States. At times these marooned benedicts would parade about the deck singing, "Hurrah, hurrah, my wife's on the Roosevelt with the lunch."

In Michigan City the Woodmen of the World held their annual field day. Four special excursion trains carried Chicago members of the order to that town and many reached the scene of festivities by water.

The weekly bulletin, issued by the health department in the evening, indicated the general death rate and infant mortality rate had been the lowest on record during the last week.

"The mortality record of the week just closed is a continuation of this most gratifying condition," said the bulletin. "The general death rate of the week was 12.33 per 1,000 of population on a per anum basis, this being 15.5 per cent lower than the usual rate of this season.

"The total deaths of the last week, 526, were 131 fewer than the corresponding week of last year; the child mortality under 5 years of age was 108 lower; the diarrheal deaths were 72 fewer, and there were 5 fewer deaths from typhoid fever."

SWELTER IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 8.—Pennsylvania is again sweltering under a record breaking hot wave. Reports from cities both east and west of the Alleghenies tell of the suddenly oppressive heat. At Scranton the thermometer registered 94 degrees, a new record for the year, while at Williamsport the mercury jumped from 61 to 94, breaking the record for this summer. Both Altoona and Johnstown sizzled with the thermometer touching 96, the high record of the year.

KICKS HIS RESCUER; RUNS AWAY

Chinaman Mistakes Man Who Saved Him from Robbers for a Footpad and Attacks Him.

C. E. Rogers was awakened early yesterday morning by a noise under his room window at 141 East Chicago avenue. When he looked out the window he saw three men in the act of robbing a Chinaman. He dressed and rushed to the rescue of the victim.

When Rogers opened the door of his home the robbers ran south in Orleans street. Rogers approached the Chinaman, who suspected that his rescuer was a robber, and struck him in the face.

The attack was so unexpected that Rogers fell and the Chinaman kicked him several times in the side and then ran away.

Rogers said last evening that he would not rescue any more Chinese.

WARNING NOTE FOR BLONDES

Expert Fears They Will Be Wiped Out in Favor of Brunettes.

CLEW IN PRISON FIGURES.

Thirst for Drink and Crime Tendency Found in Climate.

New York, Aug. 8.—[Special.]—A startling warning to blue eyed, light complexioned persons is uttered by Dr. Charles E. Woodruff, surgeon and major in the United States army, who has just completed a private tour of the prisons and asylums of the city and state. Jails and other institutions, he says, are full of blondes who are unable to stand the struggle for existence in a climate to which they are unfitted and have fallen into poverty, disease, and crime.

What is true of New York, he says, is true of the country as a whole, and unless the blond American finds or adopts some better means of survival than he has at present he will be wiped out as a type in favor of the brunette.

The great trouble is the sunshine. There is too much of it in America for the blonde, says Dr. Woodruff. It breaks down their nervous systems, renders them unstable morally as well as physically, and makes them peculiarly liable to the ravages of consumption and other deadly ailments.

Gives Figures on Hair Color.

In Clinton prison, says Dr. Woodruff, where the worst classes of criminals are confined and where he expected to find the place full of modern "blackbeards," he was astonished at the large number of blondes, some of them of a light type.

Of 253 convicts whose hair color was available for comparison, there were nineteen with light hair, sixty-one with light brown, sixty-one with dark, and 112 with black.

Of nearly 5,000 men whose average age was under 21, admitted to Elmira reformatory, Dr. Woodruff found types and classified themselves as follows as to their hair: Blonde, 318; red, 90; sandy, 103; light brown, 1,203; dark brown, 1,449; black, 1,406.

Of the 602 aged paupers on Blackwell's island, says Dr. Woodruff, only one-fourth are native born. Drink had broken most of them down, and from this Dr. Woodruff argues that the underlying nervous cause of alcoholism is far more prevalent in blondes than in brunettes in New York City.

Alcoholic Thirst Explained.

The thirst for alcohol, Dr. Woodruff says, is merely the expression of a nervous weakness acquired under America's sunny skies and resulting from excessive stimulation of light as one of a thousand causes.

Of ninety paupers in Boston institutions Dr. Woodruff says he found the same general trend in a city markedly more blond than New York.

Thus, he says, unfavorable climatic factors are causing unfitness for survival in the race types in America too far misplaced from their ancestral climatic conditions. This process of elimination among human beings, he says, differs in no respect from that which goes on among irrigated plants and lower animals.

The native born, he says, furnish the great majority of the blue eyed professional criminals in New York. In Clinton prison 88 per cent of the tuberculosis criminals are native born.

BOY AND SISTER MISSING; POLICE SEARCH FOR THEM.

They Leave Home for Trip Downtown and Fail to Return—Mother Becomes Alarmed.

The police of the Cragin police station were asked yesterday to search for John Nehrkorn, 16 years old, and his sister, Minnie, 13 years old, who left their home at Fisk street and Grand avenue on Saturday to go to a downtown department store.

When they did not return Saturday night their mother supposed they had staid with friends. When they failed to appear in the morning she became alarmed and notified the police.

John is described as about 5 feet 3 inches in height and slimly built. He is light complexioned. He was dressed in a gray suit. His sister is of medium height, with light hair. She wore a large white hat trimmed with daisies and a brown skirt and a white waist.

ADDER'S STING OUTCLASSED BY THIS BARREL OF BEER.

Host at Pennsylvania Beerfest Now Fleeing Before Wrath of His Erstwhile Guests.

Aspinwall, Pa., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—The friends of Stephen Swartz today discovered that the contents of a beer barrel sometimes stingeth like five hundred adders.

Swartz often has been the butt of practical jokes. Today he telephoned for his friends to join him in disposing of a barrel of beer near town.

On their arrival the friends found Swartz sitting by a cool looking keg with a large ice cake on top. Steve asked another to pour and excused himself for a moment.

Unable to resist temptation until Steve's return, a guest pulled the stopper from the keg and loosed two pecks of mad bees into the air. Five hundred stings were inflicted on Swartz's friends inside the next two minutes. The bees had been imprisoned by Steve while they were swarming yesterday.

MANY WITNESS LAKE BURIAL.

Passengers Sing "Nearer, My God, to Thee" as Woman's Ashes Are Dropped from Boat.

Hundreds of passengers bound for St. Joseph, Mich., sang "Nearer, My God, to Thee," yesterday noon when the ashes of Mrs. Rosa Peyton were lowered in midlake from the stern of the boat City of Chicago.

It was the woman's dying wish that she might be buried near the spot in the lake where her husband lost his life when the ill fated Alpena sank twenty-nine years ago. The City of Chicago was directed north of its usual course and when a point about midway between Chicago and St. Joseph was reached the boat was brought to a halt.

A prayer was offered and the boat's orchestra struck up the popular hymn. The passengers crowded at the stern of the boat and sang as the ashes, incased in a small, metal box, were lowered into the water.

MAY BURY GHOST OF STRIKE TODAY

Both Sides Expect Negotiations to Pave Way for Settlement of Street Railway Wage Dispute.

FORECAST PEACE TERMS.

Faster Cars and Slightly Higher Pay, with Men and Companies Co-operating, Are Discussed.

MILESTONES OF PEACE IN STREET CAR CRISIS.

CONFERENCE between City Railway employes and Thomas E. Mitten, president of the company, today expected to result in specific offer embodying rewards for older men and incentives for co-operation of younger men in wage scale designed to insure against strike trouble for a long period into the future.

SIMILAR proposal looked for from conferences planned between employes of north and west side lines and John M. Roach of Railways company.

M. C. BUCKLEY, president of union of City Railway employes, pointed straw of peace by indicating that his union will waive demands for a closed shop if agreement with company otherwise satisfactory to men is consented to by Mr. Mitten.

EFFORTS continued by officials of unions of employes of the two big traction companies to keep employes of South Chicago and Calumet line from accepting offers of an increase of wages made by Mr. Mitten on Saturday until an agreement practically amounting to a joint contract on the part of the unions and the three companies shall have been consummated.

PRESIDENTS of unions of employes of all three companies will hold a joint meeting at 70 La Salle street this morning to discuss union plans.

HOPE expressed by union heads that today's conferences with traction officials will see the trouble "all over but the shouting."

The crisis may be passed today in the dispute between Chicago's traction companies and their 9,000 employés who have voted for a strike.

Two important conferences which are expected to result either in agreements virtually meaning peace or in conciliatory messages requiring only a few days for the unions to digest are scheduled.

One of these conferences is to take place this afternoon in the office of Thomas E. Mitten, president of the City railway, between the traction head and the wage scale committee of the union street car men of the south side. It is expected that Mr. Mitten will furnish proposals in detail to the men which may afford a basis for a lasting peace agreement to extend over a long term of years, insuring freedom from strike conditions for a period extending well into the future.

Union leaders believe that in general it will provide for substantial recognition for men who have been for a long time with the company and will dangle rewards for continued service before the younger men of the company. Traction officials are working with the view of consummating an agreement that in return for an increase in the emoluments of the older men in the service and a wage system carrying general encouragement will insure the coöperation of the men in the cutting down of operating expenses while bettering the service to the public.

Conference with Roach.

The other conference referred to is expected to take place this forenoon between John M. Roach of the Railways company and the employés of the north and west side lines in the former's office. Mr. Roach visited his office yesterday with another representative of the Railways company while the computations of his auditors respecting the possibilities of cutting down the length of layovers at the ends of lines and the increasing of the speed of the cars with coöperation with the men continued.

The Railways company expects to make proposals to its men in line with the moves of the City Railway company. From the beginning of the trouble it has been an axiom in "strike" discussions that "Mr. Roach will do whatever the City company will do."

Walter L. Fisher, special traction counsel for the city, will attend both meetings. He has been appointed by the mayor to attend all conferences between street car employés and traction officials, with full power to act as the official representative of the city, which is a silent partner of the railway companies, receiving a percentage of their earnings. At his house in Winnetka Mr. Fisher characterized the general situation from his point of view as presenting an aspect for peace "distinctly favorable."

Fisher Pleases Both Sides.

It appeared from expressions received in confidence and otherwise during the day from traction officials and union labor men that Mr. Fisher has "made a hit" with both sides in the controversy.

The majority of the employes of the companies consider that he is disposed to stand for higher wages for the street car men, while on the other hand, the traction officials may find in Mr. Fisher an individual who can lighten their responsibilities in the ultimate settlement with their employés. The representatives of the South Chicago and Calumet men who on Saturday received an offer of a raise in pay to the scale of the City railway men appeared highly satisfied with Mr. Fisher as the representative of the city's interests.

As in the case of scheduled conferences between officials and employes of the larger companies, Mr. Fisher will attend the meeting when the South Chicago and Calumet men bring the answer of their union to Mr. Mitten. If a meeting of the union in South Chicago is held tonight as scheduled, the answer of the South Chicago and Calumet men to the offer of Mr. Mitten should be in the traction man's hands by tomorrow afternoon.

President B. A. Carter of the union and his aids were of the opinion, however, that it may be found necessary to delay the meeting a day or two, placing the answer to Mr. Mitten on next Wednesday or Thursday. In the meantime, the officials of the unions of employes of the two big traction companies are urging the South Chicago and Calumet men to stay "in line" for an agreement amounting to a joint contract, uniform, or practically so, covering all the companies.

Union Presidents to Meet.

At a meeting of union presidents to be held at 70 La Salle street this morning the general idea of a uniform agreement and the points the union men think should be embodied in such an agreement will be talked over. Then President William Quinlan of the union of employés of the Railways company will depart to communicate with Mr. Roach at the latter's office between 10 and 11 o'clock. Only the failure of Mr. Roach's auditor to complete his figures in time will prevent a conference so far as was ascertained from union and company sources.

It is probable that the idea of trying a joint meeting of unionists with traction heads sitting en banc will be postponed pending the efforts of the respective union committees with the respective heads of the companies for which they work. The meeting with Mr. Mitten scheduled for the afternoon admittedly will be representative of the attitude of all the traction companies towards their employés.

The executive board of the south side employés will meet at the union headquarters at Thirty-ninth and State streets at 1:30 this afternoon to determine the conduct of the committee which later will meet with Mr. Mitten.

Day of Quiet for Leaders.

Mr. Mitten spent the day at Highland Park, while Mr. Roach went to the same northern suburb after the visit to his office in Chicago.

Both President Buckley of the south side union and President Quinlan of the north and west side union spent the day at home resting in a quiet way, preparing for today's conferences with the two traction heads.

Hopefulness of an amicable settlement within a few days was the keynote of statements made by President Buckley. He declared that the program of the leaders is for demanding identical agreements for both the employés of the Chicago Railways company and the Chicago City Railway company, or as nearly identical as would be consistent with the minor differences in the mode of operation of the two systems.

He stated that in his opinion such contracts can be formulated by committees of each division in conference with their respective traction heads without the necessity of seeking joint conferences. He pointed out that each committee will know what is done by the other through the presence of Mr. Fisher, who will represent the city at all meetings covering the wage negotiations.

Want Barn Men Advanced.

The committee of the south side men also will urge a raise in wages for the barn men of the City Railway company to a level equal to the scale paid barn men of the Chicago Railways company.

"I am pleased with the progress of the negotiations so far," said President Buckley. "It looks favorable for a peaceable solution of the difficulty. Of course, we can not say much until we see what Mr. Mitten is willing to do, though it appears to me that if all goes right at the conference we ought to be able to settle up within a few days.

"Both the other men and I are pleased with Mr. Fisher. He took hold of the matter in such a way as to inspire confidence in the men that he aims to do what is right. The way he talked in Mr. Mitten's office on Saturday leads me to believe that he is our friend.

"We shall go into the conference prepared to present our demands as the members want them presented. One thing we shall insist on is an identical agreement for our men and for the men on the Chicago Railways lines. Of course, there will be some minor differences, but in the main they should be alike, especially with reference to wages and duration of contract.

"We are not so particular about the plan for joint conferences, although if they can be obtained we shall accept them with pleasure.

Closed Shop Minor Matter.

"As to the demand for a closed shop on the lines of the City Railway company, that is not a matter of great importance. A vast majority of the men on the lines are organized anyway and those who are not our members are coming into the union rapidly. For that reason we shall not insist that the closed shop demand be granted, if other concessions of a valuable nature are offered, as the system within a year from now practically will be a closed shop.

"One of the minor things we shall ask for, however, is that a verbal agreement be given us that the barn men on the south side lines be given the same rate of wages as is paid the barn men of the Chicago Railways company. There is no reason for the discrepancy. The work is the same on both lines.

"We don't want to arbitrate this question, if we can settle it by conferences. Arbitration generally is of doubtful value in disputes of this kind. It being much better and more satisfactory to all concerned to reach a settlement witnout it. Another thing, arbitration always is an extremely expensive method of settling anything.

"From present indications, I believe we all will know where we are by Monday night. I am hopeful of the outcome. It looks to me as though we might settle the whole thing at once if Monday's conferences come up to the expectation of the men."

Tabor Also Encouraged.

William Taber, financial secretary and business agent of division 241, was the only officer of the north and west side men's union who appeared at the union headquarters at 70 La Salle street during the day. He spent most of the afternoon at the office going over the books of the organization.

"Things look good for an early settlement," said Taber, stopping his work for a moment. "Mr. Roach told us on Saturday that he will prepare figures to present to us at the next meeting, and we are awaiting his proposition. Of course, Mr. Roach always has stated that he will do as well by us as Mr. Mitten will do by his men.

"The employés on the lines of the Chicago Railways company have the greatest confidence in Mr. Roach. We have yet to record a single instance in which Mr. Roach has failed to keep what he promises."

The meeting with Mr. Roach will be held late in the morning, either in the Borland block or at 444 North Clark street. In addition to President Quinlan, those on the committee will be John H. Larkin, Secretary Taber, and Louis Blesch. The committee that will meet with President Mitten will be made up of President Buckley of division 260, Herman Sieloff, J. T. Mahoney, and C. E. Casper.

Suggestion to Arbitrators.

Ben F. Shadley, chairman of the Illinois state board of arbitration, has received the following suggestion from Henry T. Brown, 189 La Salle street, for adjusting the dispute between the traction companies and their employés:

"Realizing that this contemplated street railway strike is a pretty serious matter and sincerely hoping for prompt, intelligent action on the part of those on whom pending negotiations depend, permit me to offer some suggestions which, if mutually agreed upon by the companies, the men, and the city as an interested party, I am inclined to think will enable the companies and the employés to work together more harmoniously in the future, create a better feeling on the part of the men, minimize the danger of strikes and resulting annoyance to the general public.

"The plan I should adopt and which I advocate is the following:

"Get the railway companies to simplify their method of doing business with their employés by entering into an agreement to classify their employés into three classes—viz: first year men, second year men, and third year men.

Grade Wages; Drop Transfers.

"All first year men to receive 25 cents per hour, all second year men to receive 27½ cents per hour, and all third year and over men to receive 30 cents an hour, make the settlement henceforth by grading their present force and adjusting all future salaries accordingly. Retain the open shop principle and induce the city administration to drop all that unwise and unnecessary talk about routes and universal transfers. The public is not clamoring for it. Give the companies a show—a chance to treat their men decently."

MADDEN'S STRIKE TO PROVE FUTILE

Union Men Who Repudiated Czar Will Stick to Work on Argo Plant.

MORE UNIONS QUIT HIM.

Desertions from Authority of Convicted Labor Leader Still Continue.

Contractors on construction work at the new plant of the Corn Products Refining company at Argo announced yesterday that there will be no cessation of work on account of the strike of machinists, plumbers, boilermakers, and helpers called by Martin B. ("Skinny") Madden.

Both the contractors and the leaders of the new building trades section of the American Federation of Labor are determined to frustrate Madden's plan of forcing out of work at the plant, by means of the strike, those trades which have deserted the convicted "labor czar" and affiliated with the new organization.

Crafts still at work on certain construction operations at Argo are the steamfitters, structural iron workers, cement finishers, carpenters, plasterers, and sheet metal workers. All these unions now are represented in the new building trades organization and the contractors insist that these trades shall remain at work in spite of the strike.

More Unions Desert Madden.

Unless the row is settled, the fight against Madden probably will be taken before the meeting of the new building trades section next Thursday evening. Four additional building trades unions have made application for affiliation with the new central body.

Officers of the Structural Iron Workers' union notified "Skinny" Madden's Associated Building Trades of their withdrawal from that body. Madden refused to accept the withdrawal, declaring the proposition had not been presented in a "legal" manner. The union, however, will quit anyway and ignore Madden's technicalities.

Madden adherents learned with dismay that the appeal of Fred A. Pouchot, convicted with "Skinny" Madden of extortion, to nullify the election of Thomas Walsh, who defeated Pouchot for business agent of the Sheet Metal Workers' union, and reinstate him in the office, was turned down by the international convention of the union at Denver.

Orders $2,400 Assessment.

An assessment of $2,400 has been ordered by Madden against the building laborers' union. Madden declares that the money is levied for the purpose of reimbursing the Associated Building Trades for "unionizing" the building construction work at Argo.

The claim is looked upon as a joke by labor leaders, who declare that the Argo plant was unionized voluntarily by the company following the disposal of the alleged peonage charge investigated by the federal grand jury last fall and found to be groundless. It is said that the building laborers' union has paid $1,200 of the assessment and that Madden hopes to force the organization to pay the remainder.

Want Women to Join Parade.

If plans made by the Women's Trade Union league at its annual outing during the day are realized the Labor day parade this year will have the hearty support of 500 feminine wageearners in the city. Final details were not arranged at the meeting in Jackson Park. Because of the heat the various games and races were called off and a launch ride taken instead. The only feature of the program that was retained was the relating by Mrs. Raymond Robins of the story of "Karin."

A circular has been prepared asking the women to join in the parade on Sept. 6.

"We believe, in order to make the most effective and beautiful showing in this year's Labor day procession," says the circular, "the women ought to be together in one division, as they were last year, in the open bandwagon. If the members of your union are going to take part in a body, won't they ride in the women's division led by the Women's Trade Union league?"

Miss Emma Steghagen, secretary, is supervising the affair. Since the women have taken to hockey, one wagon will be filled with stars of this game. It is expected that a "float" will be at the head of the women's division.

OHIO PASTOR FLAYS CHURCH HE ACCUSED OF STINGINESS.

Minister Tells Congregation That He Has Been Insulted Because of Rebuke in Sermon.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—The Rev J. Spencer Smith, of the Methodist Episcopal church at Westchester, O., which is one of the three villages at each of which he delivers sermons on alternate Sundays, preached a much heralded sermon tonight before an attendance which packed the little Westchester edifice.

Last Sunday, the Rev. Mr. Smith in his sermon arraigned the Westchester congregation for neglecting to pay him sufficient salary for a decent living for himself and family. He said the sum total of salary paid him for some time past did not average two dollars a week.

The Rev. Mr. Smith took for his topic "Why Westchester Church Is Failing." The pastor said one of the great reasons for the lack of the spiritual and other growth of the church was negligence and lack of system in handling finances. He spoke of the recent ice cream festival which had been undertaken as a benefit of the church and which turned out to be a financial loss. He alluded also to the unseemly actions of some persons of the congregation in recently entering his residence in his absence and taking some Chinees lanterns from it to use in decorating the lawn for the fete.

He said that one of the elders of the congregation had, since last Sunday's sermon, called him, the Rev. Mr. Smith, to his face, a "pip." This insult was all the more keenly felt, he said, because the speaker's wife was with him when the elder called him the name.

Mr. Smith said the congregation might possibly "close the doors of the church against me but they can't close my mouth."

USE KNIFE TO RECOVER TEETH.

Pennsylvanian, Drinking Pop, Swallows False Molars, and Doctors Operate on Him.

Punxsutawney, Pa., Aug. 8.—Few physicians ever operated upon a man with the same object as did the doctors at the Adrian hospital today, when an abdominal incision was made on Peter Jackson. Jackson, while drinking a bottle of pop, dislodged his false teeth and swallowed them. A physician, unable to recover the molars, forced them into the man's stomach and then rushed him to the hospital, where the operation was performed. Jackson is in a critical condition.

SAYS BOTH LOSE IN STRIKE.

Bishop Fallows Believes Spirit of Fairness Will Prevail and Avert Struggle.

Possibility of a strike of Chicago's traction employés was discussed by Bishop Samuel Fallows yesterday morning in a sermon in St. Paul's Reformed Episcopal church.

"It is the fervent prayer of all who wish well for Chicago that the threatened strike of the employés of our city railway systems may be averted," he said. "A strike means war; too often it borders upon anarchy.

"Both sides will be sure to lose in the end by a strike. We must not have one. We will not have one, for I believe the spirit of fairness will prevail."

The above picture of children wading in the McKinley park pool represents a typical scene in Chicago yesterday, when the temperature mounted to the 93 mark. Those children who could not reach the lake shore flocked to the numerous parks throughout the city.

DENVER A ROARING VENICE

TWO MEN SAVE MANY LIVES.

Cool Action of Heroes Timely in Picturesque Flood.

Denver, Colo., Aug. 8—[Special.]—The most destructive flood ever known in Denver was caused by a cloudburst late last night. The downpour filled a dry gulch on the west side and sent a wave thirty to fifty feet high, covered with wreckage, into a settlement in West Colfax avenue.

Scores of persons narrowly escaped death. Nearly 1,000 were driven from their homes and damage estimated at $100,000 was done.

Sam H. Berg, a hero of the Slocum disaster, was early on the scene and risked his life to save many from death. The other hero of the calamity was J. R. Garren.

Rides Ahead of Flood, Warning.

Riding horseback ahead of the torrent which swept down into the homes of hundreds of West Colfax residents, Garren shouted warnings. At the more dangerous spots he stopped and urged householders to hurry to the hills. He saved many lives.

Berg and Police Sergeant Battle entered the most dangerous section of the flood, waving their lanterns and calling to women and children. They urged them to remain in the houses or on the roofs until the water subsided.

This cool headed action was most timely, as many imagined the waters would eventually sweep them off their perches, and were preparing to jump into the flood.

Battle and Berg rescued five members of the Berger family from drowning. The father, mother, and three children were trapped in a low cottage. All had become frantic with fear.

Lineman Catches Human Fish.

A little boy crying for his parents ran upon a bridge just as the flood struck it and was carried away, but a telegraph lineman managed to fish him out with a long wire.

One of the most pathetic incidents of the flood, and an act in which Sam Berg added another life to the long list of those he saved, was the rescue of an old blind woman who was rapidly giving way before the current and would have gone down soon but for the quick work of Berg.

Thousands of chickens and hundreds of horses and cows and many dogs and cats were drowned.

300,000 VISIT ATLANTIC CITY.

Police Ordered Not to Disturb Sleepers on Beach After Hotels Are Filled to Roofs.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—More than 300,000 persons crowded the Atlantic City hotels, boardwalks, and beach between dawn and sundown today. The hotels were compelled to feed their hungry patrons in relays.

Following the rush of yesterday, the police were ordered not to interfere with tired ones who wished to sleep in easy chairs, beach pavilions, or on the beach after their fruitless search for quarters. Hundreds passed the night in this way to be on hand for today.

Fifteen thousand persons were in the surf at noon. The trolley companies brought out their winter cars to handle the surplus traffic.

'BOB' BURDETTE MUCH WORSE

HELD IMMOBILE IN CAST.

Sufferer's Pain Is So Great That Doctors Give Opiates.

Redondo Beach, Cal., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Flat on his back, swathed in bandages and bound by a plaster of paris cast that he must wear for months, Dr. Robert J. Burdette is peaceful and hopeful of his own recovery, although not improved in health today. His friends are more anxious than the famous Baptist preached and humorist, fearing he never will be able to leave his bed.

Injury More Serious than Thought.

Despite Dr. Burdette's cheerfulness, the injury to his spine appears more serious than was first thought, and the family has been called together. Mrs. Burdette, who was completely prostrated at first, has recovered slightly and now is at her husband's bedside. Roy Wheeler, his stepson, arrived today, and other members of the family are expected hourly.

Dr. Burdette's suffering is so acute that his doctors have found it advisable to keep him under the influence of opiates for hours at a time.

Inquiries have come from all over the country asking information regarding the famous preacher's condition.

Hurt Spine at Play.

Dr. Burdette is suffering from the results of a romp with his stepson, Roy Wheeler, just before leaving for New York where he went to address the Newspaper Publishers' association and Associated Press convention. The strain of the trip east proved too much for his injured spine, and after much pain Dr. Burdette was brought back to be operated upon. The physicians, after a consultation, concluded an operation would be useless and decided to try the effects of perfect immobility in a cast so set as to prevent the slightest motion on the part of the patient.

Fall Halts Man's Wedding.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Charles Friend would have been a married man today had he not fallen from a school building he was painting and broken his leg last Thursday. It develops that he had provided a cottage home for Margaret Meechan, and she and her mother and sister had been living there waiting the day of the wedding.

OUTLINE M'CANN DEFENSE TODAY

Lawyers for Indicted Inspector Lay Plans for Alleged Graft Trial.

CALL IT CONSPIRACY.

Several Policemen to Be Called to Stand; Church Folk Will Testify.

Attorneys who will defend Edward McCann, the indicted police inspector, at his trial in September against the charges of alleged graft returned by the recent grand jury, will hold a conference today to arrange the foundation of his defense and classify the other work in preparation for the trial. Besides former Judge Neely, James Hamilton Lewis and W. T. Underwood, his counsel, the indicted police inspector and several of his closest friends will attend the conference.

For the last week the attorneys, McCann, and dozens of his friends have been busy obtaining evidence. This mass of evidence is to be sifted and classified. Much of it will not be used, the attorneys say, as it is simply cumulative and would be only an added burden at the trial of the case which the attorneys are trying to build up along as simple and clear cut lines as possible.

Prepare Their Pleas.

The general line of the defense will be that McCann is the victim of a conspiracy originated and built up by men who formerly lived on the proceeds of west side levee graft and were compelled to quit their dishonest methods when McCann took charge of the district.

Others, it is asserted by McCann's friends, are helping in the plot to convict the inspector because he regulated the vice district and compelled the resort keepers and the inmates of the places to adhere to police regulations.

To counteract the charges of collection of protection money made by certain keepers of resorts, the defense has found many persons of this same class in the district who will give testimony to the effect that no collections of graft were made at the instance of the inspector. Police officers will come to McCann's defense as will dozens of the church and social settlement workers on the west side. In this connection witnesses will be put on the stand to show that the inspector had been practically at the head of the real social settlement campaign in the levee since he took command in the vice district.

His Deeds of Charity.

Specific instances, it is said, will be offered to show that McCann saved many young women from evil lives by his close supervision of the district. Deeds of charity and mercy on the part of the inspector will be related on the stand by women whom the indicted police officer befriended.

While those connected with the state's attorney's office are silent as to the evidence upon which Mr. Wayman expects to convict the police official, broad hints are made that the public knows only a small part of the testimony which will be produced against him. It is said that some police officers will testify for the state.

FLEET READY FOR TARGETS.

Old Point Comfort, Va., Aug. 8.—The Atlantic battle fleet anchored is two long lines in Hampton roads was today the scene of animation, preparations for departure for the hard work on the drill grounds south of the Virginia capes being in progress on board every one of the fifteen big fighting machines.

Contrary to custom, except perhaps in war time, the Sabbath was violated by several of the ships, which were busy all day coaling.

These vessels, the Wisconsin, Kansas, Georgia, and Mississippi, have been ordered to sail for the target range tomorrow afternoon, and it was necessary for them to coal today.

The remainder of the fleet will follow them to the drill grounds as soon as they get their coal on board. The record gun practice for which the gun crews now are preparing will not begin until some time next week. The Rhode Island will be the first ship to have a tryout on the targets.

BIDS FOR TRAFFIC TO ORIENT.

Chicago, Milwaukee and Puget Sound Railway Competes with Canadian Pacific Line.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 8.—The Chicago, Milwaukee and Puget Sound railway, in connection with the Osaka Shonshen Kaisha, has entered into active competition with the Canadian Pacific in bidding for through freight to the orient and for cargo originating in the far east. When its tariff was published the Milwaukee announced a through rate of $1 per 100 pounds on machinery from Chicago to the orient. The Canadian Pacific's rate on this commodity was $1.40. The cut was met at once. The Milwaukee also published a flat rate of $1.50 per 100 pounds on the entire classification of merchandise.

AUTOMOBILE KILLINGS OF YEAR.....133

Turners Falls, Mass., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—A plunge of an automobile over a seventy-five foot bank into the Connecticut river this morning resulted in the death of George Van Dyke, aged 64, of Lancaster, N. H., and his chauffeur, F. B. Hodgdon. Van Dyke was president of the Connecticut Valley Lumber company. While they were watching a logging gang on the river the chauffeur accidentally backed the car over the cliff. Both men were crushed and died within a few minutes. Van Dyke was a native of Canada and organized the lumber concern in 1897.

AUTOMOBILE CATCHES FIRE.

While returning from a concert at Ravinia Park Saturday evening an automobile owned and driven by J. Leonard Undem, 1449 Humboldt boulevard, caught fire from an overflow of gas on the Green Bay road at Glencoe and was completely wrecked before the flames could be extinguished.

In the automobile with Mr. Undem were his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Stenerson of Logan Square. No one was injured.

A locomobile belonging to J. J. Healy, Chicago, was found wrecked on Sixth street, between State and Prairie streets, Milwaukee, yesterday morning. The machine had been stolen from a hotel garage in Oconomowoc Friday night, it is alleged, by two young men.

Two autoists weer arrested in Evanston for exceeding the speed limit during the day. William E. Walker, 38 years old, an architect, 132 Lincoln Park boulevard, was fined $10 by Justice J. F. Boyer. A short time later F. B. Farnsworth, vice president of the Decalcomania company, who lives at 41 Buena avenue, Chicago, was arrested. He gave cash bond and his case was set for hearing tomorrow morning.

MEXICANS LOCK UP AMERICANS.

Mining Engineer Escapes and Reaches Texas After Great Hardships on the Desert.

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—First reports from the little local Mexican revolution at San Carlos in Chihuahua, to the effect that foreigners were not molested, were untrue, according to the story of John Nunn, an American mining engineer, who reached the Chisos mine in Texas today.

Nunn says he was placed in prison with two American companions when the rebels took the town, and they were confined in a dungeon without food or water. They made their escape after three days by overpowering a drunken guard and made their way as best they could across the desert in the direction of the Rio Grande. They had nothing to eat and only a small bottle of water apiece. This soon was exhausted and the men separated. Nunn says there is much feeling in the San Carlos region against Americans.

CHARGED FENCE KILLS TWO.

Victims of St. Paul Fire Leaning Against Wire Barricade When Power Line Falls on It.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 8.—Two men were killed by a live wire and a third was severely burned as a result of a fire tonight in lumber yards between St. Paul and Minneapolis.

The men were leaning against a barb wire fence and watching the fire, when an electric feed wire fell to the ground after the flames had melted its fastenings. In falling it came in contact with the barb wire and sent a charge of 2,200 volts of electricity through Gust Walstrom, aged 21, and Charles Baker, aged 45, killing them instantly. E. Peterson escaped with severe burns on the hands.

The fire destroyed the yards of the St. Croix, the Transfer, and the H. B. Walt lumber companies.

Merry Passengers Get On One Side of Small Boat and Accident Follows.

WOMAN IN DEATH TRAP.

TOTAL DROWNINGS OF YEAR.....369

Toledo, O., Aug. 8.—Two men and one woman were drowned and seven men were rescued under difficult circumstances when a launch containing a gay party of merrymakers capsized in Maumee bay, 500 feet off the Casino, a summer theater, at 4 o'clock this morning. All were residents of Toledo. The dead are Harry Dill and Frank Lehaney, both railway employés, and Mrs. Mabel Hudson, 30 years old.

Dill was the owner of the boat and took out the party of ten men and one woman over the earnest protests of his wife.

Passengers Cause Launch to Upset.

When over the deep channel of the bay, near the Maumee river, the entire party collected on one side of the launch, which rolled over and over four times.

The woman was in the cabin and was unable to get out, although there were evidences of a desperate struggle on her part. Leo Barnes swam ashore and all of the other men were able to regain the overturned boat and cling to it, except Dill and Lehaney, whose bodies were not recovered.

The survivors were rescued by fishermen from the shore. One of the rescuers dove under the overturned craft when it was towed ashore, and recovered Mrs. Hudson's body.

Wife Seeks to Drown Herself.

Dill's young widow was prevented from casting herself into the river at the scene of the catastrophe. She told the officers that her husband rarely went out in the launch without her, but that twice last night he refused her request to return home or take her along, she having sought him on at the Casino, and at her solicitation one woman refused to accompany the party.

Mrs. Dill started out again this morning seeking her husband, and learned of the tragedy from persons discussing it on the car.

This afternoon they went out into Lac La Belle with a raft and Mr. Oliver lost his hold on the raft and slipped into the water. Being unable to swim he drowned before help could reach him, his companions also being unable to swim.

CHIEF'S SHAVE CAUSES SCARE.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Directing his men at a fire in Homestead today, Chief C. K. Bryce of the two fire company, who had rushed to the fire with only one side of his beard shaved, was such a funny sight that persons crowding nearer to get a good view of the chief's tonsorial finish almost hampered the work of the firemen.

The chief was getting shaved when he heard the alarm.

Not waiting to wash the lather from the unshaved side of his face, the chief was quickly on the scene of the fire, where he scared some of the firemen so they could not work for several minutes.

EX-CHIEFS REPINE; 'DO DUTY, BE HATED'

Former Police Heads Define Irony of Fate as Oblivion for Work Well Done.

ALL AGREE WITH HORAN.

Think Public Prejudice Causes Possible Appointee to Hesitate Over Offer.

How many former chiefs of police can you mention?

Mayor Busse is having a hard time naming one chief, but Fire Marshal Horan says the average citizen would have just as hard a time trying to recall the cognomens of half a dozen men who have occupied the place at the head of the police department. A great many people would have difficulty in giving the full names of three of them.

These views were echoed yesterday by some of those men themselves who declared the public memory for a chief was about as long as that for a vice president. Thirteen of them—all but five who have occupied the office, are living, and eleven of them live in Chicago, where their lives are as quiet as those of any other private citizen.

In addition to sharing the fire marshal's views that they "dropped out of sight" when they left office they also share his feeling that the most lasting effect of their police work is found in the enemies they made. They pictured themselves as criticised and denounced during their terms of office and forgotten after their retirement.

Here Are the Unfamiliar Names.

Elmer Washburn, 1871.	1891.

Of the entire list only two—Kipley and O'Neill—were given the honor of reappointment. Only three—O'Neill, Hubbard, and Rehm—receive pensions.

It is the knowledge that the public feeling toward a policeman is one of distrust, criticism, resentment or hatred and that the job is a thankless one at best that is said to be one of the reasons holding back Mayor Busse's favorite for the chief's position from signifying that he will accept the appointment.

This business man—who now is the only rival under consideration in the mayor's mind beside Capt. Samuel B. He is said to be free from political entanglements that might interfere with his independence, and the mayor has unbounded confidence in his ability to run the department better than it ever was run before; but his reluctance to relinquish his present life, coupled with a knowledge that he would be the object of denunciation of all forms during the next two years and that his work—no matter how excellent—would be forgotten after that is said to have held him on the brink of accepting.

Thinks Hate a Compliment.

"A chief of police who wasn't hated wouldn't be much of a chief," said Mr. Doyle, who held the office from 1882 to 1885 and now is managing the affairs of the brewers' exchange, "and it is not a particularly desirable position."

"A chief makes enough enemies to last him the rest of his life," said Mr. O'Neill, who gives most of his time now to his farm at Wheaton. "A man who goes into that place must be prepared for all kinds of criticism and almost no appreciation.

"O'Donnell was appointed to get the mayor out of political difficulties and a month later he was begging to be released. Seavey died after a year of it. Marsh was put nearly down and out by the work. He is living with a son-in-law out in the state of Washington somewhere.

Of the other former chiefs living in Chicago, Rehm has retired from business, Badenoch still is in the grain and feed business on the west side, McGarigle has a saloon at Market and Madison streets, Hubbard spends most of his time in the east, and Collins is in the real estate business in Rogers Park. ELLA GINGLES STARTS HOME

Clubwomen and Orangemen Say Good-By at Railroad Station.

ANXIOUS TO SEE PARENTS.

Irish Girl Calls Chicago Experience "Horrible Dream."

Ella Gingles, the Irish lacemaker, was given a good-by by clubwomen of Chicago and Orangemen yesterday as she left Chicago forever, to return to her old home at Lerna, in County Antrim, Ireland, where she will live with her parents and return to her former work—the making of lace.

The Orangemen of Chicago contributed $1,500 to pay her expenses and those of her traveling companion, Mrs. Grace Van Dusen Cook, who will take the girl to her parents in Ireland. Another $1,500 has been subscribed by the Orangemen for the girl's support when she reaches Ireland.

Miss Gingles left at 3 p. m. over the Michigan Central railroad for New York. She will be met in that city by a delegation of Orangemen, who will cheer her on her journey.

Twenty of the women who were conspicuous in the trial of the girl, a committee of Orangemen, and her attorney, Patrick H. O'Donnell, accompanied Miss Gingles to her train.

Tearful Good-By at Train.

With tears in her eyes the girl said good-by to the women who threw their arms around her neck in turn and kissed her. Her lawyer and the members of the committee of Orangemen shook her hand in parting.

Mrs. Mary Brehm, one of the women who remained loyal to the girl through her trial; R. F. Brown, James Newell, and Frederick D. McKeag, past head grand masters and secretary respectively of the Loyal Orange Institute of America, got on the car and rode with her as far as Sixty-third street.

Miss Gingles had little to say at the station while she was waiting for the train to leave. She wore a plain traveling suit and carried a suit case. Her eyes were red, as if she had been crying, and she appeared nervous and excited.

"I want to go home and back to my parents," she said. "It seems that I have many friends in Chicago now, but the experience I have passed through seems like a horrible dream. I don't know what my father and mother will say when I return to them after all I have gone through since I left."

Thirteen Children in Family.

Miss Gingles' parents live on a farm which they own near the Giants' Causeway in Ireland. There are thirteen children in the family to which the girl will return.

"The Orangemen are sending the girl to her home as they would assist any Irish boy or girl who was in trouble," said John O'Shaughnessy, a past head grand master of the order. "The action does not indicate any belief or disbelief on the part of the lodge members as to the story told by the girl about the attack made upon her in the Wellington hotel.

"We have subscribed $3,000 for her if she needs it because she was an Irish girl. We would do as much for any other Irish girl. We send many of them back to the old country.

"The trouble with Ella Gingles was that she left home and came to America when she didn't know any more about the world than a four-year old American girl. I trust she will be wiser now."

ALLEGED FORGERS START EAST.

Philadelphia Detective Takes Charge of Mother and Daughter—Maid Goes to Washington.

The controversy over the custody of the three women arrested in Chicago on charges of forgery was settled yesterday by Police Lieutenant Cudmore. Detective Doyle of Philadelphia started for the Quaker city in the afternoon with Mrs. M. C. Edwards and her reputed daughter. Detective Sergeant Berman will leave today for Washington with Anna Croake, supposed to be the maid of the mother and daughter.

The women were arrested at the Congress hotel last Thursday night on the advice of Philadelphia authorities. The original complaint was supplemented with requests from Washington, Boston, and Pittsburg.

The Washington detective arrived Saturday and demanded the prisoners, but Capt. O'Brien could not see it that way. He said that Philadelphia had put in the original claim. When Detective Doyle arrived he produced warrants only for the reputed mother and daughter, and said he was not particular about the maid because the case against her was none too strong. The Washington detective preferred to take Miss Croake to going back alone.

BEER FREE TO OLD SETTLERS

RECALL OLD GLENCOE DAYS.

Father of Eighteen Children Among Those Present at Meeting.

The old settlers of Glencoe assembled yesterday afternoon and evening in Hohlfelder's grove, near the suburb, and had an old time picnic. There were games for the children, dancing for the young folk, and two score or more of pioneers of the village sat around and chatted of incidents in the days of the Indians a half century ago.

Although the picnic was held in Glencoe, which is in New Trier township, a dry district, there were twenty half barrels of beer on the ground for the occasion. And towards evening it was found the supply of the amber fluid was fast disappearing and eight more half barrels were brought to the picnic grounds.

Can't Buy; It Is Free.

"No, you can't purchase beer here," said George A. Seiber, president of the Old Settlers' association, to a young man apparently a stranger at the picnic. "But you can have all the beer you want without paying for it."

Ice cream as well as beer, and in fact everything to eat and drink on the grounds were free of cost. Five bartenders were kept busy during the afternoon serving beer to the 1,000 persons who visited the picnic, and at times when orders would come in too rapidly Sieber would call a halt and there would be a half hour intermission in which no beer would be served.

Sieber appeared on the grounds with his six children and nine grandchildren, rivaling all other families in numbers except that of Fred Rudolph, who settled in Glencoe in 1851 and reared a family of eighteen children, sixteen of whom are still living in the vicinity of Glencoe and attended the annual outing. Sieber came to the village with his parents in 1866.

Recall Pioneer Days.

Others who recalled the days when the present village was a tiny cluster of cabins at the edge of what was then an Indian trail were George Hessler, 70 years old; William Trumbull, 71 years old; J. J. Beck, 60; and August Schepp, aged 66.

Mrs. Angus Beinleich, 90 years of age, the oldest woman on the grounds, was accompanied by her husband, Angus Beinleich, 85 years old. Other old settlers in Glencoe who have spent from forty to fifty years in and around the village were James Lee, 87; M. T. Lane, justice of the peace of the village; Mrs. Max Siegel, 78 years old; and Henry Taylor.

TELLS OF LONG TROLLEY RIDE.

School Principal's Journey from Lake Forest to Boston Costs More than Round Trip by Rail.

Principal John E. Baggett of the Lake Forest school has sent home a detailed account of his trolley trip from Waukegan to Boston, which occupied about two weeks. He traveled 1,506 miles at a cost of $24.85, for which one could get a round trip excursion ticket to Boston by rail.

Ten miles of his trip was on the elevated roads in Chicago. Thirty miles from Warsaw to Wabash, Ind., and twenty-seven miles from Little Falls to Fonda, N. Y., were by rail. He traveled by steamer 114 miles from Hudson, N. Y., to New York City. Ten miles by subway in New York City and seventy miles from Westfield to Jamestown, N. Y., were extra.

Among the cities he visited were South Bend, Fort Wayne, Toledo, Cleveland, Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Utica, Albany, New Haven, Hartford, Springfield, and Worcester. He goes 300 miles further to Waterville, Me., which is as far as can be reached by trolley.

PRINTER IS KILLED BY TRAIN.

Albert Lawrence Struck at Whiting, Ind.—New Lenox Man Also Dies of Injuries.

Albert Lawrence was fatally injured by a railroad train at Whiting, Ind., early yesterday morning. He was taken to the hospital at Hammond, where he died in the afternoon. He was a printer and lived at 9961 Avenue M, South Chicago. Harry Paups, New Lenox, Ill., who was struck by a Wabash railroad train Saturday, died of his injuries at the Mercy hospital late Saturday night.

INTERRUPT MASS; SHOUT AT PRIEST

POLICE GIVE WARNING.

Father Michael C. Pyplatz, However, Refuses to Ask Arrest of Disturbers.

Dissatisfied parishioners of St. Joseph's Polish Catholic church, Forty-eighth street and Hermitage avenue, yesterday broke up the 11 o'clock high mass by a medley of songs, but the presence of police prevented a repetition of the riot which occurred there five weeks ago.

The three previous masses had been celebrated without the slightest interference, but the Rev. Father Michael C. Pyplatz, pastor of the congregation, scented trouble when he saw mingled with the throng that attended the principal service members of the faction against eighty adherents of which he had procured an injunction in the Superior court, and he instructed an assistant to telephone to the New City police station for aid.

The pastor had barely started the celebration of the mass when discord broke out in a far corner of the church, and the sound was echoed from the opposite corner, and soon the malcontents near the pulpit joined in the disorder. Some sang hymns, some patriotic airs, and others ragtime. The priest apparently was undismayed and continued chanting, but uglier sounds and downright threats were being uttered when Capt. Plunkett, Lieut. Crotty, Sergeants Finley and Phelan, and a squad of officers appeared upon the scene and mingled with the people in the church.

Pastor Remains Silent.

The Rev. Father Pyplatz suspended the service and remained silent as Lieut. Crotty walked toward the pulpit and attempted to explain to the congregation that they were rendering themselves liable to arrest, but he also was silenced by the singing and shouts from many throats, and the policeman had to be satisfied with cautioning each individual against misbehavior.

They received the warnings in apparent good nature, and declared the priest had finished chanting and their religious fervor was inspiring them to sing. The lieutenant, in the absence of actual violence, saw no occasion for arrests.

The services began at 11 o'clock, and the custom is to continue until 12 o'clock or later, but the actions of the congregation forced them to a conclusion shortly after 11 o'clock. Even then the police, bent on preservation of order, again sought Father Pyplatz, but he just as persistently refused to receive them. The police have the names of scores of disturbers, but desire the sanction of the priest before placing the people under arrest.

By no means all of the auditors at the services were enemies of the pastor. A number expressed dissatisfaction with the interference, and hinted at rough work when the police induced them to leave the edifice, and such deserters were soon joined by members of the congregation who have remained neutral in the present controversy.

Walks Among Disturbers.

Father Pyplatz appeared little disturbed even when the trouble was at its worst, and when he found his services broken up he walked quietly through the front door among his disturbers to the rectory a short distance south. A few insulting remarks were hurled at him, but he turned a deaf ear. Once intrenched in the rectory, he refused to receive either friends or foes, and sent out word that it was a "trivial matter" not worthy of discussion or police interference.

His attitude vexed his enemies, and they seized upon the presence of the police for excuses to threaten "real action" next Sunday. Lieut. Crotty dispersed a crowd giving vent to this sort of talk, and warned them he would have a larger squad present next Sunday and would make arrests without instructions from the priest.

Father Pyplatz stood high in the community previous to a leave of absence secured a year ago. He had erected a church edifice at a cost of $18,000 and had the mortgage lifted in six years. Then he decided on a better edifice and parochial school buildings at a cost of $50,000 and raised all the funds except $12,000 when his health broke and he decided upon a rest.

Substitute Proves Popular.

On his departure, the Rev. Father Louis Grudginski, a younger man, was given temporary charge of the parish, and the younger element, who just now are in the majority, preferred his methods and were loath to see him depart when the pastor returned six weeks ago. The young man tried to prevent the outbreak of dissatisfaction, but was told that it was he or nobody else, and five weeks ago they stoned the church and broke up the services when Father Pyplatz resumed his place in the pulpit.

In the year that the Rev. Father Grudginski had charge he not only cleared the $12,000 debt but put $5,000 additional in the church treasury, and one of the principal objections voiced by the enemies of Father Pyplatz is that he will have control of that fund.

Indications late in the afternoon were that the course being pursued by the opposed priest is winning him friends, and it is predicted that soon all opposition to him will have vanished.

BLAMES FEUD AMONG FAMILY FOR LAWSUIT OVER ESTATE.

Lawyer Says Sister of Testatrix Objects Because Her Share Was Left in Trust.

A family feud is blamed by James C. Essick, an attorney, for the suit filed for an accounting of the estate of Mrs. Anna L. May, deceased, in which the lawyer is named because he represented Stephen D. May, one of the executors of the estate, in its settlement.

The suit was brought by Mrs. Frances H. McIntyre against Gertrude Q. Grant and her two sisters, Mrs. Mary B. Barnett and Mrs. Carrie G. Kinzie, all members of the family of the late John R. Wilson. Mr. Essick and former Justice James C. Martin are also named as defendants.

"Mrs. McIntyre is displeased because her sister left her a share of her estate in trust," said Mr. Essick. "I suppose she wanted her share outright, as the others received theirs. The amount of the estate has been greatly exaggerated. It will not amount to more than $60,000."

The building at 977 West Lake street occupied by John Burress who has a shoe store on the first floor, was badly damaged. The total loss was about $20,000.

The Phyllis Wheatley Home for Colored Girls, 3530 Forest avenue, will be the beneficiary of an outing at Rasch's grove on Wednesday. Negroes will participate in an old folks' vaudeville, which will be a staging of plantation songs and dances.

Nabs Boy Burglars, Solving a Mystery

Miss Dorothy Frazin, who single handed captured two robbers Saturday evening and took them to the Harrison street police station, declared yesterday that although she was perfectly calm until she had turned the culprits over to the police, she did not care to win any Carnegie medals in that way. She is cashier for the Stein Publishing company, 342 State street.

For several days zinc plates for printing novels had been disappearing, but the thieves could not be apprehended. Miss Frazin was in the rear of the office when she heard sounds which aroused her suspicions. Concealing herself behind a packing case she waited for the burglars. Soon a frightened but determined face appeared through an opening in the screen door. It was followed by a nervous boy, then the other member of the gang appeared.

Miss Frazin grasped each culprit by his ear and told him he ought to be spanked. The thieves were Georgie Matthews, 6 years old, and Charles Frank, 7 years old. They were released by the police after they had told where they had disposed of the missing plates.

BOY LURES GIRL FROM HOME

VICTIM'S BROTHER BEATS HIM

Telegram Urges Wisconsin Police to Rescue Genevieve Schwartz.

Charles Kaufman, 16 years old, of Milwaukee, Wis., confessed to the police last night that he had lured Genevieve Schwartz, also 16 years old, from her home, 5711 Rosalie court, on the night of July 29. He was arrested in the afternoon as he was about to board a boat for Milwaukee.

When taken to the Central station he admitted that he had placed the girl in a resort last Saturday at 251 Sixth street, Milwaukee. He said she was known in the resort as Hazel Morgan. He declared he was on his way to Milwaukee to marry her. Word was sent to the Milwaukee police to rescue her.

After inducing the girl to leave her home Kaufman confessed that he went with her to a house in Center avenue between West Twelfth and Taylor streets. Running out of money Friday he said he had taken her to Milwaukee, where he placed her in a resort. He said he received $4.50 from the woman who ran the house as expense money.

Caught at Steamship Dock.

Kaufman was arrested by Detectives Magner and Dolan of the detective bureau at the Wells street docks. The detectives were accompanied by Morris Schwartz, brother of the girl, and Charles Taylor, a friend.

Schwartz and Taylor, stationing themselves where they could see every one who boarded the boat, waited until Kaufman appeared.

They watched him buy a ticket and as he was about to board the boat Schwartz attacked him. Offering Schwartz money if he would let him go, Kaufman defended himself against his assailant until the detectives arrested him.

Miss Mollie Schwartz, sister of the girl, said that she had received information that Kaufman had beaten and threatened to kill her sister while he was with her in a house in Center avenue.

Met Her on July 16.

While visiting in Milwaukee Miss Schwartz met Kaufman on July 16 and he came to Chicago with her.

"I was intending to go to Chicago in a few days," Kaufman told the girl. "I'll go back with you tomorrow."

Kaufman told Lieut. Cudmore that when they came to Chicago on July 17 they took a trip on the lake in the evening. Returning, he said, they went to the Revere hotel, Michigan and North Clark streets. There they registered as Mr. and Mrs. Frank.

The next day, he said, they went to the Schwartz home. Kaufman remained there several days, and on the night of July 29 he and Miss Schwartz left and afterward went to Milwaukee.

Kaufman is a son of Maximilian Kaufman, a retired saloonkeeper, living in Milwaukee. Miss Schwartz is a daughter of I. Schwartz, a tailor, having a shop at 5615 Jefferson avenue.

NO LETTERS SENT TO PORTER.

Missing Insurance Agent's Cousin Believes He May Return When He Hears of Wife's Death.

Relatives of Benjamin W. Porter, the missing insurance collector, from whom a letter has been received saying he had been attacked, kidnaped, and taken out of the city last May, have made no attempt to communicate with him. The letter, which was received by a district manager of the insurance company which employed Porter, was post marked Pueblo, Colo.

Grant Porter, a cousin of the missing man said last night that he believed Porter might return when he heard his wife had died after months of grieving for her husband.

"I don't think it would do any good to try to write to him," Mr. Porter said. "If he wants to return he will, I believe. From his letter he seems to have seen what the Chicago papers have said about his case."

CAR HITS WAGON: TWO HURT.

Driver of Vehicle Suffers Internal Injuries—Score of Passengers Shaken Up.

Two persons were injured, one probably fatally, and a score of others were shaken up yesterday afternoon, when a west bound North avenue car struck a wagon belonging to the Bremner Baking company at Burling street. Edward Stubbs, 1069 Jackson boulevard, driver of the wagon, suffered internal injuries which may prove fatal.

FOUR TIRED OF LIFE; END IT

Three Men and One Woman Victims of Self-Destruction.

TWO SUCCUMB TO HANGING.

SUICIDES OF THE YEAR...............315

Four persons committed suicide in Chicago yesterday.

One of the victims was found dead in a clayhole, a second ended life by hanging with a clothesline while despondent over ill health, a third was found dead in a gas filled room, and the fourth killed himself by hanging with a pair of suspenders. Three of the victims were men. The fourth victim, a woman, had been told by a physician she was suffering from heart trouble and that she might die at any minute. She obtained a clothesline, fastened it around her neck, and, it is believed, jumped over the railing of a stairway in her home.

One of the men who committed suicide was an inmate of the asylum at Dunning. Another who ended his life was the son of a former steamship agent and an importer in New York.

The Suicides.

COOK, MARION A., operator in a 5 cent theater; found dead in a gas filled room at 1359 Fortieth avenue.

DIEHL, JOHN C., son of George H. Diehl, 13 West One Hundred and Twenty-seventh street, New York, retired manager of the Hamburg-American steamship line; found dead in a clayhole.

Diehl's body was discovered at 11:30 o'clock in the morning in a clayhole near North Paulina and Wolfram streets. The clayhole, which contains about thirty feet of water, surrounded by a high board fence, adjoins the premises of the Illinois Malleable Iron company.

Max Litz and Leo Roswski, 1219 Lincoln avenue, employed at the iron works, saw a coat and hat lying on the bank and shortly after saw the body of Diehl rise to the surface. The men notified the police of the Sheffield avenue station. An inquest will be held at 10 o'clock today. The police believe that the absence of marks of violence upon the body are evidence that he committed suicide.

Diehl, who lived at 855 North Halsted street, was unmarried and without any occupation, according to Louis E. Brand, a real estate dealer, who lived in the same building.

Tried to Borrow $5.

Brand, when seen in the afternoon, said, "I knew Diehl for about twenty-five years, having met him while traveling in Germany. Although born in America, he was educated in Germany and was a widely read man. I saw him last about 9 o'clock Saturday evening, when he came to my office and tried to borrow $5 until he received his regular weekly allowance from his father."

Mrs. Striey, who ended her life by hanging, went to her bedroom in the afternoon, saying she intended to take a nap.

When she did not return C. F. Berfuss, a brother of Mrs. Striey, started to search for her. When he entered the hall he saw Mrs. Striey's body hanging from the railing at the head of the stairs.

Ends Life with Rope.

It is believed the woman went to the upper room, where she obtained a clothesline, and, after tying the rope around her neck and to the stair railing, she walked down the stairs until the rope pulled taut, and her body was left suspended above the steps.

Cook, the operator in a five cent show, closed the doors of his home at 1359 Fortieth avenue and turned on the gas. Relatives said they knew of no reason why he should have taken his life.

Renar, Dunning asylum patient, who hanged himself with his suspenders, formerly resided at 245 Noble street. His death will be investigated by the coroner today.

CLARKSON CALLS UP PARTNER; MAY RESUME LAW PRACTICE.

Condition of Kenosha Victim of Mental Lapse Shows Improvement and Trip of Recuperation Is Postponed.

Former Judge Joseph R. Clarkson, who returned to Kenosha Friday after his strange wandering, following a supposed mental lapse, spent a quiet day at the residence of Attorney James Cavanaugh in the Wisconsin city yesterday, but today it is possible he will take up the life that he dropped at the time of his disappearance. Robert Verne Baker, his law partner, said in the afternoon:

"I confess I was a little surprised when my partner called up the office early Saturday morning. I answered the telephone and he was perfectly natural when he talked to me.

"'I will not be down this morning, partner,' he said, 'but I wish you would drop in some time during the day, as I want to see you.'

"Later in the day, when I could find time, I dropped in to see him. He greeted me cordially and told me that he was glad to see me. He asked me about my vacation and declared that he had heard that I went all the way to Seattle. Nothing was said in regard to his own trip nor did he offer to make any explanation.

"We did not in any way consider the proposition of continuing the partnership, but I think that Mr. Clarkson will be at his desk for a time tomorrow at least."

It was thought Saturday the friends of Clarkson would insist that he leave at once for the country to take a long rest, but his condition was so improved during the day that they will make no plans until he is willing to give full sanction to them.

CLEW TO KIDNAPED CHILDREN LEADS DIRECTLY TO CHICAGO.

Conductor Thinks He Brought Missing Boy and Girl and Their Captors Here from St. Louis.

The St. Louis police believe the kidnaped Viviano children, Grace and Tommasso, are in Chicago with their captors. Frank B. Wood, conductor of a Wabash railroad train, said a woman with two children and a man answering the description of Sam Turissi, boarded his train in St. Louis for Chicago on the day of the kidnaping.

The woman and children rode together, the man remaining in the smoking compartment of the same car. The train arrived in Chicago at 9:30 o'clock in the evening. A description of the woman agrees with that of Mrs. Rosie Ricardo, mother of Vincenzo Ricardo, one of the men sought in connection with the case.

C. F. Bauer, whose clothing establishment is near the Union station in St. Louis, said he sold a sailor suit and boy's shoes and stockings on Aug. 2 to two Italians who were accompanied by a boy and a girl resembling the missing children. Fifteen minutes later, Wood says, his mysterious customers boarded a train for Chicago.

BOXERS HIT HARD AT FOREST PARK

DELIGHT FOR THE FANS.

Dancing Girls Pay Little Regard to Law and Order League Complaints.

Forest Park's boxing bout yesterday between Mattie Kane and Ad Wolgast, billed as "the conqueror of Battling Nelson," was not like the first of the series of Sunday sparring exhibitions a week ago, which was duly censored and approved by Deputy Sheriff Thomas V. Morison.

The deputy sheriff did not stand at the ring side and the lack of his presence seemed to affect the force of the blows that were struck by the two pugilists.

Wolgast went against the ropes twice from the quick rushes of his sparring partner and Kane was knocked against the ropes once. Kane was wabbling on his feet when time was called at the end of the last round.

Swift Work Pleases Spectators.

Billy Papke and M. Cantwell gave a tame exhibition at the first of the series of bouts a week ago, but the one pulled off yesterday in the building which houses Charles ("Kid") Cutler's wrestling show was all that the spectators could wish from a bout of three rounds of two minutes each.

Only a small crowd of fight fans attended the bout but they had plenty of applause for the swift work of Wolgast and Kane. In spite of the fact that Chief Deputy Sheriff Charles W. Peters announced a week ago that if any slugging occured the bout would be stopped, there was plenty of slugging. Both men wore large gloves that lessened the effect of the blows.

The Turkish theater was running at Forest Park without any change in the program or the hoochee-coochee dance which was the cause of a complaint made to the officers of the Chicago Law and Order League.

"Spiels" Are Modified.

At White City the effects of the Law and Order league's crusade were seen. A barker before the Salome and snake dance show omitted the customary description of the costumes of the dancers. His "spiel" was brief, containing little elaboration of the information that "all the dancing is not done with the feet." Whether it was out of desire to conform with the Law and Order league's demands or the knowledge that little talking was necessary to attract the curious Sunday crowd could not be determined.

ST. ANN'S CHURCH CONDUCTS OUTDOOR GOSPEL SERVICE.

Many Persons Are Attracted to Meeting Which Is Novelty Among Chicago's Episcopal Congregations.

St. Ann's Episcopal church held its fourth open air service last night on the church lawn at Kimball and Armitage avenue. The Rev. Dr. J. Franklin Long, rector, conducting the service and a mixed choir of eighteen persons sang. Members of the church said St. Ann's is the only Episcopal church in the city which has taken up the open air services and the success which has attended the innovation will make it a regular summer custom in the future.

"Not Worth the Price" was the subject of the Rev. David T. Magill's sermon in Calvary Baptist church.

"All the tragedies of the race," he said, "have their source in men's paying too much. Lady Macbeth reaches out for Scotland's throne, but her blood-reddened hands would not wash white. Jacob got a birth heritage for a lamb stew—and an unpraiseworthy record for sharpness for 36 centuries.

"A young man filches from his employer without being caught. He gets dollars easily, and just as easily he gets an increasing inability to be honest, and a lessening power of resistance against every kind of temptation. His moral stamina has been sold for a song."

INJURY OF A CHICAGO GIRL BRINGS MYSTERY IN SEATTLE.

Police Ask Friends to Explain How Miss Clara Peters Met with Serious Accident.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 8.—The Seattle police are inquiring into the serious injury of Miss Clara Peters, aged 24, who lies in the general hospital suffering from brain concussion.

Miss Peters, who has been visiting her brother, a wealthy contractor, was picked up unconscious today in the Madrona park district and rushed to the hospital. She still is unconscious.

According to the story of friends, whose names the police are withholding, Miss Peters started running down hill. She gained such momentum that she fell in a heap, sustaining brain concussion. The friends decline to give any reason why Miss Peters should have started her fatal flight.

LOSES HIS NOSE IN BATTLE.

Following a verbal disagreement, Anton Gallowski, 408 Elston avenue, attacked his brother, Stephen, who lives at the same address, yesterday and before the men could be separated the aggressor had bitten off the victim's nose. Policemen from the West Chicago avenue police station arrested Anton and Stephen, who was attended by a police surgeon, will appear in the Municipal court this morning as complaining witness against his brother, who is held on a charge of mayhem.

Shoots Wife; She Won't Prosecute.

Following a quarrel, George Tremban, 58 Union Park court, a peddler, shot his wife, Lillian, last night, inflicting a slight wound. Tremban was arrested. Mrs. Tremban said she would not prosecute.

CANNON IS SERENE OVER TARIFF LAW

Suggests Criticism Be Deferred Until the Measure Has Had a Fair Trial.

THINKS OUTLOOK IS GOOD

Senator Borah Dilates on Benefits of Irrigation to Western Lands.

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating. Wait until the new tariff law has been tested by the people and then we will know how it suits. Personally I believe congress has kept the pledges made by the Republican national convention in the platform adopted in Chicago."

Speaker Cannon thus stated his views upon the Payne tariff bill yesterday afternoon at the Union league. He was there for an hour on his way home to Danville from Washington, and was looking fine and dandy in a new suit of gray homespun. He was in rare good spirits, because he was getting back to his Danville plazza. He armed himself for the last lap in his homeward bound trip with two boxes of extra long and black cheroots of the approved Union league variety and departed for Vermilion county at 6:20 p. m.

"I am going back to Danville to attend to Cannon's business," he said good naturedly. "I haven't been around these parts for some time."

He was right, because he hasn't been back to Illinois since he started east for the regular session of congress last year.

Not Ready to Retire Yet.

Only once did "Uncle Joe" appear to be a bit peeved, and that was when he was asked if the report from New York was correct that he contemplated a voluntary retirement from congress in the near future.

"Say," he said, emphatically, as he spanked the peaceable and eminently respectable cigar case of the Union League, "my constituents down here in Illinois have been mighty good to me for a lot of years. This is a democratic government, and no man can be mandamused to take a job unless he wants it, neither can a constituency be served with a writ of habeas corpus to reelect a man. When I get ready to retire I will say so, and when my district gets ready to retire me it will say so."

He was asked if the report is correct that he is about to start in as a Chautauqua lecturer. The earlier part of his reply is not reported, but he concluded with the statement that he expects to stay in Danville the rest of the summer and all of the fall and do nothing but rest.

"I have to get ready to get back to Washington and run my own Chautauqua," commented the speaker with a characteristic wink, tipping his cigar to an angle of eighty-seven degrees.

Prosperity Here to Stay.

"Do you think the new tariff law will be satisfactory to Illinois Republicans and Illinois generally?" he was asked.

"I know of no reason why it should not," he answered. "Illinois Republicans are good Republicans, and the tariff law is a good Republican law."

"Is there any difference between Illinois Republicans and Iowa Republicans?"

Well, lots of good Iowa Republicans are not getting much credit for their Republicanism just now," he replied. "The new tariff law is a good law. It marks the beginning of a stirring epoch of commercial prosperity, I believe. I look forward to at least ten years of splendid business and national growth. Under a Republican administration the United States will take another great forward stride.

"The house bill in its original form was first disapproved—I was going to say damned—by the newspapers, which attempted to display their influence. A little later it was a paint in comparison with the senate bill. The conference bill I consider a fair maintenance of the pledge which was formulated and announced in the Chicago platform.

"In framing the bill the workingmen, the laboring classes, and their rights, were first considered; second, the rights of the manufacturers and the employers of labor; and finally, and against their will, the rights of the importers. In my judgment a fair test of the law will demonstrate that it is a good law for all classes of the nation. Let's give it a trial and then we will see where we stand."

On the same car which brought Speaker Cannon to the city traveled Senator Cummins of Iowa, and Senator Samuel H. Piles of Washington, Representative Walter I. Smith of Council Bluffs, Ia., and Representative Frank W. Mondell of Wyoming. Senator Borah arrived in the morning. Representative James A. Tawney departed at night for Minnesota. Most of the Chicago members of congress are due to arrive this morning.

SUTTON CASE ON AGAIN TODAY.

Dead Lieutenant's Mother and Sister Will Take Stand to Clear His Name.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 8.—The inquiry into the death of Lieut. James N. Sutton Jr. of the United States marine corps will be continued at the naval academy tomorrow morning, when Mrs. Sutton, his mother, and Mrs. Rose Sutton Parker, his sister, will continue their efforts to clear from his name the stigma of suicide which was placed upon it by the finding of the first board of inquiry, which sat immediately after the tragedy.

Mrs. Sutton again will go on the stand, this time, it is understood, in open session of the court. This session, however, doubtless will be preceded by a closed session of sufficient length to permit the reading and, if necessary, the correction of the testimony given during the closed session of the court yesterday.

Mrs. Parker doubtless will follow her mother on the stand. From her some interesting testimony is expected, especially with reference to her interviews in her room at the hotel here with Lieut. Adams and other officers of marines subsequent to her brother's death.

Stranded Passengers Safe Again.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 8.—The 150 passengers on the steamer Dubuque, who were marooned twenty-four hours when the boat struck a sand bar four miles above Grafton, Ill., arrived in St. Louis late today, tired and hungry.

PARTY WILL MEET PLEDGES

Republican Leaders Consider Plans for Next Congress.

MERCHANT MARINE AN ISSUE

Amendments Expected to Hepburn and Anti-Trust Statutes.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Having completed a revision of the tariff and scratched the subject from the list of jobs allotted to them in the last national platform, the Republican leaders are already starting the pot to boil for next winter's session of congress and the enactment of the remaining pledges of the party document.

Improvement of the railroad rate law and the Sherman anti-trust act, establishment of the merchant marine, postal savings banks, statehood for territories, and the alleviation of the burdens of wage earners are all awaiting assignment on the program of the president and congress, as directed by the platform. There are indications that there will be a trial at the whole list and the promised energy may mean the passage of at least some of the items.

Speaker Cannon, in the selection of house committees for the sixty-first congress, gave an inkling of what he considered the coming congressional session should bring forth. He likewise made it plain to the initiated that certain legislative projects are to be held up for the present, platform pledges in their favor notwithstanding. It is a recognized fact that the speaker and his committees control legislation and the warhorse from Danville proposes to make the most of his vantage point in the coming congress, as he has done in the past.

Merchant Marine Leading Issue.

Of the time worn pledges of the Republican platform the provision for a merchant marine bids fair to receive the best show for enactment. It is not at all unlikely that encouragement of American shipping which has been carried steadily in Republican platforms for the better part of the last forty years and as steadily knifed and put away in congress, will at last become a reality next winter.

John W. Weeks of Massachusetts succeeded Jesse Overstreet of Indiana as chairman of the postoffice committee and with him are at least ten avowed ship subsidy enthusiasts. The ocean mail subsidy passed the senate during the last congress and came within eight votes of succeeding in the house. Speaker Cannon has joined the movement and apparently believes that the narrow margin is to be overcome the next time conclusions are tried.

In the meantime Chairman Weeks has a preventive mission to perform on the postoffice and postroads committee. Although postal savings banks were promised the country in as plain language as the last platform of the Republicans could set forth, they are to be withheld just as long as Uncle Joe and his house organization can prevent a law being passed. Representative Weeks is a banker and will be expected to keep going the hostility of that contingent of the country's citizens to a postal savings bank system when its advocates put forward their amendment to the annual postoffice appropriation bill.

Commerce Committee Has Task.

From the interstate commerce committee of the house some results are expected. President Taft has sounded the timbrels for the convention of the interstate commerce commission into a purely judicial body to pass upon questions relating to rates, but to perform no business of an administrative character. An inquiry into the accounts of interstate carriers, which the last platform set forth with some emphasis as a good thing for the administration to engage itself in, is also demanding attention. The president only has announced that he will recommend various amendments to the Hepburn law in his annual message, but he also has assigned a committee to ascertain needed amendments.

Territorial delegates from Arizona and New Mexico will be on hand as usual with their bills for both joint and separate statehood, attached to each of which will be a copy of the Republican platform. It may be said that these tenacious individuals are gradually crowding opponents of statehood into close quarters.

WATSON WOULD SPLIT UNION INTO 4 SEPARATE NATIONS.

Populist Says Country Inevitably Will Divide if Easterners Like Aldrich Continue to Usurp Power.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—In denouncing the Aldrich-Payne tariff bill and in answer to the Memorial day speech of Secretary of War Dickinson, Tom Watson, former candidate for president on the Populist ticket, suggests the reconstruction of the union into four grand divisions, declaring the hemisphere will be all the happier for it.

His reply was called forth by the statement of Mr. Dickinson at Gettysburg that "there are in the south few, if any, who would not turn swiftly with sentiments of abhorrence, from any suggestion that it would be better for the south if it had succeeded in establishing an independent government."

After denouncing this assertion and charging that Mr. Dickinson did not believe what he said, and the northern people knew he did not speak the truth, Mr. Watson said:

"I am sincere in saying it would have been better for the south had the confederacy succeeded. We would have had no constant irritant such as we now have in the social equality of blacks, in office holding negroes, and the white people of the north, who are eternally putting the devil into the heads of Afro-Americans.

"The western states would be better off in a separate state of their own. It will come some day.

"The southern states would be far better off in a state of their own. It will come some day. With just such laws as Aldrich, and Lodge, and Gallinger, and Hale—all of New England—are forcing through congress, the union will be split into four grand divisions, and this hemisphere will be all the happier for it."

Man Kills Self by Drowning.

NINETY IN SHADE DOESN'T VEX TAFT

Goes to Church, Dozes on Porch, Motors, Reads History, and Forgets Heat.

WILL END CENSUS ROW.

Bitterness of Virginia Primary Prompts Hope for Good Republican Showing.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 8.—Beverly was hot today, but President Taft spent a lazy Sunday and did not seem to mind the more than 90 in the shade. He began the first Sabbath of his vacation by going to the Unitarian church.

Through the early hours of the afternoon the president sat in the broad veranda of his cottage and read "The Greatness and Decline of Rome," by the historian Ferrero, who spent a week at the White house with Mr. Roosevelt. Near sunset the president took a long motor ride with Mrs. Taft. After dinner he again sought the veranda.

Mr. Taft had several matters of official business before him during the coming week. He is going to dispose of the matter of census supervisors throughout the United States. Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel and Director of the Census Durand are coming to Beverly with a list of names and by the time they leave the president hopes to announce his position.

Sees Break in "Solid South."

The president has fixed upon the policy he will follow with reference to census appointments in the south. In the states solidly Democratic the president will divide the appointments equally among the Democrats and Republicans. From the so-called "solid south" he has picked out North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, and Missouri as debatable states and will treat them on the same footing as northern states, giving all of the census jobs to Republicans. The states in which the division will be made are Virginia, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana, and Texas.

As to Virginia, the president is represented as believing the bitterness of the recent primary fight for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination will give the Republicans an opportunity to make an excellent showing at the polls next November. Anything he legitimately can do to help the party in the state, it is said, he will do. Several administration officers and possibly a cabinet officer or two will make speeches during the Virginia campaign.

The president is giving serious consideration to the strained situation between Japan and China over the Mukden-Antung railroad. In the event of a violation being lodged against either party to the treaty it is believed the matter will become a question for consideration by all the powers. The United States will have a hand in whatever is done.

Will Name No Customs Judges.

Mr. Taft has decided that he will not make any appointments to the bench of the customs court. While it authorized the court, congress failed to make an appropriation for the judges or any other officials. If the president should appoint judges under present conditions he would have to fix their salaries. This he does not wish to do.

The president is looking forward to a period of great prosperity in the Philippines as a result of the enactment of the Philippine tariff law. He believes that many small industries will be built up in the islands under the market afforded Filipino products in this country.

The Filipinos are wonderfully clever with their fingers and in making fine straw hats, fine cloths, etc., they are unexcelled. They president believes that the free entry of cigars and sugar will help the islands greatly although he does not anticipate that the quota of sugar and tobacco to be admitted free of duty will be reached inside of ten years.

There is a healthy tobacco trust in the Philippines, formed by Spaniards and operated with French capital. The opening of the American market to Philippine cigars, the president believes, will make tobacco more valuable in the islands and will enable the peasant planters to get a fair price for their products.

At his summer home on Woodberry Point Mr. Taft is in the center of an ideal pleasure ground for a vacation. Secluded in a beautiful residence park made up of three or four estates, the president will enjoy with Mrs. Taft the cool breezes from the bay and ocean.

Looking toward the sea the island dotted waters of Salem bay are in the foreground and beyond are the broader reaches of Massachusetts bay. Behind are the woods and the pleasant fields of Essex county.

Perhaps the golf links in the neighborhood will prove the strongest magnet during Mr. Taft's sojourn on the north shore. Within easy motoring distance are the links of the Myopia Hunt club, the Essex Country club, the Montserrat Golf club, the Tedesco Country club, the Abenaki club of Rye, N. H., and half a dozen golf clubs in the vicinity of Boston.

Children of Two Presidents Meet.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—For the first time in history the children of two presidents of the United States have been brought together under one roof as guests of the same family and have entered into sports and games as friendly rivals. The children are Charley Taft, younger son of the president, and the Misses Esther and Marion Cleveland, daughters of the late Grover Cleveland.

During the last week they have been the youngest and jolliest members of the house party at Lookout Hill, the Gloucester residence of John Hays Hammond. Among other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson of Chicago. The Taft and Cleveland children came together to witness the pageant last Wednesday at Gloucester.

in the United States in 1908 was 50,073,000, sheep 54,631,000, and swine 56,084,000. This production has created the enormous slaughtering and meat packing industry of the country, in which, according to the census reports of 1905, a capital of something like $237,700,000 is invested. The cost of materials used is fixed at $805,857,000, and the value of the products at $913,914,000.

The United States exports in the neighborhood of 350,000 cattle, 300,000 hogs, and 150,000 sheep annually. It has, however, a tremendous trade in meat products, exporting abroad more than $200,000,000 worth annually. In dairy products, too, the United States has a large export trade in butter, cheese, and condensed milk.

No Competition in Cattle.

There is no reason to believe that the reduction made on meat products will cause any increase in the shipments to the United States. Three countries which are the likely competitors of the American stock raiser are Canada, Mexico, and Argentina. In view of the existing conditions and the great control exercised by the beef packers of Chicago, which extends in part to the foreign countries mentioned, it is not seen how competition of any importance can occur.

There is one animal product for which the president fought zealously, and that is the hides of cattle, which have been transferred from the dutiable to the free list. Senator Warren of Wyoming made a determined fight against this action, holding that nobody would be benefited and only the farmer would suffer. It was asserted, however, by the manufacturers of leather goods, including boots and shoes, that the prices of leather products would be favorably affected from the consumers' point of view.

In order to equalize things, Senator Warren insisted that the duties on boots and shoes and the other leather products should be lowered, and, backed up by the president, congress was compelled to do as he desired.

It is expected that as a result of the transfer of hides to the free list there will be a heavy increase in the importations of these articles, especially from Argentina. So far as boots and shoes are concerned there is no likelihood of any increase of the importations at present. Americans do not wear the kinds of boots and shoes manufactured in Europe The New England factories fear, however, that with the erection of American machines abroad and with cheap labor to operate them, heavy importations will begin in a few years.

U. S. WAGES WAR AGAINST RATS TO BAR OUT BUBONIC PLAGUE.

Marine Hospital Service Guards All Ships Loading in Oriental Ports Lest Diseased Rodents Get Aboard.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 8.—A plague infected rat of the kind that infested the wharves of Chinese ports may make his nest in cargoes consigned to the United States, and if he escapes detection may cause an outbreak of bubonic plague or some other disease in an American port.

It is to guard against just such a contingency that the United States public health and marine hospital service has its surgeons stationed at all of the leading shipping points throughout the world to enforce rules which will safeguard vessels bound for American ports against infection. Acting Assistant Surgeon Ransom of the service reports from Shanghai, China, that vessels bound for American ports are not allowed to go alongside wharves when loading and are required to have rat guards on all their lines in order to obtain bills of health.

"A close supervision, while in this port, is kept over vessels bound for the United States," writes Mr. Ransom. "It not infrequently happens that no rat guards are found on the lines to lighters alongside the vessels, and in such cases the attention of the agents is drawn to the fact and a note of the omission is made on the bills of health."

ISLAND TOBACCO MUST BE PURE

Purchasers Will Be Given Government Guarantees as to Quality and Cleanliness of Product.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 8.—Purchasers of Philippine tobacco hereafter will have a government gaurantee as to its quality and cleanliness, as a result of an arrangement made by the bureau of insular affairs with the Philippine government, designed to insure the strict enforcement of the new tariff bill providing for the admission into the United States free of duty of a limited quantity of cigars and tobacco produced in the islands.

All tobacco factories in the archipelago are to be placed under the strict observation of the island's internal revenue bureau and health department, so as to make certain that the tobacco used is of native growth, or, if any of foreign production is manufactured, that the quantity may be definitely ascertained. The intervention of the officials is to assure the public that the manufactured tobacco will be made in sanitary factories by healthy operatives.

Every package of Philippine tobacco or cigars imported into the United States which has undergone the inspection provided for accordingly will be labeled.

Naval Recruit Has Own Auto.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Driving his own automobile, Scott Hensel of Rockville stopped in front of the naval recruiting station and soon was enlisted as a machinist. He retired from the navy as a chief machinist last April and since then has been touring the middle west in his auto. He wants to go to the China station, and will be sent there.

McCardell Tells What "Tribune" Cartoonist Will Do to African Fauna.

MAY MEET BWANA TUMBO

BY ROY L. M'CARDELL.

New York, Aug. 8.—[Special.]—John T. McCutcheon, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S Johnny-on-the-spot cartoonist, sailed on the Cedric on Saturday to knock over big game in Africa, just like an English earl who gets a facer in the love story, don't you know.

And, what do you think, he's going as the running mate, and he says he's a good runner, too, to the faunal naturalist and another friend, Chicagoites all, to pot a bunch of Jumbos for the Museum of Natural History—New York's museum of natural history.

To be a cartoonist in Chicago is to be in line for the big doings, but the New York cartoonist is lucky to get a vacation on pay, while as far as being a New York newspaper writer—O, well, that's another matter.

But be that, as George W. Munro would say, nothing succeeded like being a bachelor.

There was McCutcheon stopping at the Plaza, booking his passage to London to get his African outfit, riding a taxicab, going to see "The Midnight Sons," expense no object, all down the line, and—O, well that's another matter.

Where McCutcheon Got Fame.

You see, being a bachelor, he could afford to go on a trip around the world with George Ade; and being in Japan just when the Spanish-American war broke out, he got on Dewey's flagship when it sailed for Manila bay, and Dewey said to him, "You can draw whenever you're ready, McCutcheon!" And he has been famous as a war correspondent and a cartoonist and a bachelor ever since.

And now he's going to Africa to knock over big game, or at least kick in on the doings for the Museum of Natural History of New York.

Mr. C. E. Akeley, faunal naturalist of the Field museum of Chicago, who has been in the Mombasi region twice before, knocking over big game and not caring a hang for the duty on hides, because the museum exhibits get in free any way, will lead the expedition.

Then Fred Stephenson is going along, too. Stephenson is a six foot six inch bachelor. John T. McCutcheon is a five foot six inch bachelor, but Akeley is a married man, and Mrs. Akeley, who has been there before, is going along too. And she is some huntress.

Seek Covey of Elephants.

They are going to get a group of five elephants for New York's Museum of Natural history. At least Akeley is, but McCutcheon thinks he's also a good enough shot to hit an elephant—if it will stand sideways and not too far off.

And here's a secret: Ex-President Roosevelt will contribute one or two specimens to the group, if convenient to all parties. McCutcheon (and George Barr McCutcheon, who wrote "Brewster's Millions" and other best sellers, is his brother, although John T. is famous on his own side of the family, and they think the world and all of him in Chicago) is pals with George Ade, and Mr. Dooley Dunne, and Ray Brown, and Horace Taylor, T. E. Powers, and "Grizzly" Adams, and Alfred Henry Lewis, and Booth Tarkington, and Harry Leon Wilson, and all those other high standing Hoosiers who have made Chicago famous.

Before he left Chicago McCutcheon issued a proclamation promising to be back by May 1st next, and his last words were:

"I love my Chicago, but O Uganda!"

Silent on Roosevelt Story.

"We will arrive in Mombassi about Sept. 1," said McCutcheon, "and take a train to Nairobi, where our porters, 120 in number, will be awaiting us. You can hire a porter by the week in Nairobi for less than you can tip one by the day here at the Plaza."

When asked if his party expected to join Roosevelt's, he refused either to confirm or deny. But there's sure to be a point of contact, because you know what has been hinted at about Bwana Tumbo supplying an elephant or two for the group Mr. Akeley is going to get for our museum of natural history, and you'll admit that an elephant isn't the sort of faunal specimen that when dressed can be dried against a barn door and sent through as merchandise.

Speaking of Bwana Tumbo, McCutcheon, who has been in Africa—who is a bachelor and can afford to travel—says that he thinks the word Tumbo is a misprint and it should be "Tembo."

In the Swahila or coast language, of that part of Africa, "Tumbo" means "stomach." Mr. McCutcheon, who qualifies as an expert, says, and Bwana means "Master" or "Big Boss." But "Tembo" means "elephant," and McCutcheon is sure that the natives meant to hail our ex-president as "Lord of Elephants," or "The Big Smoke," or something wholly complimentary like that, and he will not even qualify euphemistically as "Bwana Tumbo," meaning "Portly Master." He's for "Bwana Tembo," "Lord of the Elephants," or "The Main Squeeze," first, last, and all the time.

Chicago's Jungle Is Ignored.

The natives of the interior of this part of Africa are sure of the Massa and Kihuya nations. They are a sort of smoked Swedes, big, active, and docile, McCutcheon says.

"But why go to Africa?" was asked. "Why not stay in our town a little while and, for that matter, hasn't Chicago a jungle all its own to hold you for a while? If it hasn't, Mr. Upton Sinclair has obtained a lot of money for himself and closer United States inspection for our potted meats by convincing a misapprehension."

Why McCutcheon got to feeling lonely in Chicago. So many people he knew were taking it to British East Africa that positively if you were fond of the company of magazine writers and photographers you simply had to go to Africa.

"It looks to me as if Africa will be as dangerous as the Adirondacks during the deer shooting season," said McCutcheon. "Hunters will be so numerous in the jungle that one must loudly announce 'It is I,' ever and anon to keep from being bowled over every time you make the pushes stir.

"As for the sleeping sickness I've been practicing for some months and I now can sleep for fourteen hours at a stretch without feeling the least bit of sickness—not the slightest ill effect at all. So I think I'm immune on that point."

What He Intends to Do.

"Of course," continued McCutcheon, "as I said in my farewell address in Chicago, my chief aim in Africa will be with a gun. I want to shoot big game if there is any left after Roosevelt is through. But I also intend to make game of the big game with pen and pencil.

"I am going to be explicit about it. I don't care whose feelings I hurt. But I suppose the lions and elephants won't care how their pictures look. They'll be so busy getting off the firing line of scientists, sportsmen, statesmen, journalists, taxidermists, faunal naturalists, and ex-presidents that they won't have time to look at the papers.

"I'll shoot lions by day and draw pictures by night. In case I don't shoot any lions, I can draw pictures showing frightful slaughter, with me as the nucleus of it. And if anybody else shoots an elephant or a rhino or a lion or a hippo after they have been photographer standing on the defunct beast, I can cut out and hold it up by the tail while some of the bunch snapshots me with it, can't I?"

Expose of "Big Game Graft."

Any way, I've seen so many pictures of sportsmen standing over the day's kill in magazines and other publications that I've got a hankering notion that the photographers on Main street, Mombassa, keep stuffed elephants, lions, rhinos, and hippos

HOW HE WILL DO IT.

John T. McCutcheon, cartoonist of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, has left for Africa, where he will shoot AT wild animals and also draw their pictures in cartoons. If he can not shoot them he can at least scare them into a rigid pose.—Evansville (Ind.) Courier.

on the premises, just like they have a prop automobile in the Coney Island tintype parlors. It's either that or that they have the big game painted on cardboard to hold in your lap with notches cut for your neck, like seaside comic post cards are made.

"I'll investigate while I'm there, and if it is at all as I suspect, look out for a scathing 'The Shame of the Jungles' series in the muckraking magazines. Think of the sensation I could cause by writing articles on 'Faunal Naturalists Exposed' or 'Big Game Graft in Darkest Africa's Photo Studios.'

"There is only one thing more I would like to do," concluded Chicago's cartoonist, "and that is to take a taxicab ride along with 'em Richard Harding Davis wrote 'The West from a Car Window,' and I'd like to go him one better by writing and illustrating 'Joy Riding in the Jungle; or Through the Big Game Country with a Taxidermist in a Taxicab.' But only John D. Rockefeller could face the ever mounting meter on such a trip as that. Honest, don't you think the way those taxicab meters spin around at 10 cents a tick right in your face causes so many deaths from heart disease in the great cities? That's what is driving us all to the jungles, where time means no more to a man than it does to a sitting hen.

"Well, good-by, old chap. Why don't you get your paper to send you to Africa?"

Why are all those Chicago cartoonists so sarcastic?

HIS PARDON CAME TOO LATE; AGED MAN DIES GOING HOME.

Former Mayor S. F. Smith of Davenport Succumbs While Hastening from Prison to Join Family.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 8.—Samuel Francis Smith, 72 years old, paroled embezzler, former mayor of Davenport, and son of the man who wrote "America," died in a hospital at Toronto, Canada, today, where he was taken from a train bearing him to Newton Center, Mass., where his wife and daughter were awaiting his coming after five years' separation. Smith was released last Thursday from the state reformatory at Anamosa on orders from Gov. Carroll. His sentence was suspended because of his old age. Convicted of embezzling trust funds in Davenport in 1904, he had served five of the eleven years of his time in prison.

Six years ago Samuel Francis Smith was one of the most highly respected citizens of Iowa. A former mayor of Davenport, a brilliant lawyer, a banker, a pillar in church work, he had many friends and no known enemies.

Suddenly whispers began to spread, followed by charges. Smith was placed under arrest. Examination of his books showed he was a defaulter to the extent of $100,000 of trust funds intrusted to him.

BISHOP HITS WHITE SLAVERS.

Urges Catholics to Unite in Effort to Suppress Traffic in Girls.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 8.—Attacking the white slave traffic and urging the people to unite and take a firm stand in an effort to suppress it, Bishop J. F. Regis Canevin of the Pittsburg diocese roused a large audience in Carnegie Music hall to enthusiasm tonight at a massmeeting of the delegates to the convention of the American Federation of Catholic Societies.

The convention was opened formally this morning with solemn pontifical mass at St. Paul't cathedral. Bishop Canevin was the celebrant.

A business meeting was held this afternoon at which the delegates organized for the business of the convention.

The delegates and visitors to all the meetings of the convention are manifesting great interest in Chief Red Willow and Chief White Horse, two full blooded Sioux Indians from Dakota, who are delegates from the Pine Ridge, mission of Jesuit missionaries.

EVANGELIST WHIPS A FIGHTER.

R. A. Torrey Fells Assailant of Landlord, Disregarding Shovel Used as Weapon.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—In the presence of Evangelist R. A. Torrey, who is staying at Huntington Beach inn, a resort near this city, Dan O'Connor attacked Manager Clarence A. Willey of the inn with a spade and would have killed him but for the intervention of the evangelist who sprang on O'Connor and knocked him down and sat on him until guests of the inn hurried up.

O'Connor had vowed that unless Willey married O'Connor's sister he would kill him. He mounted the porch of the hotel last night while Willey and Torrey were standing in close conversation, and began swearing at the manager.

O'Connor held a spade, but no attention was paid to him until he raised it and struck Willey on the shoulder, crying out:

ALDERMAN ARRESTED BY MAYOR

Councilman Refuses to Serve as City Marshal and Retaliation Is Speedy.

Grayville, Ill., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—The city is torn up over the question of a city marshal. At the recent meeting of the council the aldermen refused to confirm the appointment of James Crawley as marshal, and the mayor, C. O. Mills, then appointed the aldermen marshals, insisting that they serve in turn.

Ald. Hassel refused to do so, and the mayor has had him arrested.

His trial comes up next Thursday. Meanwhile the mayor is doing the arresting of evil doers.

The office of city marshal has gone begging for nearly two years, several being appointed, but all resigned after a few weeks or months.

WOMAN SLAIN IN LONELY SPOT

FLESH BENEATH HER NAILS.

Detroit Police Seek Italian Who Insulted Another.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 8.—The badly mutilated body of an unidentified woman about 35 years old, was found in a clump of underbrush in Hamtrack, this county, today. The condition of the body indicated that the woman was killed in a struggle.

The body was found by Justice of the Peace Munck of Highland Park. It was lying on its back with the skirt carefully drawn up over the face. The skull was crushed and the face and body were covered with bruises.

A handkerchief, supposedly belonging to the victim, was found several feet away, as was also her purse, which had been torn open and robbed of everything which might have served to identify the body.

Woman Died Fighting Hard.

The ground for yards about was torn up and bits of flesh were in the finger nails of the woman, indicating that she made a valiant fight for life after being overpowered.

The land on which the body was found is owned by an Italian named Serrira Marke, who of late has entertained, it is said, many of his countrymen, itinerant peddlers or laborers. While no suspicion attaches to Marke, the officers are investigating reports that women of the neighborhood have been annoyed by some of Marke's guests during the last week or two.

Italian Insulted Another.

Mrs. A. J. Button, wife of a resident of the vicinity, says she was accosted near where the body was found a week ago by a man who from appearance she thought was an Italian. She says he stopped her and proposed that she accompany him into the underbrush where the body was found and that she became frightened and ran to her house, a short distance away, and locked herself in the house.

When her husband came home that night she told him of the occurrence and he tried to track the man, but failed. Mrs. Button today gave a good description of the man to the officers and they are trying to locate him. The body has not been identified.

8 MILLIONAIRES IN CHURCH DIE WITHIN A SHORT TIME.

Calvin Wells Latest Wealthy Member of Third Presbyterian, Pittsburg, to Close Life Work.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Gossip in the Third Presbyterian church, from which Calvin Wells, a millionaire, was buried last week, today brought to light a remarkable sequence of deaths of rich men in this church since the occupation of the present elaborate building.

The Third Presbyterian church is known as the Thaw church, all members of that family being members of it. The congregation formerly occupied a less pretentious church in the dowtown district, and ten years ago Harry K. Thaw, Alice Thaw, Josiah Copley Thaw, and Edward Thaw, all children of Mrs. William Thaw, fixed the church up.

For some reason many of the rich became dissatisfied with this building, and it was decided, after several stormy meetings, to remove to the East End district and build another church. Among those who took part in these discussions were A. M. Byers, Calvin Wells, John H. Stulen, Samuel Willock, William Bakewell, John Rose, William Dihm, and Col. W. A. Herron. Mr. Wells was the last of this party of millionaires to die. The aggregate wealth of these eight men was $100,000,000.

SAYS HEREAFTER WILL BE DRY.

Mrs. Besant Declares Drunkards Who Die Take Thirst Into Prohibition Bailiwick.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Mrs. Annie Besant spoke to Buffalo theosophists and others in a small hall here tonight. The small hall had to be used because the head of the Scottish Rite Masons refused at the eleventh hour to allow Mrs. Besant to speak in their cathedral as had been advertised. The theosophists are angry and blame the Point Loma outfit, the Kathrine Tingley wing of the cult.

The picture Mrs. Besant painted was not alluring to the man who likes a drink. When a drunkard dies, she says, his craving for drink goes with him into the next world, he takes it with him in an intensified form. And there is not a ghost of a show to get a drink hereafter.

The craving gradually wears away, but the victim suffers intensely in the meantime, she said.

Of this sum $8,000,000 will be expended in improvement of the Pittsburg, Chicago, Cincinnati & St. Louis railroad and $4,000,000 will be spent in double tracking the line between Richmond and Irvington, Ind.

LOAN DEAL STOCKS TURN UP MISSING

COBRA KING UNDER KNIFE

Other Crawly Things in Bronx Park Zoo Forced to Listen to Wailings.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE, New York, Aug. 8.

Prosecutor Hunts $110,000 Missing Stock.

The district attorney's office will resume tomorrow an investigation started yesterday at the instance of M. M. Joyce of Joyce & Co., investment and security brokers, who says that $110,000 in stock certificates, deposited as security for a loan, have disappeared. Joyce went to the district attorney's office with F. Augustus Heinze, with whom he was associated at one time in Mr. Heinze's Montana mines, and told Assistant District Attorney Marshall that he had obtained a loan of $50,000 and had put up 20,000 shares of Davis-Daly Copper company and Ohio Copper company stock.

Joyce is understood to have informed the assistant district attorney that the stock was deposited, while the deal was being made, with the Windsor Trust company. The money loaned on the stock, it is said, was advanced by an individual last Monday. A few days later Joyce's firm received orders from customers to purchase Davis-Daly and Ohio Copper stock, as the story runs, and orders promptly were executed through curb brokers.

The next day when the certificates of stock were delivered to Joyce's firm it is said Joyce recognized several of them as being part of the securities deposited with the Windsor Trust company. Joyce called at the office of the trust company and asked about it. He was informed that the company did not have the securities.

It is said that the Windsor Trust company are not in any sense under suspicion of having committed a breach in having allowed the securities to pass from its possession. The stock was turned over by the trust company to the individual who made the loan to Joyce, and this, it is said, is an entirely regular proceeding.

What the district attorney's office wants to know, it was said today, is how the person making the loan happened to allow the stock to disappear while holding it as security.

King of Cobras Bewails Operation on Head.

All afternoon the king of the cobras shook his hooded head and babbled about his terrible operation and before 3 o'clock every creeping, crawling, flying thing in the Bronx park zoo heard about it and everybody, from the Glia monster to the polar bear, decided that it was much too hot to have the operation in the first place and that there certainly was no need of talking about it after it had happened.

Of course, as the king explained, it wasn't his fault. He knew that he had a queer bunch on the side of his head, but it didn't affect his breathing, his crawling, or his eating black snakes, and he didn't see any reason why anything should be changed. It caused him no inconvenience.

But Mr. Dittmar and Keeper Snyder felt differently. Today Snyder thrust the blacksnake the king must have for his weekly meal into the cage and Snyder had chosen one with rough scales so it would be difficult to eject. When, according to the snake's method of eating, the king had taken in about two feet of blacksnake, Snyder seized the more or less lethargic serpent and stuck a lance into the abscess, put a piece of cotton into the wound, and made for the door.

He escaped just in time, for the cobra had rid himself of the blacksnake as the door slammed and he struck at it savagely. Then he sat for a whole hour waving his head to and fro, waiting for Snyder to reappear. That snake has something else to remember now.

Ten Swimmers Get Through Hell Gate.

Seventeen members of the United States volunteer life saving corps braved Hell Gate's treacherous tides in a swimming contest today and ten of them weathered the five mile course. The seven missing at the finish collapsed in trying to struggle through Hell Gate's most turbulent spots and were picked up by the rowboats trailing them.

Pete Ott of Yorkville station was the winner. Time, one hour and twenty-seven minutes. Pete's friends escorted a large loving cup full of beer down to the pier. He tossed it off, rubbed his stomach gently, and hurried away to dress for a ball game. The second place went to F. Crenan of the Dominican station. He came in three minutes after the winner. Jack Gilday of Harlem division was third, Pete Kirschner of Harlem, fourth, and Edward Flynn, another Harlem man, fifth.

Fred Lindenkohl of Harlem division had a hard time even after he got through the swirl off Berrin's island. When about a hundred feet from the finish he doubled up and sank. Three men in a boat jumped overboard and got him after diving once or twice.

Sentence Suspended on 678; 49 Women.

Section 12 of the penal code provides that several sections of the code which declare certain crimes to be punishable as therein mentioned, devolve the duty upon the court authorized to pass sentence to determine and impose the punishment prescribed, "but such court may in its discretion, suspend sentence during good behavior of the person convicted where the maximum punishment prescribed by law does not exceed ten years and such person never has been convicted of a felony."

In case of suspension of sentence the prisoner is put in charge of the probation officer. In seven months of the present year the seven judges of the Court of General Sessions have suspended sentence upon 678 persons. Out of that number forty-nine were women. The majority were convictions of misdemeanors, for which the law provides not more than a year's imprisonment or a $500 fine or both.

Harry Thaw's Mother Confident of Victory.

Harry Thaw had no visitors at White Plains today and spent Sunday quietly in his cell at the county jail, where he will remain until Justice Mills makes his finding on the recently concluded habeas corpus proceedings to determine Thaw's sanity. Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, Harry's mother, said tonight that she expected her son either would be set free or placed, perhaps, in Bloomingdale asylum for further observation. Dr. H. Ernest Schmidt, the superintendent at Bloomingdale, is a friend of Justice Mills, and it was Mrs. Thaw's suggestion that he could make daily reports to the court.

Thief, Pursued, Falls Down Shaft to Death.

At daylight this morning the body of a young burglar, dressed in stolen clothes, was found lying at the bottom of an apartment house airshaft, his skull crushed, his spine snapped, and nearly every bone in his body broken. The police, who had chased the man upstairs and over the rooftops, lost him in the darkness, and supposed he had escaped.

Beside the body lay two suits of clothes, three umbrellas, three silk handkerchiefs, and a pile of cheap jewelry. The body was identified at the morgue by the man's mother as that of Patrick Healy.

WOMAN DEFENDER OF GAMING

Mrs. Hanan Says Narragansett Pier Needs Real Gambling.

CANNOT HURT RICH MEN.

Another Faction at Summer Resort Would Close All Tight.

Narragansett Pier, Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Narragansett Pier is trying to solve the problem of just how immoral it ought to be to retain its popularity as a rich man's summer resort and still give morals something of a run for their money.

And as the place has a problem, it naturally follows that it has factions. The advocate of the liberal policy, which recognizes regulated gambling as a necessity of the place and calls for an increase in the number of saloons, is Mrs. John Henry Hanan, wife of a New York millionaire, and recognized here as one of the pier's leaders of society. She also is a native of the village.

On the other hand is William M. Ivins of New York, who is afraid that gambling is going to ruin the place, and who has declared that he will, if necessary, hire fifty men to abolish what he calls the "gilded palace of sin" in Beach street.

After deploring the fact that the conduct of the pier has become an issue in politics and a matter of discussion on the part of "lid" reformers, Mrs. Hanan said:

"I don't see how any one could desire to hurt this beautiful place. It's nothing more than an ocean grove—the back door to society. Newport, you know, is the front door. As far as gambling is concerned, it's something that's got to exist. My idea of this question is that it ought to be regulated. I believe this form of amusement is the rich man's pastime, and it's nobody's business how he spends his money as long as he doesn't injure anybody else."

CACTUS JIM OF DEATH VALLEY SEES GOTHAM, PREFERS PLAIN.

Partner of Founder of Bull Frog, Ariz., Says He'd Rather Be Where He Can Hear Himself Think.

New York, Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Cactus Jim, otherwise James A. McGinty, a man whose habitat for forty-five years has been Death Valley in southern California, has spent three weeks in New York looking over these diggings. Keen eyed and with a visage browned by the sun of the desert, he stood today in Times square watching the throngs, as unnoticed and as unpicturesque as any of them. For Cactus Jim knows how to adapt himself to his surroundings.

When he was a baby McGinty's parents migrated from Pennsylvania to Missouri. In the early '50s they contracted the gold fever and went across the plains in a prairie schooner to California. There, between the Panamints on the west and Funeral range on the east, McGinty has lived ever since.

He is said to have dug from the earth and lost a dozen fortunes. His partner though many years in the prospecting line was Shorty Harris, founder of Bull Frog, Ariz. Harris was killed by a Mexican two months ago. When Cactus Jim was asked today what they did to the Mexican, he said the "greaser didn't get far."

"I haven't been east of Arizona before since I was a kid," said McGinty today. "I've seen New York now and I'm glad I've come, but I don't think I'll ever have a yearning to come again. There's so much in this town that it depresses a fellow. After you've looked it over you feel like a fellow who has eaten too much. I want to go where I can see the sky and throw up my hat and hear myself think. There's more loneliness here than out where the sands lay white and burning and the only life you see is the winged things circling against the blue."

MAN MAKES $1,000 A MINUTE.

He Is a Minister and His Pleading Wins $53,428 for Missionary Work.

Old Orchard, Me., Aug. 8.—Nearly $50,000 for missionary work was raised by the Rev. A. B. Simpson of New York within three-quarters of an hour at the annual offering of the Christian Missionary Alliance here today.

A few hours later this amount was augmented so that the total for the day reached $53,428, the largest offering in recent years. The sum is composed of pledges ranging from 50 cents to $5,000.

The collection was prefaced by an hour's appeal by the Rev. Mr. Simpson, in which he eloquently set forth the need for the money.

1,200 Will Shoot in Ohio.

Camp Perry, O., Aug. 8.—Twelve hundred men are in camp tonight in readiness for the four weeks' rifle tourney which begins tomorrow with the annual competition of the Ohio national guard. Matches of the Department of the Lakes Rifle association, the Ohio Rifle association, and the National Rifle association will follow weekly in the order named.

SEEK TO MINIMIZE THE LAW'S DELAYS

GOOD PROGRESS IS MADE.

Recommend Changes and Request Expressions of Opinion Regarding Them.

New York, Aug. 8.—How can "the law's delays," notoriously vexatious and costly in the adjudication of commercial cases, be reduced to a minimum of annoyance and expense to the nation's vast interests?

This question, of growing importance to the commercial world, is being dealt with by a body of men fitted to deal with it from the vantage points of both familiarity and disinterestedness. The justices of the Supreme court of the first department of New York state are grappling with it and have made what many eminent legal minds consider excellent progress.

Though their efforts are primarily directed at securing reforms in laws and practices that shall achieve or approximate the end in view so far as New York state is concerned, their campaign has in its ultimate analysis a far broader scope. Its exemplary effect in the event of its success may embrace the sisterhood of states and influence their action to the benefit of the intimately corelated interests of the American business community.

Tell Results So Far.

Today the justices made public the results of their consideration of the question, so far as advanced. They start with the promise that the public's chief concern is in "the reduction of litigation to actual differences and the abatement of the law's delays in the composure of commercial cases."

They believe the people want to see done away with "as much as may be of litigious suspensions and employments of labor and capital, with the consequent hindrances of business and prosperity." Their tentative suggestion to this end are embodied in resolutions asking action by the justices of the Appellate division and of the law making powers of the state, upon which suggestions they invite expressions of opinion.

These suggestions are for marked simplification of privileges in pleadings for reform in court assignments, through which justices making orders in such cases shall be the ones to hear argument upon these orders, and for the passage of laws reducing the period within which such actions may be begun, and requiring clear statements of facts pleaded as constituting causes of action. One of the most important recommendations is that for the practical abolition of the demurrer in civil actions.

Ask Expressions of Opinion.

The justices practically recommend certain definite changes hereafter enumerated. Expressed in their own language, they "request expressions of opinion" respecting:

1. Setting apart terms and assigning justices so that all actions in commercial causes,—to wit: On sales of personal property, including agreements incident to such sales, for work, labor, and services and material furnished, upon policies of insurance and upon negotiable paper and other instruments transferable by indorsement or order, shall be promptly triable throughout the year.

2. Granting no delay or postponement or opening of default in trials or proceedings upon consents of attorneys, but only upon due cause shown, saving to parties themselves, however, the right to effect suspension of a cause by a writing over their own hands or the hands of their attorneys in fact.

3. Requiring that a descriptive, verified list of all writings to be used in support of affirmative allegations in pleadings be filed with the clerk within five days after final joinder of issue.

4. Making motions brought upon orders to show cause returnable, so far as may be, before the judge or justice granting the order

Precise Statements in Pleadings.

5. Requiring clear, precise, and unequivocal statements in pleadings of all facts alleged affirmatively.

6. Substantially reducing the times limited for bringing actions in commercial causes and for taking appeals therein.

7. Materially shortening the periods for serving pleadings and other papers in all causes.

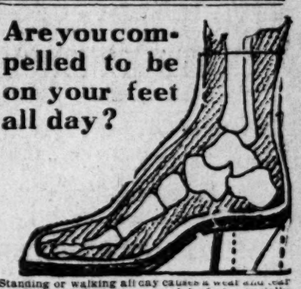

8. Directing that the objections now taken by demurrer shall be taken by answer and be argued, or deemed waived, at the opening of the trial and be decided by the judge or justice before taking up any other cause.

KING INTERVENES IN STRIKE CRISIS

Gustave of Sweden Urges Arbitration to End Labor and Industrial Strife.

WANTS PEACE RESTORED.

Printers and Drivers Will Quit Work Today, Increasing Ranks of Idle.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 8.—The tieup of the business life of the country as a result of the general strike is so serious that King Gustave intervened in an endeavor to secure a compromise. His majesty today sent a message to the parties at conflict exhorting them to come to an agreement at the earliest moment possible, and advising arbitration.

It was after King Gustave's message had been read and approved at a cabinet meeting on Saturday that his majesty summoned to the palace the two leaders of the warring factions, Director von Sydow of the employers and Senator Lindulst, president of the Federation of Trades unions, for a conference.

Printers and Drivers to Strike.

The result has not yet transpired, but apparently his majesty's efforts for a peaceful solution was without result, for tonight it was announced that the printers would strike tomorrow and the national labor union issued a proclamation that beginning tomorrow morning every dray or other wagon whose driver is not wearing a union permit badge will be stopped by strikers. No exception, it was stated, will be made for owners driving their own wagons.

The union further threatens to frustrate the attempt of the Stockholm Street Car company to start its cars tomorrow on the important lines with the aid of the company's officials and strike breakers.

Over 1,000 telephone and telegraph employés will strike Wednesday.

Paying Out $40,000 Daily.

The Employers' association is paying out $40,000 daily to support its weaker members. The cash in the association's treasury is sufficient to keep up this support for three weeks, and when the funds in the treasury are exhausted the association has a reserve fund of $4,500,000 which may be used. The strikers daily are receiving large contributions from Denmark, Norway, Finland, Germany, Roumania, and Bulgaria.

A journalist, Gustafson, has been summoned to court by the public prosecutor, charged with a crime against the penal code, that of exhorting the employés of the state railway to strike.

CHINA SUBMITS TO JAP PLAN?

No Disturbance Occurs Along Antung-Mukden Railroad, Which Is Being Rebuilt Despite Protests.

TOKIO, Aug. 8.—There is no sign of any disturbance anywhere along the line of the Antung-Mukden railroad, reconstruction of which was begun by the Japanese government yesterday.

It is believed that Japan's action in beginning the work at this time is taken in full confidence that China will not have recourse to anything approaching warlike measures.

The press of Japan is generally supporting the government. It is significant that some papers not usually friendly to the government are supporting its present action.

It was reported today that Japan has received instructions from Pekin in which objections of the Chinese government to the reconstruction of the Antung-Mukden railroad and its conversion into a standard gauge line are withdrawn.

POLICE ARREST BOMB BAND.

RIGA, Russia, Aug. 8.—Plain clothes detectives today arrested five out of twelve members of the International Terrorist organization who had arrived here by the way of England and the United States for the purpose, it is alleged, of committing a series of armed robberies and assassinations.

The police had been informed in advance of the intentions of the men and surprised and disarmed two of them in the street and arrested the other three in their lodgings, where bombs, Mauser rifles, and a number of cartridges were found.

The authorities as yet have found no clew as to the whereabouts of the remaining seven members of the gang.

DUBLIN, Aug. 8.—The convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians was held at the Mansion house today. Mr. McManus presided.

Adjt. Gen. McCarthy, rerpesenting the United States, stigmatized as a baseless fabrication the allegations of the Irish press that the members of the order in America had seceded from it as a protest against the recent action of their envoys.

Death Terminates His Active Career.

William T. Johnson, long a resident of Chicago, who once was prominent in political circles, died at his residence, 51 Alice place, yesterday morning, of heart disease, aged 74. He was born in West Moreland, N. Y., but became connected with the Mason Iron works of this city in 1853 and came to Chicago to live. For many years he was a member of the Kellogg, Johnson & Bliss hardware firm on Randolph street.

In 1878 Mr. Johnson was elected to the state senate of Illinois, where he served until 1880, when he became treasurer of Cook county. He was appointed on the railway commission by Gov. Oglesby in 1884 and was Indian commissioner under President Garfield.

His widow and two daughters, Mrs. H. L. Bleeker of Spokane, Wash., and Mrs. A. L. Baker of San Francisco, Cal., survive him.

FRENCH WILL HAVE FETE OF WEEK TO HONOR HUGO.

Revival of Play at Comedie Francaise and Big Parade Will Follow Dedication of Statue to Novelist.

PARIS, Aug. 8.—The dedication of a new statue of Victor Hugo by Rodin on September 26, the fiftieth anniversary of the publication of the "Legende des Siecles" (Story of the Centuries), is to be made the occasion of a week's literary celebration to the memory of the great novelist and poet. There will be a ceremony at the Pantheon, a revival at the Comedie Francaise of "Le Roi S'Amuse," with Silvain in the rôle of Triboulet, and a fête in front of Notre Dame with a big procession of "vagabonds" carrying colored torches.

The loge will be reserved at the Comedie Francaise for Adele Hugo, the daughter of the poet, whose sad and tragic history has aroused the sympathy of the world. As a girl she was kidnaped at Guernsey by an English officer. Her parents searched Europe for her without obtaining a trace of her whereabouts when, several months later, a girl was found wandering alone, apparently demented, in the streets of New York.

"I am the daughter of Victor Hugo," was all she ever said. She was sent back to her parents, but with wide staring eyes she kept her lips sealed and the mystery of her martyrdom, perhaps a stranger and more absorbing drama than her father ever wrote, never was revealed. She never entirely recovered her reason and since the death of her father has lived in his villa, morose, solitary, and alone, seldom speaking and never of the novelist.

OBITUARY.

CHARLES F. BERG, 6418 Yale avenue, for many years in the county treasurer's office, died yesterday morning after a lingering illness, resulting in hardening of the arteries. He was born Dec. 26, 1847, on the present site of the Academy of Music in Halsted street. His father, Anton Berg, was one of the early settlers of Chicago. He was chief clerk of the county treasurer's office for twelve years. He left a widow, Mary E., four daughters, Ella, Edna, Florence, and Genevieve, and a son, Frank. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 10 o'clock at the residence. Interment will be in Mount Olivet.

AZARIAH EDDY died yesterday at his residence in Evanston after a few weeks' illness. He was born in Fremont, O., in 1834, and came with his family to Chicago in 1865. Soon afterwards he became a member of the Chicago board of trade. He moved to Evanston two years ago. He left a widow and two sons, Thomas Eddy of Evanston and George Eddy of New York. Funeral services will be held in St. Mark's Episcopal church, Evanston, tomorrow afternoon. Interment will be at Rosehill.

ARTHUR E. WELBY, who helped build the Denver and Rio Grande railroad through the Royal Gorge and for ten years was general superintendent of that road, died at Denver yesterday. At the time of his death he was vice president of the Laramie and Northwestern. For two years he was general manager of the railroads of Peru.

W. H. F. BECKHAM, a cousin of former Gov. Beckham of Kentucky and frr several years a member of the reportorial staff of the New York Times, died early yesterday from accidental gas asphyxiation. Beckham had been in the newspaper business for twenty-five years, having worked in Chicago, Washington, and elsewhere.

BRIG. GEN. EDWIN B. ATWOOD, who was retired from active service in 1903, died suddenly at noon yesterday at the Del Prado hotel. He served forty-two years in the United States army. He was 68 years old. Gen. Atwood was a member of the Union League and Hamilton clubs.

MILTON CANDLER, formerly congressman from Georgia and for several terms a member of the state legislature, died last night at his home in Decatur, Ga., aged 72.

TURKEY DELAYS ITS ULTIMATUM

Only Messages Sent to Greece as to Trouble Over Crete Are Verbal.

POWERS HOPE FOR PEACE

Envoys at Both Capitals Urge All Means to Prevent a Clash of Arms.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 8.—The steps the porte has taken at Athens concerning Crete have been confined exclusively to verbal representations. No written note has been presented and nothing in the form of an ultimatum, the representations having been couched in the friendliest language consistent with firmness.

Greece already had informed the porte that the Greek officers in Crete had been struck off the Greek army list since 1906 and that the whole question was in the hands of the four protecting powers.

From the Turkish standpoint such a reply was unsatisfactory, but much is hoped for from the energy the protecting powers are displaying to prevent the crisis becoming dangerous.

The ambassadors of the four protecting powers—Great Britain, Russia, France, and Italy—held a conference today at Therapia, the summer colony of the ambassadors, and will reassemble tomorrow morning to agree upon a common action which will be taken without delay.

The agitation against Greece is growing in the Turkish provinces. In some towns it has taken the form of a boycott of Greek goods. The war minister has received news of the formation of a volunteer force of 5,000 men at Monastir, which is ready to march against Greece.

Powers Are Advising Greece.

ATHENS, Greece, Aug. 8.—It is stated that the Greek reply to Turkey will be delivered Tuesday. The representatives of the powers are holding frequent conferences with the premier and foreign minister. An Austrian squadron and an Italian warship have arrived at Volo. It is supposed they are on the way to Saloniki.

English Faith in Powers.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The acute stage reached in the dispute between Turkey and Greece over Crete is causing anxiety in the European capitals, but Europe will see that no mischievous effects result therefrom. There is no idea that hostilities will result.

The four protecting powers are making energetic representations both to Constantinople and Athens to secure an amicable arrangement of the dispute. The four powers insist that under no circumstances shall the Greek flag be hoisted over any public building in Crete.

The Times' Constantinople correspondent says the question arises whether the porte is now courting a diplomatic check by communicating with Greece on a matter for which four powers have assumed full responsibility, and also whether the confusion of the Macedonian and Cretan issues by calling attention to the reserve Greek officers in Macedonia in a note to Greece is not calculated to arouse a suspicion that the porte, acting doubtless under pressure, is desirous of forcing a war upon Greece.

Germans' Plan Is Pleasing.

PARIS, Aug. 8.—Great satisfaction is felt here that Germany is supporting the representations of the protective powers upon Turkey for the necessity of a peaceful solution of the Turco-Greek dispute over Crete. The status quo existing at the time of the evacuation of Crete by the international troops alone was promised to Turkey, and it is considered that energetic action is necessary at Constantinople in order to prevent Turkey from advancing fresh pretensions.

BOLIVIA NEAR A NEW CRISIS.

Inauguration of President-Elect May Not Be Celebrated According to Schedule.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Aug. 8.—It is stated that although the inauguration of Dr. Don Eliodoro Villazon as president of the republic has been set for next Thursday there are many persons here who doubt that this program will be consummated, owing to Villazon's alleged friendliness toward Argentina.

The element opposed to Villazon is said to favor the declination of Señor Montes, the retiring president, to accept Argentina's award in the boundary dispute between Bolivia and Peru and his action in placing the question before congress, where its acceptance is considered most improbable.

The situation in Bolivia never has been more serious and sensational events are expected shortly.

SOMMER AIRSHIP IN ACCIDENT

AERONAUT IS NOT HURT.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, Aug. 8.—Roger Sommer today attempted another flight in his biplane at Mourmelon-le-Grand, following his record trial of yesterday. The motor worked badly and the biplane touched ground twice. Then it shot into the air, but when it reached a height of twenty-five feet it fell and the machine was completely smashed. Sommer was not hurt.

NEW YORKER IN FIVE FLIGHTS.

New York, Aug. 8.—Charles Foster Willard made five successful flights in the aeroplane, Golden Flyer, of the New York Aeronautic Society near Mineola, Long Island, at dawn today. The lengths of the flights varied from seven-tenths of a mile to two miles.

In the fourth flight Willard successfully accomplished his first turn, sweeping over the field at a 40 mile clip at a height of thirty feet. He made three complete turns in all, covering two thirds of a circle. His feat is considered remarkable in that he has made but eleven flights.

SEE AIRSHIP OVER EVANSTON.

And now come Policeman George Pestka and Paul Tubman of Evanston and declare their readiness to make affidavit that they saw a balloon or other manner of air craft soaring last night over Northwestern university campus. The presence of the aerial wanderer was detected by its display of a light now green and now white. The outfit disappeared over the lake.

FEAR NEW BARCELONA STRIKE.

Two Factories Set on Fire by Incendiaries, Three of Whom Are Killed by Soldiers.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Aug. 8.—A dispatch to The Telegraph from Barcelona by way of Cerbere, France, says a strike is feared as the result of employers not paying their men during the week of the late strike. Two factories were set on fire Saturday night and incendiaries fired on the fire brigade. Soldiers intervened. Three incendiaries were killed and seven wounded. Many arrests were made. Much uneasiness exists.

CONNERS SUES FOR $100,000.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Papers will be filed here tomorrow with the county clerk by attorneys for William J. Conners, chairman of the Democratic state committee, in a suit against the owners of Collier's Weekly, for $100,000 damages because of an article published July 11, 1908. The complaint contains the entire article complained of, in which Mr. Conners alleges he is charged with various crimes, including assault, secret murder, riot, and conspiracy.

John T. Fenlon, an attorney of New York City, has filed an answer for Collier's, in which he denies there was any intention to bring the plaintiff into disgrace or that he has been injured.

The proprietors of Collier's admit the publication of the article, but they deny malice or that Mr. Conners has been injured by the article, and say they have no information sufficient to form a belief as to Mr. Conners' standing for integrity.

Do You Think Uncle Sam's Whiskey Test the Best?

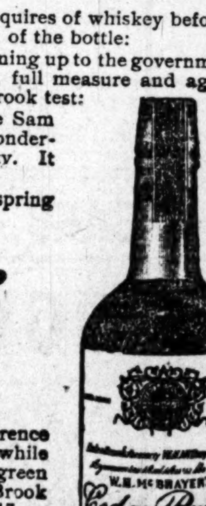

Here is everything that your Uncle Sam requires of whiskey before he will place the little green stamp over the cork of the bottle:

That it pass the test of the U. S. gauger as coming up to the governmental standard of purity, being straight, 100 proof, full measure and aged at least four years. Here is the famous Cedar Brook test:

Not only must all the requirements of Uncle Sam be met, but there must be quality supreme, a wonderful flavor, delicacy, smoothness, individuality. It must be aged six to eight years.

Only choicest selected grains and purest spring water used.

W. H. McBrayer's "Cedar Brook" Bottled in Bond

in short, must better the test of Uncle Sam.

Compare the age. It will show you the difference in the tests. Uncle Sam requires four years, while Cedar Brook requires six to eight. It has the green stamp on every bottle, and it meets the Cedar Brook test, TOO. The world's best whiskey since 1847.

RECLAMATION ROW DUE?

Director Newell Hears That Attack on Service Will Be Made.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Every train that reaches Spokane brings a load of delegates who are to take part in the sessions of the National Irrigation Congress which opens tomorrow morning.

A peculiarity of these delegations is that a number of eastern states that never heretofore have paid any attention to the sessions are to be represented. It is reported that several high class corporation lawyers are hidden away among these new comers and that the lines are being laid for a well organized attack on the forest and reclamation services.

Director F. H. Newell, of the reclamation service, arrived today and is to be one of the chief speakers during the afternoon session tomorrow. Mr. Newell said this evening he was aware of the report that the reclamation service would be attacked. It is believed the expected explosion will occur Wednesday when secretary Ballinger is to address the congress on "The attitude of the administration toward the reclamation of the west."

Exciting Time May Be Had.

Ballinger had been credited with harboring antipathy for Mr. Newell and it has been reported that he has picked out a successor to the present head of the reclamation service. Threats have been made that Ballinger will be subjected to a heavy crossfire at once if he ventures to express any ideas while addressing the delegates that are not in accord with the established attitude of the irrigation congress.

The other side is on the alert, but practically all are merely on the defensive. If some one starts things going it is reasonably certain that this will be the most exciting congress that the irrigationists have attended.

All of the hotels are filled. Many guests are sleeping on cots, while others are being accommodated at private houses. The streets are bright with decorations and festoons of electric lights and every effort is being made for the comfort and entertainment of the visitors. During the day the delegation from southern Idaho arrived from Boise on a special train. There are about 100 in this delegation, which brought its own brass band.

Frisco May Get Next Year's Meet.

The contest for the honor of capturing the irrigation congress next year is likely to be one of the interesting features of the session. At present the contest appears to have narrowed down to a choice between Pueblo, Colo., and San Francisco.

It is believed San Francisco can capture the prize provided the delegation from that city is in earnest about wanting the congress. There has been talk of taking the convention to Chicago, but no systematic campaigning with that end in view has been done.

John I. Martin, who has been sergeant at arms at several Democratic national conventions, is here as a delegate from St. Louis. Mr. Martin intends to introduce a resolution in favor of the lakes to the gulf deep waterway.

Louisiana to Enter Show.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Louisiana will be represented by an exhibit of resources at the United States Land and Irrigation exposition in Chicago from Nov. 20 to Dec. 4, according to Edward Wisner, chairman of the immigration committee of the Progressive union, who returned today from Chicago.

The exhibit will cost the state nothing and will include sugar cane, rice, corn, cotton, vegetables, and fruits.

"Leaving fruit lands out of consideration, Louisiana produces more average value to the acre cultivated than any other state, nearly twice as much as its nearest competitor, Illinois," said Mr. Wisner. "Drainage land always has been fertile, containing as it does rich deposits of salt gathered from the mountains. Over this, decayed vegetation leaves a top soil as good as any fertilizer—sometimes a foot deep. In his report to the United States geological survey Prof. Shaler refers to the swamp lands of this country as containing the 'dormant wealth of the nation.'"

BORAH TALKS ON IRRIGATION.

Senator William E. Borah of Idaho arrived in Chicago yesterday on his way home from Washington. He will remain here until tonight to attend to personal business. He was to have been one of the principal speakers at the irrigation congress which opens in Spokane today, but pressing affairs at Washington made it impossible. He expressed much regret over his inability to attend, because, he said, of the great good that accrues from such meetings but felt that the interests of his state would be well taken care of by Gov. Brady, regular delegate.

"The people at large do not realize the importance of such gatherings," said Senator Borah. "Irrigation has done incalculable good for Idaho in the way of wealth and population, and you would be surprised to see the fine lot of settlers the scheme is drawing.

"Idaho now has four vast irrigation enterprises in process of completion, and about 100,000 acres of the newly fertilized land is already occupied. At completion one of these plants will reclaim 372,000 acres, the second 200,000, the third 150,000, and the fourth 100,000. As an illustration of what it means I might mention the city of Twin Falls with its population of 5,000. Five years ago that place was a desert. Today, through irrigation, it has a fine electric light plant, a perfect sewerage system, and all other modern conveniences that go with up to date city life.

"That was accomplished by damming the Snake river and the construction of reservoirs, with one parent canal and hundreds of small canals which pass over the land. The land is divided up into homesteads of from forty to eighty acres, and every subdivision means a family on what a short time ago was barren land. That is the general scheme of irrigation—one immense canal with a network of smaller canals—and I cannot see how the present system can be improved upon."

"A fine class of settlers are being attracted. They come mostly from Iowa, Wisconsin, and Illinois, though there is a good percentage from farther east. Previous to irrigation any of the land may be bought for $10 per acre, but the improvement enhances it from $100 to $300 per acre. The dry climate makes it particularly adaptable for all fruits except the most tropical kind, such as oranges and pineapples. We find a ready market for it, and our hay and grain is disposed of right at home. You know we have 3,000,000 sheep in Idaho."

WAIT WHILE PARENTS DRINK.

Two Little Boys Found Outside Saloon Unintentionally Cause Arrest of Their Father and Mother.

Two boys, one 4 and the other 8 years old, were standing in a stairway in front of a saloon at 106 West Madison street last night. A policeman said to them:

"What's the matter, boys?"

"Papa and mamma won't go home with us," they replied. "They're in the saloon there drinking and they won't take us home."

The policeman went into the saloon and found the parents of the children, William and Hulda Woods, 37 and 30 years old, drinking at the bar. Both were arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct and the children were placed in the care of the police station matron.

NEW RECORD MADE IN OUR IMPORTS

Quantity of Raw Materials Bought Greatest in Nation's History.

INDUSTRY AT HIGH TIDE.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 8.—The quantity of manufacturers' material imported into the United States in the fiscal year just ended exceeds that of any earlier fiscal year in the history of the manufacturing industry of the country. This statement is the result of a careful analysis of the import statements of the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor.

Raw wool, raw cotton, raw silk, fibers, hides and skins, india rubber, tobacco, tin, copper, lumber, and certain articles included under the general group "chemicals, drugs, and dyes," are the principal articles imported for manufacturing, and in nearly all of these the quantity imported in 1909 exceeded that of any earlier year.

Exceptions Are Shown.

There are a few exceptions. Raw wool, for example, shows a slightly higher quantity imported in the fiscal year 1897 pending the enactment of the Dingley law, which transferred wool from the free to the dutiable list; pig tin, lead, cotton, and lumber show in certain earlier years quantities slightly in excess of the figures of 1909. But in all the other important articles of manufacture, such as copper ore, copper pigs, fibers, hides and skins, india rubber, raw silk, tobacco, and many other articles of less importance, the quantities imported in 1909 are larger than ever before.

It does not follow, however, that this highest record of quantity of manufacturers' materials imported shows the highest record as to values. On the contrary, the figures show that the value of crude materials imported for use in manufacturing in the fiscal year 1909 was $24,000,000 below the value of this group of imports in 1907, and manufactures for further use in manufacturing were $52,000,000 below the figures of 1907. This fall in value of manufacturers' materials imported, in the face of an increase in quantity, is due, of course, to lower prices in 1909 than in 1907.

Shows Price Comparisons.

The reduction in import prices of manufacturers' materials, which resulted in lower totals of value while quantities were greater than ever before, is illustrated by a comparison of the import prices in June, 1909, with those of June, 1907, when prices in the various parts were much higher than at the present time. The average import price of pig copper, for example, in June, 1907, was 21.6 cents per pound, and in June, 1909, 12.5 cents per pound; raw cotton in June, 1907, 18.2 cents per pound; in June, 1909, 15 cents per pound; Manila hemp in June, 1907, $202.01 per ton; in June, 1909, $103.58 per ton; leaf tobacco, suitable for wrapper, in June, 1907, $1.17 per pound, in June, 1909, 98.5 cents per pound; clothing wool in June, 1907, 25.7 cents per pound; in June, 1909, 23.3 cents per pound; combing wool, in June, 1907, 32 cents per pound; in June, 1909, 22.4 cents per pound; carpet wool, in June, 1907, 15.6 cents per pound; in June, 1909, 12.1 cents per pound.

LAND DRAWINGS OPEN TODAY.

Applicants for Cœur d'Alene Homesteads Will Know Fate—Other Lotteries to Follow.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 8.—From a heap of more than 105,000 envelopes drawing will begin tomorrow morning to decide the lucky applicants for lands thrown open to entry and settlement in the Cœur d'Alêne reservation.

Cans containing the envelopes will be cut open in public view and emptied on a big wooden platform. The envelopes will be mixed with shovels and the selection of the first 100 will be made by Miss Helen Hamilton of Cœur d'Alêne. Each envelope as drawn will be opened by the land officers and the name announced.

The drawing for the Flathead reservation will be made on Thursday and Friday by Miss Christina Donlan of Missoula, Mont., and that for the Spokane reservation on Monday, Aug. 16, by Miss Harriet Post of Spokane.

For the Flathead reservation 6,000 applications will be drawn, and for the Spokane reservation 250, in each case twice the number of available homesteads. The excess will be drawn to allow for improperly filled out applications and for any other irregularities.

Boston, Aug. 8.—James O'Brien of Louisville, Ky., who was arrested here yesterday on the charge of conspiring to defraud the Louisville Street Railway company of $35,000, left Boston for that city today in custody of Sheriff Edward Moran of Louisville.

A NEW SCHOOL NEEDED.

The Wright brothers are quoted as saying that they will build an aeroplane for $7,500 for anybody who wants one. Now that they have demonstrated so thoroughly the fine qualities of their machine—its great speed and its birdlike ability to rise and sink while sweeping over hills and valleys, there must be a number of adventurous spirits who would like to own one. The automobilists, whose recreation is interfered with by bad roads and by other vehicles, would like to try the smooth and vacant pathways of the air, to fly as the bird flies, and float over ponds or lakes instead of having to travel around them.

There is a practical difficulty as yet. One cannot buy with a machine the skill to operate it, and there are no aeroplane chauffeurs, nor is there any one to teach them. Orville Wright is going abroad to interest foreign governments in the American invention. His brother will teach some army officers how to handle the aeroplane the government has bought of him. After having attended to that he will devote himself to the business of aeroplane construction.

Along with that should go the establishment of a school where a capable aviator could give instruction to eager pupils. Otherwise there would be no market for the machines when completed. Another thing will have to be done. That is, to satisfy life and accident insurance companies that aerial navigation is not a deadly sport. They are at present disinclined to stake money on men who seek recreation in the upper air. If aviation is not to be limited to a few, those who engage in it should not be deprived of the comfortable feeling that if they do fall from dizzy heights there will be some provision for their families.

WORTH ANOTHER TRIAL.

Gov. Deneen will be importuned in behalf of many interests as the time comes for the reassembling of the legislature and for him to define its activities by his call. The program for a special session cannot be too comprehensive without losing one of its advantages, which is that of specialization. Questions are lost in the jam of a regular session. They are emphasized by the limited number of subjects considered in extraordinary session.

Nevertheless there are several matters in addition to those chiefly responsible for the reassembling of the legislature which may be included in the call, and of these the question of authorizing the cities of the state outside of Chicago to establish the commission form of government is one. A bill conferring such authority was passed by the senate in the recent session, but died in a house committee. Representatives of a number of cities, including Springfield, Joliet, Peoria, and others of similar importance, did their utmost to secure favorable consideration of the measure.

It might be suggested that they are entitled to another chance and as good a one as a special session would give them. There is a political antipathy to innovation which is not necessarily reasonable. It may take several sessions to persuade the legislative politicians that they should allow a community to decide for itself whether it wishes to try a new method of municipal administration.

CHICAGO AND NEW YORK.

The Mendelssohn Glee club of New York has shown its good taste and its appreciation of the fitness of musical things by electing Clarence Dickinson of this city, conductor of our Musical Art society, as its director. The glee club has held a high position in New York during the last forty years and is now recognized as its principal choral society. Mr. Dickinson's predecessors have been Joseph Mosenthal, Edward MacDowell, Arthur Mees, and Frank Damrosch, the last named having recently resigned because of his arduous duties as director of the Institute of Musical Art in New York City.

These four ex-directors were excellent musicians of national reputation, but the prestige of the club will not suffer from any lack of musical scholarship or executive ability on Mr. Dickinson's part. The extraordinary results he has accomplished with our own Musical Art society are a sufficient guaranty of what he will accomplish in New York. He will prove himself worthy to wear the mantle of any of his distinguished predecessors.

The Chicago musical world will part with him reluctantly, but it is only another instance of this city's generosity towards the eastern metropolis and of its desire to do everything in its power to advance it along all lines of progress. Chicago has already sent New York many of its most successful financiers, some of its brightest journalists, and a number of artists and illustrators, and if New York is in need of musicians we can supply it with them. Chicago is a great and inexhaustible source of everything that tends towards sweetness and light, as well as of the factors which make for commercial and financial progress. It stands ready to accommodate New York whenever that metropolis is in need of help and asks for it sweetly.

MARRIAGE AND SPIRITISM.

Prof. James H. Hyslop of the Society for Psychical Research, in common with the other members of that society, has devoted much time to the investigation of alleged spiritual phenomena, with the result of finding that nearly all of them were too baseless to have warranted investigation. It is only when Prof. Hyslop has investigated something with which he is personally concerned that his reports possess any interest, and the most interesting of them all relates to his proposed second marriage.

The matter is a personal one, but as Prof. Hyslop freely and even genially takes the public into his confidence, it does not involve any breach of good taste or invasion of private affairs to speak of it. The professor himself has told the whole story. It appears that when he consulted his departed friends about the matter he was quite surprised to learn that it was no secret to them. They not only knew all his plans, but the woman who was to be the second Mrs. Hyslop.

His father and his old friend, Prof. Hudson, both of whom reside in the realms of the blessed, were strongly in favor of a second marriage, but the fact Mrs. Hyslop, who also resides there, acted most ungraciously, although in that region no one is married or given in marriage. She wouldn't listen to the proposition and she didn't care to know anything about any second Mrs. Hyslop. Indeed, the first Mrs. Hyslop sent downward from her airy empyrean that if the professor married a second time she would pack up and light out for some place where she would never be heard from again.

Her threats must have been overheard by her former father-in-law and his friend, the professor, for they soon changed their minds and advised against the marriage on the ground that it might divert the professor from his studies in spiritism. As the professor, however, had already abandoned his purpose, moved by some earthly consideration, the powwow in the spirit land seems to have been unnecessary. The first Mrs. Hyslop can retain her residence and calm her inappropriate display of temper, which has probably caused much unfavorable comment among the other spiritual first wives.

As far as this vale of tears is concerned, the Hyslop story has no special interest, but it is alarming that the disembodied spirits are allowed to interfere with personal affairs which are no concern of theirs. It is also depressing to note that there are spirits who, though rid of their troublesome bodies, still retain and exhibit the little jealousies and inconsistencies which they displayed when they were here.

THE CRETAN QUESTION.

When Great Britain, France, Italy, and Russia withdrew their troops from Crete last month they assured Turkey that its rights would be protected. They also notified Greece that it must not attempt to annex the island. Sir Edward Grey said the other day in the house of commons, "the powers hold the island in trust." In view of these assurances the note sent by Turkey to Greece demanding immediate disapproval of the agitation among the Cretans for union with Greece and a formal declaration that it entertains no ambitions as to Crete seems to have been uncalled for, unless designed to provoke war.

As far as Crete is concerned, Turkey can do nothing. The best it can hope for is to retain for a time its nominal suzerainty. Ultimately it will lose that. There was a story the other day about Turkey sending an army to Crete. It was a wild story, for, aside from the effective resistance the Cretans would make, the powers would not permit it.

In the last war between Greece and Turkey the former was the aggressor and was badly beaten. It got no sympathy in Europe. If Turkey were to bring about another war it would forfeit the sympathy of the powers, which wish it well.

One would imagine that the men in control at Constantinople would be averse to war. It would interfere with their plans for financial reorganization and other much needed reforms. It might win for them the support of those who distrust the progressive policies of the Young Turks, but that support would be dearly bought by a war. So, although the dispatches say that the situation is looked on as grave, it may not become desperate. The great powers wish to see peace preserved, and will use their influence to that end.

A WISE RESOLVE.

The secretary of the treasury has sensibly resolved not to sell any of the 3 per cent bonds authorized by the tariff act until there shall be need of money for canal purposes. If money in excess of current revenues shall be required to meet the general demands on the treasury, he will obtain it by issuing certificates of indebtedness which cannot run more than one year.

The declared purpose of the secretary in refusing to sell any 3 per cent bonds at this time is to keep the outstanding 2 per cent bonds from going below par. They are only a trifle above it. If 3 per cent bonds were issued it would be a little more profitable to use them as a basis of circulation than the 2s. That would drive the latter below par. That would force the banks, which have $640,000,000 of them on deposit to secure national bank notes, to reduce their circulation or to put up more bonds. An infinite amount of trouble would ensue. The banks would complain, and in some cases with truth, that they were not fairly treated—small banks, for instance, which had to pay as much as 108 to get bonds and secure circulation.

Aside from this, there should be no such increase in the volume of bank note circulation as there would be if any considerable number of the bonds authorized by the tariff act were sold. Banks which bought and held them would use them as they have the 2 per cents for that purpose.

Under a ruling of the treasury made two years ago notes can be taken out against a deposit of certificates of indebtedness. Unless that ruling should be reversed—and there is no reason why it should not be—the certificates to be issued this year may be thus employed. Perhaps, however, they would not be to a great extent, because they would run for so short a time.

The country never will rid itself of a bond secured currency, if more and more bonds which may be used as a basis of circulation are put out. It is a misfortune that congress did not make the 3 per cents nonusable.

MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

FORTUNATELY for the reigning house of Saxe-Weimar, Prince Hermann, who has just been expelled from his membership of that sovereign family and deprived not only of his position as heir presumptive, but also of all his rights and prerogatives as a prince of the blood, has a younger brother, Prince Albert, who is serving as a captain of the Second or Pasewalk Prussian Cuirassiers, and has thus far given no cause for complaint as to his conduct.

Owing to the childlessness of the widowed grandduke, and to the improbability of his marrying again, Prince Albert will, according to present appearances, be the next ruler of the grand duchy of Saxe-Weimar, and the chief of all the junior branches of the house of Saxony, which include the king of Saxony, the dukes of Saxe-Meiningen, of Saxe-Altenburg, and of Saxe-Coburg Gotha, as well as the kings of England, of Portugal, and of Bulgaria, who are all three of them dukes of Saxony.

True Prince Albert's father is still living, namely, Prince William of Saxe-Weimar. But his career has been almost as stormy as that of his eldest son, who has just been disinherited. If he has refrained from rendering himself guilty of those unsavory shortcomings which led to the dismissal of his elder son in disgrace from the army and to his being divested of all the honors due to him as a scion of the Saxe-Weimar dynasty, he at any rate in his younger days involved himself in scrapes sufficiently serious to force him to leave Europe.

Prince William spent a number of years abroad and after some service in the foreign legion of the Dutch army in Sumatra came to the United States and under the name of "William Rohde" he earned his living by means of callings the reverse of royal. He received remittances from home, but like most remittance men, he always managed to spend them long before they came to hand, was often in the most desperate straits, knew by frequent experience what it was to go hungry, and picked up a living as a riding master, store clerk, salesman, and even as a waiter, the only prince of a reigning house of Europe who can boast of any such extraordinary vicissitudes. Overtaken by illness, his relatives took compassion on him, brought him home, and nursed him back to health. He then married Princess Gerta Isemburg, with whom he lives at Heidelberg, where he is not above recalling old times in the United States, with American students at the university, over a friendly mug of beer or glass of wine.

While his name figures on the retired list of the German army, with the honorary rank of major, he is not allowed by the grandduke to reside in his dominions, and is virtually boycotted by all the courts of Europe. The grandduke is said to have already taken steps to exclude him from the succession to the throne, in favor of his younger son, Prince Albert.

Ex-Prince Hermann, who from now on becomes an ordinary noble, with the title of Count Ostheim, and who remains a bankrupt, under "curatel," that is to say, precluded from the exercise of ordinary civic rights, constitutes a notable addition to the ever growing list of royal and imperial personages who have, for one reason or another, ceased to occupy a place on the steps of the throne, and who have forfeited their inherited rights and prerogatives of membership of a sovereign house.

Among them has been an uncle of the new Count Ostheim, namely, the late Prince Bernard of Saxe-Weimar, who sacrificed his rank in order to wed a Hamburg innkeeper's daughter, and received the title of Count Crayenberg, under which he spent several months in the United States in 1905 and 1906. Then there are the ex-Archduke Leopold of Austria, now Leopold Wolfling, who was excluded from the House of Hapsburg by Emperor Francis Joseph, and who is married to a Munich chambermaid, his sister, ex-Archduchess Louise, divorced by the present king of Saxony prior to his accession to the throne, and Duchess Pauline of Wurtemberg, who was obliged to descend to the rank of a Baroness Kirbach before she could obtain permission to marry Dr. Willim, in practice at Breslau.

The khedive of Egypt a few weeks ago solemnly excommunicated his cousin, Princess Saliha, widow of Prince Mahomed Ibrahim, divesting her of all her prerogatives as a princess of the reigning house of Egypt, owing to her determination to adopt the French stage as a profession, despite her great wealth. The Archduke John was obliged to surrender his status as a member of the reigning house of Austria-Hungary, and to assume the name of John Orth.

Prince Frederick of Schleswig-Holstein, brother of the German empress' father, made a voluntary sacrifice of his position as a prince of the blood, and became an ordinary noble, with the title of Prince Noer in order to be able to wed Miss Esther Lee of New York otherwise than morganatically. She is now the widow of Field Marshal Waldersee. Then there is Prince Oscar, the eldest of the brothers of the present king of Sweden, who renounced his rights of succession to the throne and his rank as a scion of the reigning house, becoming an ordinary citizen, with the title first of Count Wisborg and afterwards of Prince Bernadotte, in order to marry his mother's maid of honor, Miss Ebba Munk.

The fact that Count Wolff-Metternich, the German ambassador in London, should have consented to officiate as host at the large dinner dance given there just before the season closed by the Baroness Eckhardstein, at which some of the younger members of the royal family were present, goes to show that the sympathies of the German embassy and also of the German court have been with the baroness rather than with the baron in their recent domestic troubles.

It may be remembered that the Baron, after spending several years at Washington as attaché of the German mission there, was transferred to the German embassy in London as secretary. There he married the only child and heiress of the late Sir John Blundell Maple of Tottenham Court road. Eventually she was driven by her husband's extravagances and brutality to seek relief from the English courts. They declared that while there was plenty of evidence to warrant a decree of divorce against the baron, yet the fact that he was a German, who had his residence in Germany, with his legal domicile there, had the result of depriving the English tribunals of the right to dissolve the marriage, even though it had been contracted in England under English law. The presiding judge of the Divorce court decided that while he had no authority to grant a divorce, he possessed the power to devise measures for the protection of the baroness as long as she remained in England by according to her a decree of judicial separation.

The baron thereupon sued his wife in the Berlin courts on the ground of desertion, refusal to live with him, and a variety of other charges, on the strength of which he obtained a German divorce, but at the same time lost his position in the German diplomatic service.

That the German ambassador should after all this have consented to act as master of the house and host at the dinner dance of the baroness, at which most of the members of the German embassy in London were present, leaves no doubt as to the views of the German authorities about the baron's conduct. For I need hardly say that the ambassador never would have ventured to espouse the cause of the baroness in the way that he has done unless he had had the consent and approval of the kaiser.

[Dundee Advertiser.]

A newly appointed Scottish minister on his first Sunday of office had reason to complain of the poorness of the collection. "Mon," replied one of the elders, "they are close—vera close. But," confidentially, "the auld meenister he put three or four saxpence into the plate hissel', just to gie them a start. Of course he took the saxpences awa' with him afterwards." The new minister tried the same plan, but the next Sunday he again had to report a dismal failure. The total collection was not only small but he was grieved to find that his own sixpences were missing. "Ye may be a better preacher than the auld meenister," exclaimed the elder, "but if ye had half the knowledge o' the world, an' o' yer ain flock in particular, ye'd ha' done what he did an' glued the sixpences to the plate."

SENTIMENTAL JOURNEYS.

"I'm tired of parks," said Arethusa; "they're so sophisticated. I want to get into the country. Let's take a trolley ride."

"True," I agreed. "What trolleys have you?"

"Well, I have wanted to go to La Grange for some time," said Arethusa. "We take the I. C. to Twenty-second street, then a crosstown car as far as it goes, and then another car to La Grange. We can get back in time for dinner."

On a hot day the dear old I. C. (Infinitude of Cinders) is always trying, but we looked forward to the cross country run on the Twenty-second street line. Reader, have you ever been west on Twenty-second street? If so you recall the scenery—gas works, beer saloons, lumber yards, delicatessen shops, vacant lots, and a myriad tracks, o'er which you bump the bumps.

Progress was slow, owing to road mending and other things, but midway of the afternoon we came to the end of the Twenty-second street line. There was no La Grange car in sight, but doubtless one would come along. They always have. Away in the smoky distance stretched the weedy and illimitable plain, sizzling in the sun.

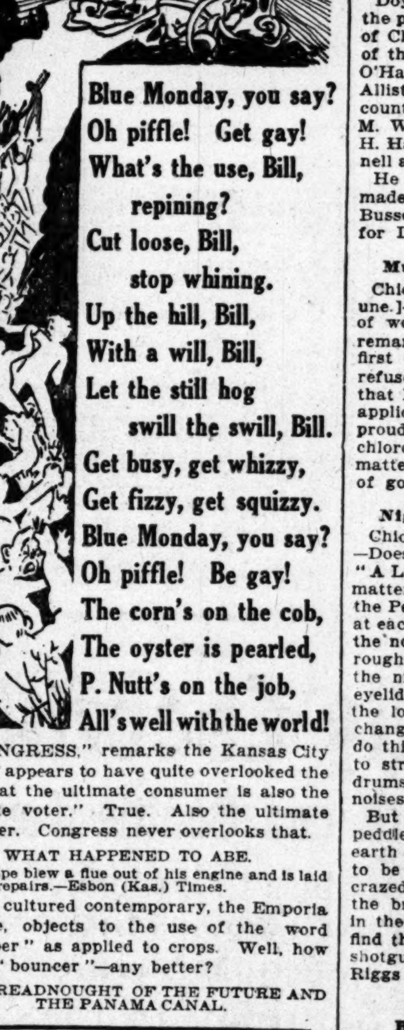

I consulted my watch. It advised me that we should be thinking of getting back to town.

We returned by the elevated railroad; the scenery is not remarkable, but it surpasses Twenty-second street. Thence by the I. C. to South Park. The house was still quiet, the breeze from the lake still cool. There was something in the ice box.

"Never again!" we vowed solemnly.

But there were other journeys, as you shall hear.

Shrimps and Skeletons on Free List.

Monmouth, Ill., Aug. 7.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The majority of the people of the middle west will rejoice in the fact that while cotton goods, woolen goods, gloves, hosiery, sugar, and a few hundred other articles of common use, under the Payne tariff, are to bear as high or higher duties than under the Dingley act, yet Mr. Aldrich has kindly (?) put on the free list a few prime necessities in everyday use among the common people—to wit:

Acorns, raw, dried or undried, but unground; aconite, apatite; catgut, bladders, birds stuffed, not suitable for millinery ornaments; blood, dried; cuttlefish bone; dragon's blood; fish skins; ice; joss sticks; lode stone; ivory tusks; spunk; silk worm eggs; vaccine virus; shrimps; and skeletons.

This all goes to show that the consumers are going to fare sumptuously every day, as a result of the redemption of the campaign promises of 1908.

Anyway THE TRIBUNE is to be commended for giving us the opportunity of seeing how the people were played for suckers by printing the list of old and new duties in a recent issue. SAM S. HALLUM.

Opposed to Pasteurized Milk.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I think if you understood better the subject of the pasteurized milk ordinance you would not advocate it. If the ordinance should continue in force it would prove to be a serious matter to the public, not only in a monetary sense but would also work great injury to the health of all who use milk.

Heating milk destroys the ferment and makes the milk hard to digest. Several years ago the sterilized milk craze struck this country and every infant that was reared artificially was fed sterilized milk. During that period the death rate among infants in one of the large hospitals of New York City was abnormally high. An investigation was ordered. It was found that sterilized milk caused intestinal irritation, brought on diarrhea, which in many cases was impossible to control, and the child died of starvation.

This accords with my personal experience. However, I lost no cases, because immediately after I read the report I changed the diet—gave whole milk—and saved my cases. Had I not done so I would certainly have lost the cases then under treatment.

It is true that pasteurization only requires a temperature of 140 degrees Fahrenheit, while sterilization requires 212 degrees. But a temperature of 140 degrees will destroy the ferment which is the life of the milk, so to speak, and make it hard to digest.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I was pleased to observe the letter of Henry Clay on "Old Men and Employment" in THE TRIBUNE of Aug. 5. I indorse every word he wrote.

I am an intelligent, active, vigorous man, both mentally and physically; have always lived a prudent, temperate life, so that today I am in my prime, and as capable of filling any place I may apply for as I ever was, but still I am unable to obtain suitable employment. It is not a question of fitness or ability, but simply the silly age barrier.

I have answered innumerable advertisements and made numerous personal applications, until it seems almost useless to make any further efforts. It is discouraging when a man knows he could make good if given a fair chance. As the leading question always seems to be in regard to age, regardless all other qualifications, of course there is "nothing doing" at once.

There should be no age limit to bar a man. It is a menace socially and morally, as it will make thousands of tramps, paupers, and dependents of worthy, capable men who are able and willing to work if only given a chance. I hope you will agitate the subject in your excellent paper until a change comes.

Suggests Doyle for Police Chief.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—[Editor of the Tribune.]—THE TRIBUNE'S commendation of ex-Chief Austin J. Doyle's record as "one of the highest excellence and efficiency" is opportune.

Doyle is still with us, hale and hearty, in the prime of life. Like Shippy, he is a native of Chicago, educated here; was deputy clerk of the recorder's court under "Honest Dan O'Hara," and the record clerk of Judge McAllister; clerk of the Criminal court of Cook county; justice of the peace, succeeding John M. Wilson; secretary of police under Carter H. Harrison Sr., and succeeded Simon O'Donnell as chief of police.

He introduced the "hurry wagon" and made many other innovations. If Mayor Busse wants integrity and efficiency, send for Doyle. "1840."

Must This Man Take Chloroform?

Chicago, Aug. 8.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I am one of the army of old men out of work. I have been pleased with recent remarks in your paper in our behalf. I have first class recommendations, but have been refused employment so many times lately that I am almost ashamed to make further application. I am too honest to steal and too proud to beg. What shall I do? Take chloroform? Could not some one take up the matter in a special way and do a vast amount of good? FIFTY-FIVE.

Night Workers' Sleep Disturbed.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Does it require a whole column to contain "A Line-o'-Type or Two"? But that doesn't matter. I am interested in the "Voice of the People." That's where we can get back at each other. I see Irvin Danielson defends the noisy peddler and sails into C. S. Riggs rough shod. If Mr. Danielson was one of the night workers who have to prop their eyelids open with pieces of matches during the long, dreary nights he probably would change his mind. But we poor sinners must do this to hold our job. We must get used to street cars, wagons, brass bands, bass drums, steam whistles, and other necessary noises.

But when it comes to these brass lunged peddlers, whose outlandish cries no one on earth can understand, then endurance ceases to be a virtue. In desperation some of us, crazed for sleep, jump out of bed and grab the broom, take deadly aim at the demon in the alley who has disturbed our rest, and find the blamed thing isn't a double barreled shotgun. There are others who believe C. S. Riggs is partly sane.

NIGHT WATCHMAN.

Boys as Elevator Conductors.

Hinsdale, Ill., Aug. 7.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—A recent issue of THE TRIBUNE contained an article on "Old Men and Employment," and in the same issue was an account of the terrible and untimely death of a young woman by falling down an elevator shaft, apparently through the carelessness or ignorance of the conductor, a 16 year old boy. I notice in many buildings only boys are employed to run the elevators, probably because they work for small pay.

When the city inspects the elevators it should also inspect the conductors, and see to it that only older men are employed where the lives of so much human freight are at stake.

Landlords or employers who for the sake of a few paltry dollars employ these children at the risk of human lives should be made to suffer the penalty of the rock pile for a term of years and be banished as lepers from society.

Dogs Allowed in Flats.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—As the columns of THE TRIBUNE favor cleanliness and order, what do you think of landlords and agents of flats allowing their tenants to keep dogs in four room flats? There are two in one flat and they wear no muzzles in this hot weather. In one building of sixteen flats there are on two floors ten dogs. A FLAT TENANT.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

Walter Damrosch and the New York symphony orchestra began the second of their engagements of five weeks at Ravinia park yesterday afternoon, by presenting a program in which predominated numbers as light, as airy, and as joyous as a summer breeze. The large matinée audience was bent on listening to music, and the heat, oppressive as it was, interfered little with the enjoyment afforded by the exertions of the musicians. The conductor and his men were assured again and again that their efforts were successful, and that, as it long has been, their playing was productive of keen satisfaction and pleasure.

The program included the Goldmark overture "Spring"; a Haydn serenade, the charming dance suite from the "Nell Gwyn" of German, two dainty trifles by Gillet, "Bleuette," and a pizzicati composition; the Bousquet polka, "The Birds," in which the solo parts were taken by Messrs. Barrere and Schmitt; the Tschaikowsky overture fantasy "Romeo and Juliet" and the ballet music from "Faust." It was a program ideally suited to a summer afternoon and one so arranged as to give the strings several fine opportunities. It so happens that this section of the organization is particularly well balanced and proportioned, being composed of players capable of producing and sustaining a tone that is pure, resonant, and exquisitely sweet. The presentations of the Gillet numbers and the "Nell Gwyn" dance music evidenced these tonal beauties in marked fashion and the interpretations of the Bousquet polka and the Gounod selection in only a slightly lesser degree.

Tonight's concert will bring forward as soloist Mme. Sturkow-Ryder, who will play Arensky's concerto for the piano with orchestral accompaniment. It being symphony night, the Brahms Symphony No. 1 (C Minor) will take up the first half of the program, and the additional numbers by the orchestra will include Mendelssohn's "Spinning Song" and Liszt's march from "Mazeppa."

Notes.

As no Sunday performance is being given at the Studebaker during the present engagement, the seventy members of "The Candy Shop" company were the guests of "The Climax" company at Powers' theater last evening.

Miss Sallie Fisher, George Parsons, and the other members of the cast of "The Goddess of Liberty" return to Chicago today from Milwaukee, where the new Singer musical production has had ten trial performances at the Majestic theater. The company will rehearse at the Princess tonight in preparation for tomorrow night's opening performance. It is announced that Miss Fisher has recovered from the attack of ptomaine poisoning suffered ten days ago.

Edward Abeles, who starred for three seasons in "Brewster's Millions" and was announced as the choice of Liebler & Co. for the rôle of David Murray in "The Pickpockets," to be tried again in the fall, has decided to go into vaudeville for a few weeks at least. In a one act play he will head the bill at the Majestic next week.

The entertainment at the Coliseum garden will be diversified this week by the introduction of a new dance number for the ballet. It will be known as the Valse La Velle, in honor of Mme. Yetta La Velle, to whom credit is due for a large share of the success achieved by the Coliseum ballet. Later in the week, Signorina Galimberti, the premiere, assisted by an octet of secundas, will revive the "Fame" dance from the first act of "Excelsior." In addition to the programs by Ferullo's band, a vocalist will sing each night during the intermission periods.

Miss Mabel Barrison will rest during the last week of the engagement of "The Blue Mouse" at the Garrick, and her place will be taken by Miss Millicent Evans, who has played the role on tour. Both Miss Barrison and Joseph E. Howard will rejoin the company before the Fitch farce is taken into Boston for an indefinite run, a month hence.

Nicknames of London Cabbies.

[London Chronicle.]

One wonders if the spruce taxicab drivers will ever riot in such a wealth of nicknames as the old time horsed cabmen. Before us lies the list of the newly elected annuitants of the Cabdrivers' Benevolent association, an admirable institution which is under the kindly patronage of the king. And the picturesque nickname crops up. "Trust in Providence," one notes, has secured the highest vote—his real name is Muston. "Mickey" (how do you coin it out of Albert Alexander? "Jack Fry of Chalk Farm," "Teddy Dempster, Langham Rank" "Old Charlie"—such like names are mostly of an obvious origin. But one is curious to know how Thomas Reeves earned his distinctive title of "Tommy the Pigeon Flyer."

She Lacked Time.

Headquarters of New Movement [to] Be in Hub City.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—"[Jane] Addams of Chicago, future president [of the] United States," will be the slogan [before] many months have passed, according [to] advocates of equal suffrage. Boston ha[s been] chosen as the starting point of the st[artling] and novel campaign, by which the w[omen] hope to gain prestige, if not actually a [presi]dent.

When William Dean Howells confe[ssed in] his characteristic fashion that he "h[ad no] doubt whatever that our national hous[ekeep]ing could be in no better hands than th[ose of] our natural housekeepers," he little th[ought] that already the suffragettes were pl[anning] to elevate a woman to the highest offic[e in the] nation's gift.

All Boston Women Like Idea.

Miss Alice Stone Blackwell says th[at a] better national housekeeper could be [found] than Jane Addams of Chicago, and he[r opin]ion is shared by Boston suffragettes, w[ho are] preparing to work with might and ma[in for] the election of Miss Addams.

"A woman president would be qu[ite] competent to attend to the national [affairs] as a man," says Miss Blackwell. "[There] have been women rulers of countries [before] now, and many of them stand out in h[istory] as notable for their good judgmen[t and] strong, intelligent minds.

"We have women today who would [make] quite as good presidents as any we [have] had. Miss Addams would make a [splen]did president. She would have as muc[h ...] as Taft, as much zeal for right as Roo[sevelt,] and a greater breadth of mind than [either] of them.

"Woman President a Great As[set]."

"It would be of inestimable value i[f Miss] Addams could be at the head of the c[ountry] for a few years. She is a woman of [won]derful breadth of ideas, who under[stands] labor conditions, social conditions, a[nd the] needs of the country."

Miss Blackwell is much in earnest [in her] advocacy of Jane Addams for the pres[idency,] and is sure that the National Suffra[ge as]sociation would turn out in a body for [her, with] light parades and stump speeches t[hroughout] along her campaign.

MISS ADDAMS CALLS IT "JO[KE]."

Miss Adams stated last night at Hi[ll] Park that the idea was a joke and th[at the] Boston suffragettes were jesters.

"I can't imagine who is responsi[ble for] this, but I can say it is all a joke," sh[e said.] "If the women of Boston who are inte[rested] in the suffragette movement started th[is, they] are jesters. It is altogether too absu[rd for] me to discuss it. I can say, however, [that I] am strongly interested in woman's su[ffrage,] although I have not been identified wit[h] an organized movement.

"Would I accept the presidency [of the] United States if it were possible for me? [Why] so? Well, that is a hypothetical qu[estion] that is too useless to discuss."

At Hull house the idea was called ridi[culous,] and it was said that no one there [would] worry about the presidency and Miss Ad[dams] for a considerable length of time yet.

FORSAKE STEEDS FOR AUTO[S] BUT CONTINUE HORSE SH[OW]

With the sale of old Jack, Louis E. Y[ager's] family horse, the actual owners of d[riving] horses among the directors of the Oak [Park] Horse Show association dwindles do[wn to] one man, Daniel G. Trench of Fair Oak[s].

The annual horse show therefore [will be] held under the auspices of a group o[f auto]mobile enthusiasts, each of whom po[ssesses] from one to five machines.

"When I sent old Prince to the f[arm it] was like parting with an old and b[eloved] friend," said Mr. Farson yesterday. "[There] was no one to exercise Prince. I c[ould not] spare the time from my auto, neither [could] the boys, and when I asked the chauf[feur to] drive it around the block I had to apo[logize,] so I concluded it was high time to ge[t a new] date, and forthwith sent Prince to [spend] its last days in peace out in the past[ure of] a St. Charles farm.

"What we want today is speed, a[nd we] cannot get it sitting behind a horse. [Peo]ple who drive horses today are as [far] behind the times as we will be a few [years] hence, riding in automobiles, while ou[r up] to date neighbors are soaring ov[er our] heads in aeroplanes."

Mr. Farson also prophesied that in [a few] years every one would be riding in a[utos] run by the traction companies "paying [5 per] cent" to the city.

Headquarters of New Movement Will Be in Hub City.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—"Jane Addams of Chicago, future president of the United States," will be the slogan before many months have passed, according to the advocates of equal suffrage. Boston has been chosen as the starting point of the startling and novel campaign, by which the women hope to gain prestige, if not actually a president.

When William Dean Howells confessed in his characteristic fashion that he "had no doubt whatever that our national housekeeping could be in no better hands than those of our natural housekeepers," he little thought that already the suffragettes were planning to elevate a woman to the highest office in the nation's gift.

All Boston Women Like Idea.

Miss Alice Stone Blackwell says that no better national housekeeper could be found than Jane Addams of Chicago, and her opinion is shared by Boston suffragettes, who are preparing to work with might and main for the election of Miss Addams.

"A woman president would be quite as competent to attend to the national duties as a man," says Miss Blackwell. "There have been women rulers of countries before now, and many of them stand out in history as notable for their good judgment and strong, intelligent minds.

"We have women today who would make quite as good presidents as any we ever have had. Miss Addams would make a splendid president. She would have as much tact as Taft, as much zeal for right as Roosevelt, and a greater breadth of mind than either of them.

"It would be of inestimable value if Miss Addams could be at the head of the country for a few years. She is a woman of wonderful breadth of ideas, who understands labor conditions, social conditions, and the needs of the country."

Miss Blackwell is much in earnest in her advocacy of Jane Addams for the presidency and is sure that the National Suffrage association would turn out in a body for torchlight parades and stump speeches to help along her campaign.

Miss Adams stated last night at Highland Park that the idea was a joke and that the Boston suffragettes were jesters.

"I can't imagine who is responsible for this, but I can say it is all a joke," she said. "If the women of Boston who are interested in the suffragette movement started this they are jesters. It is altogether too absurd for me to discuss it. I can say, however, that I am strongly interested in woman's suffrage, although I have not been identified with it as an organized movement.

"Would I accept the presidency of the United States if it were possible for me to do so? Well, that is a hypothetical question that is too useless to discuss."

At Hull house the idea was called ridiculous and it was said that no one there would worry about the presidency and Miss Addams for a considerable length of time yet.

The annual horse show therefore will be held under the auspices of a group of automobile enthusiasts, each of whom possesses from one to five machines.

"When I sent old Prince to the farm it was like parting with an old and beloved friend," said Mr. Farson yesterday. "There was no one to exercise Prince. I couldn't spare the time from my auto, neither could the boys, and when I asked the chauffeur to drive it around the block I had to apologize, so I concluded it was high time to get up to date, and forthwith sent Prince to spend its last days in peace out in the pastures of a St. Charles farm.

"What we want today is speed, and we cannot get it sitting behind a horse. People who drive horses today are as much behind the times as we will be a few years hence, riding in automobiles, while our more up to date neighbors are soaring over our heads in aeroplanes."

Mr. Farson also prophesied that in a few years every one would be riding in airships run by the traction companies "paying 55 per cent" to the city.

CLERGY ON THEIR VACATIONS.

Bishop Anderson and Many Rectors of Episcopal Churches Out of the City for the Summer.

Of the other Episcopal clergymen Dean Walter T. Sumner of the Cathedral of SS. Peter and Paul is at Manchester, N. H. The Rev. Frederick Du Montier Duvall of St. Andrews is at Lake Delavan, Wis. The Rev. W. C. De Witt, dean of Western Theological seminary, is at Lake Harbor, Mich. The Rev. J. H. Edwards of the Church of Our Savior has exchanged pulpits with the Rev. A. E. Carpenter of Manton, R. I. The Rev. Charles H. Young of Christ church is in camp near Rhinelander, Wis. The Rev. Simon B. Blunt of Redeemer church is in Rhode Island. The Rev. A. W. Griffin of St. Peter's is traveling in Europe.

The Rev. Z. B. T. Phillips of Trinity is with his wife and the children at Fond du Lac, Wis. As soon as the eldest daughter's health improves sufficiently, Dr. Phillips will go to Oxford, England for a course of study.

FIFTY YEARS IN JESUIT ORDER.

Assistant Pastor of Church of the Sacred Heart Receives Gold Chalice from Parishioners.

The Rev. Hugh J. Erley, assistant pastor of the Roman Catholic church of the Sacred Heart, West Nineteenth and Johnson streets, yesterday celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his connection with the Society of Jesus. He was ordained a priest in 1873, and has been assistant pastor of Sacred Heart church for fourteen years.

Father Erley celebrated solemn high mass and the benediction of the blessed sacrement. In the afternoon the children of the parish gave a reception in his honor in St. Stanislaus school hall, presenting Father Erley with a gold sick call service.

In the evening the entire parish participated in a reception in the church hall, at which the priest received a gold chalice.

Household Hints

IN THE NURSERY

For Mothers of Boys.

The only way a mother can occupy a boy's heart is to get in when he is young. Once locked out by a betrayal of a confidence, it is not an easy matter to effect an entrance.

The secret of a mother's success with her boys lies in some sort of an understanding that exists between mother and son, a looking at pleasant things from the same viewpoint, sympathy, harmony, love.

The mother who succeeds rarely has any rules, but there is always a day to day, hour to hour business of doing the best she can, trying, failing, gathering courage, and going on again, loving them all, praying a lot, and through everything expecting of them always the best that is in them, demanding a good deal, and realizing it finally.

* *

To Keep Child Cool.

If your little girl wears guimps in summer, sew a ruffle of embroidery or muslin to the bottom of each guimp, the length of outside skirt, and when the jumper apron is on she will need no other skirt on hot days.

ALL AROUND THE HOUSE

Hanging Pictures.

Group the pictures according to their kind. A jumble of water colors, prints, and oil paintings with gilt, silver, white, and wood frames on the same section of the wall can hardly be called artistic.

Mosquito Hint.

To drive mosquitoes from a house I shut up each room as closely as possible and burn a small quantity of Persian powder (obtained from the drug store) on a piece of paper in an old tin pan or dustpan. Let it smolder in the rooms for an hour or so and no mosquitoes will be left nor will they come back for some time.

* *

To Keep Cool in Summer.

In the early morning open wide every door and window for two hours, leaving each window open not more than six inches. Leave this opening in every window all over the house, high and low, east and west, and draw down the shades close to the edge of the opening. By keeping the sun out and forming a circulation of air a house is kept cool.

* *

To Preserve Rubber Gloves.

An excellent way to preserve rubber gloves is to sprinkle them lightly with corn starch before removing from the hands. Then peel them off, and sprinkle the inside with corn starch. This dries them at once, and preserves the rubber.

In the Laundry

Easy Washing.

Soak clothes in cold water twenty minutes. Wring out, and soap soiled spots. Fill boiler half full of cold water. Put in one heaping tablespoonful of washing soda and one-half bar of soap, sliced. Put clothes in boiler and bring slowly to a boil. Boil for thirty minutes, stirring often. Rinse well. Flannels and colored goods are easily washed in the suds in which the white clothes were boiled.

* *

Easy Laundry Work.

You can do a morning's work in one hour and a half by following these directions. Put 8 cents' worth of borax, 5 cents' worth of salts of tartar, 5 cents' worth of powdered ammonia and one package of potash into five quarts of boiling water. Turn one quart of water on to the potash first and let it stand until cool, then add the rest. Let the mixture stand twenty-four hours and it is ready to use. This makes enough for twenty washings.

When ready to use take one coffee cupful of the "quick and easy," shave half a cake of soap, and add them to your boilerful of clothes. Boil half an hour. A good rinsing in your bluing water is all that is necessary unless some collar or wristband is much soiled. An old laundress is authority for this recipe. Just try it once.

TESTED RECIPES

Peach Cake.

Peel nine or ten peaches and cut in half. Cover the bottom of a long, shallow cake tin with greased paper (I take the shallow tin because the cake bakes quickly and more easily). Place the peaches upside down on the greased paper and pour on these a batter such as you use for a rich, plain, or a "one egg cake." Bake in a moderate oven until cake is done, and when cool turn out on a platter with the peaches on top. Put a little powdered sugar over the top and serve with chilled whipped cream flavored to taste. This is a tried recipe and makes a delicious dessert.

Parker House Rolls.

Take two tablespoonfuls of sugar, three tablespoonfuls of butter, one teaspoonful of salt, add to two cupfuls of scalded milk; when lukewarm, add one compressed yeast cake, which has been dissolved in one-quarter of a cupful of lukewarm water. Then add five and one-half cupfuls of flour, beating while adding, and knead it thoroughly. Let rise, and when double its bulk, knead a few moments and roll out one-half inch thick. Cut out with biscuit cutter, first dipped in flour. Make crease in middle of piece, brush half with butter, fold and press edges together. Let rise until double again and bake in hot oven fifteen or twenty minutes. To make glaze, brush with milk when nearly done.

Nasturtium Salad.

This is a delightfully spicy salad and most decorative for the Sunday or company dinner. Pick a good number of leaves and blossoms, wash well in cold water and shake dry. Arrange in a shallow glass dish, leaves and flowers forming a border and stems running to the center of the dish. Take two or three cold boiled potatoes and slice thin. Peel an equal number of tomatoes and slice. Then arrange potatoes and tomatoes in alternate circles, covering the stems of the nasturtiums and sprinkle with a little fine minced onion and parsley. Dress with French dressing and serve cold.

IN THE KITCHEN

To Keep Lemons Fresh.

Take a steel crochet needle with small hook and insert into one end of lemon just through the skin in such a way as to enable you to roll the lemon around by means of the hook.

Now dip the lemon into the hot paraffin until every part is coated evenly and thinly, then lift, let cool a moment before placing on a dish or paper, remove hook and press the paraffin over the point where inserted. If not successful at first dip over. A dozen or more can be coated with this and will keep unchanged a long time even in August.

* *

Worms in Apples.

If housewives who dislike to find worms when cutting apples would first put the fruit in cold water they would find the worms would leave the apples and come to the surface of the water.

* *

Use for Salt Water.

GIRL LEADS STRIKEBREAKERS.

Goes to Mills in Own Auto, Armed and Guarded, and Works as Forewoman.

Newcastle, Pa., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—The strike at the local mills of the American Sheet and Tin Plate company here bids fair to be broken soon, and when it is the strikebreaking will be charged up against Mollie Braden, the pretty daughter of Dan Braden, one of the former mill superintendents, who is leading all the strike breakers and has taken the position of forewoman in the assorting rooms.

In her own auto Miss Braden is taken to and from the mills daily, and inside the large handbag which she carries there is always a revolver, ready for use. Her chauffeur also is armed, and three detectives, who ride with her, go heavily armed.

Last evening some stones were thrown at her auto as it passed along the street.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Mordecai Brown, T. F. S., and the Cubs made short work of the Dodgers, nee Superbas, yesterday in the second skirmish of the present campaign against Brooklyn. Brown plastered whitewash all over the enemy and let them down with three hits, while the Cubs were making such swell use of the six hits they gathered off McIntyre that the final count was 7 to 0. Incidentally it was Mordecai's tenth straight victory.

The battle was all over in one round, it was cinched in two, and for a while it resembled considerably the contest of the day before. The Cubs scored three runs on two hits in the first two sessions just as they had done on Saturday, but they made them on errors and clever base running instead of on passes and home runs. There was no tight fitting finish, as on the day before, however, for Chance's men did all the rallying there was in the closing rounds.

Dodgers Are "Marks."

Our boys made monkeys of the Dodgers actively and passively. The Cubs ran bases almost at will in the earlier innings. Evers scored the first run on a little pop fly which didn't go fifty feet back of third base, but which was plenty long eonugh to let him home from third because Clement didn't imagine for a minute he would try it and declined to exert himself to stop what looked like a large Trojan bluff. When he did find out John was going through with the bluff, his belated lob throw was easily beaten home. That was a sample of the way the champs performed on bases.

The visitors were made to look badly when they got on the bases themselves. Twice a runner was trapped between second and third cleverly and run to death. Once it was Tinker who engineered the play and the other time it was Archer with Tinker as an electric relay station.

The Dodgers made their three hits off Brown in the first three innings, one to an inning. Two of them were doubles into the seats provided for the overflow, which didn't burst the barriers. Twice hits opened innings, but the Dodgers were powerless to take any advantage of the openings. After the third session they had no openings, for not a hit was allowed by Brownie from the third to the end, and if Schulte had not missed a McIntyre fly in the ninth there would not have been a visitor on first in the last six periods.

Fine Support for Brown.

Barring that inexpensive miscue by Schultz the Cubs gave their hurler perfect support, and in turn he did not ask of them anything sensational. The three fingered star risked losing the other three by stabbing a hot shot from McElveen at the opening of the eighth, and that was the most spectacular incident. Seven swatters whiffed, five of them in four innings.

The Dodgers were somewhat shot to pieces and presented nothing like the fighting front of the day before. Manager Lumley discovered he had displaced a ligament in his shoulder making a long throw in the middle of Saturday's game, and will be incapacitated until the wing is repaired. Lennox, third sacker, got lost in this big city and hadn't found himself at last accounts. When noses were counted before the game Lennox's did not show, and it was not discovered whether he mistook Halsted for Harrison street or thought he was still in the east, where Sundays are blue instead of gay, and baseball is taboo. When the enemy lined up, its first baseman was on third, an outfielder at first, and Doc Marshall was filling in along with Hunter the gaps in the outposts, while the batting order looked as if bomb No. 41144 had hit it amidships.

Manager Chance was not benched for cause, but took himself out when he found it was going to be a cinch. The P. L. is no sure thing sport.

Burch Startles "Bugs."

Burch startled the bugs a little by rapping out a single off the reel. Clement sacrificed him to second, but the runner got all tangled up on Marshall's rap to Tinker and was run out by Joe and Steiny, with Evers as executioner. Alperman whiffed for the first of three straight times.

Evers began the Cub attack with a single over second, which percolated through Hunter's underpinning, letting John to second. Sheckard sacrificed him to third and Schulte lifted a little fly to Clement, who came in close behind third to get it. Evers put down his head and started home as if to draw a throw, but instead of bluffing and turning back, as Clement expected, the Trojan kept going and finished pulled up ahead of the belated throw to Bergen. Chance rapped to McIntyre.

Hunter opened the second with a liner into the right field seats for two bases. McElveen missed a bunt and Archer whipped the ball to Tinker, heading off Hunter's return. The runner tried for third, but Tinker's relay beat him by a narrow margin. McElveen fouled and McMillan struck out.

Steinfeldt was gone in the Cub second when Hofman walked and stole second with hardly a pause. Tinker poked a safety into center, scoring Dada, then worked a delayed steal so well that he went clear to third because Alperman and Bergen crossed their wires badly. Archer fouled out. Brown hit to Alperman, who fired high and lost the out, letting Tinker score. That was three runs on two hits. Evers grounded to Burch.

Two Good Hits Wasted.

Brown struck out Bergen and McIntyre to start the third, but Burch hit a double into the left field empties for two bases. It was powder wasted, for Hofman camped under Clement's fly. In the Cub half with one out Schulte wasted a sun three baser because Howard fouled out and Steiny was retired by McElveen.

Three innings went by without a runner of either clan reaching first base. Then the Cubs, mindful of Brooklyn's ninth inning rally of the day before, got busy again. Hofman tripled far over Clement's head to start the seventh, and Tinker rapped him home with a double to right. Archer sacrificed Joe to third and he scored when Burch stabbed Brown's high bounder and made a too late peg to the plate. Evers flied to Clement, who made so good a catch that he surprised Brown and turned it into a double play before Mordecai could regain first base. In the eighth a pass to Sheckard opened the door to two more runs. McMillan's wild throw, Howard's sacrifice, and Steinfeldt's vicious single just over McMillan's head did the business. Score:

NOTES OF THE CUBS.

That's ten straight

Clement lost sight of Schulte's long fly in the sun in the third inning, ducking away to protect his skull from fracture. Before he could overtake the ball Frank was on his way to third.

McElveen made a wild throw to first after stopping Howard's grounder. Burch pulled in the ball with one hand, stretched to the limit. Artie said the throw pulled Burch's foot off the base, but Johnstone denied it, and called him out. It was a hot day, anyway.

After Brown stabbed McElveen's rifle shot liner in the eighth he wheeled and fired the ball at Howard as hard as it came from the bat. Del wisely got out of the way and let it hit the stand instead of his hands. When the leather was recovered Archer wigwagged Brownie not to throw them that hard to him.

McIntyre's fly in the ninth fooled Schulte, who went back too far, and when he did stop he missed the catch. Burch forced Matty out and barely beat a double play. Clement forced Burch, then got himself caught napping off first by one of Archer's justly celebrated snap pegs. Clement must have thought he was going to steal second, forgetting they were only seven runs behind.

PIRATE FANS WANT WAGNER TO PLAY THE INITIAL SACK.

Great Game Being Played at Short by Abbaticchio Causes Clarke to Receive Requests to Keep Him There.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—The fast work of Abbaticchio at short field since the injury to Hans Wagner has set the fans in Pittsburg buzzing. If Manager Clarke does not play Wagner at first base instead of at short when he is returned to the game tomorrow Clarke will be disappointing hundreds of fans who have written him along this line.

It is the contention of many fans that the game which has been played at short by "Batty" could not be improved on even by Wagner, and that the placing of the flying Dutchman at first base will but strengthen the batting makeup of the team. Wagner has shown in years past that he can play first base with the best of them and it is understood tonight that Clarke is figuring on following the advice of friendly fans.

Wagner's sense of humor has at last been stirred by a fickle fan. The big fellow was not hitting his game for some time before he got hurt nor has he forgotten how he was let out of four games at Philadelphia with a hit. The fans haven't forgotten either, and have been writing Hans about things. "I drew the line when a fellow suggested that I give up autoing," said Wagner. "He suggested that the dust got in my eyes so that I couldn't see the ball."

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Manager Finn of the Little Rock Southern league club, threatens to carry a claim before the national commission alleging damages. He claims President Hedges of the St. Louis Americans has "tampered" with Jack O'Connor, the veteran, under contract at the time with Little Rock. Finn says Hedges offered O'Connor double the salary he was receiving, causing him to be so dissatisfied that his release was necessary. It is said Hedges will meet the Little Rock officials on Tuesday and confer.

Games Today.

Chicago at Boston. Detroit at Philadelphia.
St. Louis at Washington. Cleveland at New York.

BY R. W. LARDNER.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Revere Beach captured all the White Sox who did not have anywhere else to go this afternoon. George Davis, however, scooped the entire party by having a friend with an automobile. George started out in the morning and rode all day which was the best thing to do to keep cool.

Frank Isbell, who one would think has seen enough ball games in his life to be surfeited with them, suggested an excursion to Providence to witness an Eastern league contest. No one was crazy enough to go with him, so the whole bunch staid around Boston.

There was some consolation in the fact that the Speed Boys could not win from us today. The laws against big league Sunday ball in the east prevented them. There is much speculation as to tomorrow's score. Bill Burns or Jim Scott will pitch. It will be a miracle if the Chicagoans grab victory in their present condition, and much honor will be due the pitcher who does beat Boston if the miracle comes to pass. It will take some pitching, for the White Sox appear unable to do any scoring.

Team Full of Holes.

Doc White is missed sadly and the illness of Purtell breaks up both infield and outfield combinations. Freddie Parent does not like to play shortstop any more and he was going so well in center field that it seems a shame he cannot continue to work out there.

In the meantime the Speed Boys actually are figuring on beating out both Detroit and Philadelphia and getting into the fight with the Pirates or Cubs for the world's championship. They hope to take two more from Sully while the Tigers and Athletics are cutting each others' throats. If Manager Lake had some other pitching staff, his hope might be realized. As it is, one must do some rapid calculating to figure the Red Sox in this season's race. Lake is in possession of one reliable pitcher, Señor Arellanes. He also has Joe Wood, youngster, with everything but necessary experience. Others in working condition are Schlitzer, Collins, and Nourse. Schlitzer has not done anything to make Connie Mack sorry he traded him, and the other two are too youthful to be dependable.

If Boston should cop the rag with this aggregation, the world's championship series would be about as hard fought and close as it was last year and in 1907. If Arellanes pitched every day he might win two games, but it's hard to tell who would win the other two necessary to grasp the world's title.

Where Are the Sox?

President Taylor is wild to strengthen his pitching staff, but it is rather late in the season to think about it. If he could land Scott or Smith from Manager Sullivan it would help a lot, but where would the White Sox be? And that brings up the question, where are they now? Answer: They are over thirteen games from first place and nothing short of a landslide can give them a lookin at the finish. Sully ought to be more than satisfied with a first division berth, and if he secures one south siders should remove their hats to him. He has had more hard luck of late than should fall to the lot of one deserving citizen.

First and foremost, Ed Walsh has not been of any use at all for a month and of not a great deal all season. Edward is beginning to realize that spring training trips are great things for ball players in general and pitchers in particular. No one can toss the ball around in the gymnasium at Yale and expect to be in as good shape as one would be if he went south and worked out in the old way. Ed reported late and pitched a few days after he had reported. The chances are he pitched too soon and now he and the team are suffering from it. Edward certainly will be on the train for California or the boat for Ireland next spring.

Two Regulars Out of It.

Even without Walsh, things were going along with a fair degree of smoothness until the other day in Philadelphia when Doc White put himself out of it and Billy Purtell decided he was too sick to do any one any good. Now the club must go on with two of its most effective pitchers out of commission, a man playing shortstop who does not care much about playing there, and a man in center field who belongs in the inner defense. Tomorrow is another day.

TIGERS WIN GREAT BATFEST.

Knock Out Twenty-one Hits and Beat Scranton in Exhibition Game, 13 to 11—Ty Cobb a Pitcher.

Scranton, Pa., Aug. 8.—In an exhibition game that resolved itself into a batting engagement, due to the encroachment of the crowd on the base lines, the Detroit Americans defeated the Scranton State league team today, 13 to 11. Ty Cobb occupied the pitcher's box for four innings and his experiment came near costing his team a defeat. Manager Jennings held down first base for two innings. The Tigers made twenty-one hits while Scranton got fifteen. The batteries were Chalmers and Philbin for Scranton, and Works, Cobb and Beckendorf for Detroit.

GREAT PITCHING BY MENDEZ.

Cuban Allows Only Two Hits and Stars Shut Out River Forest by Score of Three to Nothing.

Mendez shut out the River Forests with two hits at West End park yesterday, the Cuban Stars winning, 3 to 0. Mendez was in remarkable form, striking out thirteen men. Hildebrand allowed eleven hits, but scattered them well. Errors of omission behind him, combined with several opportune hits, were his undoing. The Cubans scored their runs in the sixth and seventh innings. Score:

LOGAN SQUARE RALLY FAILS.

Gunthers downed the Logan Squares at Gunther park, 5 to 4, chiefly off the shoots of Tom Inglis, who was relieved by Jake Vance in the fifth inning, after Gertenrich lead off with a double. Vance allowed only three hits thereafter.

Cal's men started a rally in the eighth, when Hage got on by an error. Hertel went out, and Meier singled, Callahan following with a double, and Pierce came through with a triple for three runs. The Logans threatened again in the ninth, when Donovan and Hage singled with one out. Rugar struck out both Hertel and Meier when a hit would have tied the score. Gertenrich's catch of Meier's long drive to the flag pole was the fielding feature. Score:

In the three games of the Chicago Baseball league yesterday, Leland Giants defeated Chic Fraser's Milwaukees, 4 to 0; Gunthers downed Logan Squares 5 to 4, and Anson's Colts took both games of a double header from West Ends, 4 to 3 and 2 to 1.

Shortstop Doran of Anson's Colts was suspended indefinitely last night by the league president for the first serious rowdyism of the year. Doran struck Umpire Billy Geist twice on the jaw in the second inning of the second game at Anson's grounds for calling him out at third. The play did not appear even close to a majority of critics, and Doran was plainly out. Geist left the field after the attack, and Percy Skillin, who pitched the first game for the West Ends, finished in Geist's place.

The Colts won the first game by putting four runs across in the first inning on Skillin, who passed three men, which with Stallman's hit and Lynch's error netted four runs. Don Hamilton, who beat the Maroons on Saturday pitching for MacCormac school, worked against Skillin and never was in danger until the ninth, when the west siders filled the bases with two out and two runs across. Bradshaw was put in and retired the final batter.

In the second game West Ends scored in the second on Demmer's double and Lynch's single. The Colts counted in the fourth on Wilhoit's triple and Schreiber's double and again in the eighth on triples by Schaller and Wilhoit in succession. Scores:

Leland Giants, 4; Milwaukee, 0.

"Chic" Fraser pitched effectively most of the way against the Lelands at Auburn Park, but two of his three passes cost runs when his support failed. Wallace was away off in his throwing, and an error by Dougherty in addition cost the majority of the runs. Norman twirled a great game, with only twenty-nine men facing him for two hits and a pass. After losing five straight games and holding the cellar position in the Gaelic football race since the season started, the Shamrocks put over the biggest surprise of the year by defeating the Emmets, one of the strongest teams in the association, 7 to 1. The victors held their opponents scoreless until the last five minutes of play, when an Emmet man scored a point from a difficult angle.

Shamrocks Strong on Defense.

Superior combination play and a stronger defensive game won for the Shamrocks. The first session ended 5 to 0 in their favor. The second period was marked by much better playing by both teams, the Shamrocks scoring twice and their opponents once. However, the score is not indicative of the superior game put up by the former cellar champs, as from the opening of the first half to the final whistle in the second round they played rings around the Emmets. Nolan and Howard sprung the feature plays of the contest. Lineup:

In the second period the O'Mahoneys' defense was battered to pieces and the combination work of the league leaders proved too much. The topnotchers scored twelve points in this session while the O'Mahoneys gathered only a single count. Lineup:

ROBINSON WIELDS BIG BAT.

The St. Louis cricket team, which is on its way to play a series of eight games in Canada, gave the Hyde Park eleven a good drubbing at Fifty-second street and Cottage Grove avenue yesterday, winning by an innings and 71 runs.

Big Bill Robinson scored enough runs to beat the locals off his own bat, making 107, not out, in one hour and five minutes. His hitting was the best seen in Chicago this year, as he scored nineteen fours and two sixes. He made twenty in one over off Turner. Hyde Park made a feeble showing against the fast bowling of Pring, who took five wickets for six runs, and the slows of Robinson, who took four wickets for 13.

Hyde Park would have fared as badly in its second venture but for some spirited hitting by Jack Evans, who made 62 in thirty-six minutes. He made ten fours and two sixes. Scores:

FAVORS AMERICA FOR BOUT

MANY CLUBS SEEK CONTEST.

New York, Aug. 8.—Bids for the Jeffries-Johnson fight for the heavyweight championship are expected in numbers within the coming ten days and the pots of pugilism again will boil over with discussion of the coming mill between the erstwhile boilermaker and the negro.

While many offers for the fight doubtless will be made by clubs in various parts of the country, it is well understood by Sam Berger, manager for Jeffries, and the manager of Jack Johnson that only two states will permit a heavyweight championship mill within their borders—Nevada and California.

America Favored for Bout.

While Berger is anxious to select the best battleground possible from a financial viewpoint, Jeffries, before his departure abroad last Thursday, made it plainly understood that he would greatly prefer to fight in the United States.

"This country is the place in which to fight for the championship," Jeffries told Berger, "and don't forget that when you consider the bids."

Hugh McIntosh, who pulled off the Johnson-Burns fight in Australia, is awaiting Jeffries' arrival in Europe, and doubtless will make an alluring proposition to the retired champion to battle with Johnson in the Antipodes. Offers for the mill are not unlikely to be received from the National Sporting club of London and the Cirque de Paris.

Thinks Ketchel Will Fail.

With the selection of the battleground and the placing of the forfeit in the hands of the stakeholder, Jeffries and Johnson will go at once into active training. The retired champion indicated before he sailed for Europe that he did not consider Ketchel strong enough to overcome Johnson, who, he thought, would be able to defend himself from Ketchel's onslaughts and batter down the Michigan terror as he bored in with open guard.

"No unusual demands will be made on Jeffries' part," said Berger today. "Jeffries wants to fight and under conditions that Johnson and the public will think are fair."

PARIS BOUTS PROVE FIASCO.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, Aug. 8.—The open air boxing match, in which "Blink" McCloskey, announced as the Philadelphia champion welterweight, was advertised to meet four Frenchmen in turn for ten three minute rounds, proved a fiasco.

McCloskey's first opponent was Lacrois, 145 pound man, with a good local record, who clearly had the better of his ten rounds. It was noticeable that McCloskey in the last two or three rounds did not make the slightest use of his left arm. At the end of the encounter it was announced that his arm had been sprained in the first round. McCloskey refused to continue.

The crowd, which numbered barely 1,000, hooted and declared the affair a swindle. One of the promoters said that McCloskey, although under contract to fight for 500 francs, demanded 1,000 francs before entering the ring, and the money had been given him in order not to disappoint the crowd.

MANY OFFER TO AID M. HOGAN.

Members of Benefit Committee to Meet Today and Arrange Plans for Big Event.

A meeting of all the members of the committee of 100 having the Malachy Hogan testimonial in charge has been called for 12:30 this afternoon at the County Democracy headquarters, 91 Clark street, by Treasurer Fred W. Blocki. The meeting probably will be the only general meeting called and a big attendance is expected. The committee is finding itself loaded down with offers of assistance, particularly in features for the program on Aug. 20, when the event will be held at White Sox baseball park.

ROW ENDS LACROSSE MATCH.

Wrangle Over Extra Period Causes I. A. C. Team to Quit—Shamrocks Claim Victory.

The usual number of scraps incidental and apparently inseparable from local lacrosse matches marked the meeting of the champion Shamrocks and the Illinois A. C. in the Comiskey cup series at the south side ball park yesterday afternoon.

The game ended in a wrangle, as at the end of the fourth quarter the teams were tied at four goals each. The officials ordered an extra period and as the I. A. C. men refused to continue, the Shamrocks faced off the ball and went through the formality of putting it into the net for a goal. Then they claimed a win, 5 goals to 4, the victory, if it is sustained by the association, giving them possession of the Comiskey cup for another year.

If these two teams could play a game with a high board fence separating them they might get along peaceably. Yesterday the officials were lax in their rulings and the bellicose players had a chance to shine. Beaton and Kelly were ruled off for fighting in the first quarter, and in the second Young landed on Knapp, and both were given a rest. In the third quarter Young got a strangle hold on Shaver and both went to the side lines for five minutes. A little later Young again applied the choke hold to Shaver's neck and both were put out of the game for good.

The windup of the bouts came in the fourth period when Sullivan and Kelly got in a mixup and were ruled out. Lineup:

New York, Aug. 8.—The national doubles champions, Alexander and Hackett, and their challengers from the Pacific coast, George Janes and Maurice McLaughlin, gained the final round of the tennis tournament on the turf courts of the Knollwood Country club at White Plains today. Alexander and Hackett defeated W. A. Larned and R. D. Wrenn in an uphill match, 3—6, 6—3, 6—4. James and McLaughlin defeated T. R. Pell and W. C. Grant, the southern champions, 4—6, 10—8, 6—3. The Pacific coast players began the day by defeating R. D. Little and R. Leroy, and Larned and Wrenn won the last set of their unfinished match against M. H. Long and H. M. MacQuiston, the California-Texas pair.

STOCKS BUOYANT IN N. Y. MARKET

TARIFF ACTION STILL AID

[NEW YORK TIMES FINANCIAL LEADER.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Following an advance running through eight consecutive sessions of the stock exchange, which pushed forward the average price of active railroad stocks some 3 points and active industrial shares 4 points, the stock market reacted on Thursday under concentrated professional selling upon the actual signing of the tariff bill by President Taft, recovered all its losses and more on Friday, and finished the week with new high records in force.

While this rise of prices was under way realizing was continuous in such volume as to make it a matter of daily comment in the financial district that quotations withstood the effect of selling. Explanation of the market's remarkable capacity for absorbing stocks was found mainly in the renewal of outside interest in securities and heavy purchases made here for European account.

Analysis of Situation.

The securities market of the kind here described is deserving of analysis by the investor as well as by the ordinary trader in stocks, for at a moment when prices of securities are within 6 or 7 points of the highest level ever touched by them it is worth while to seek the direction of the wind from any straw.

Concrete examples of the steady improvement in trade are furnished by the returns on iron production in July, by bank clearings, and statistics of business failures in the same month, and by railroad earning statements for June submitted during the week.

More Gold Exported.

More gold went out last week from this city to Argentine and Japan. The movement to Argentina is the smallest reported in a number of weeks, however, the course of foreign exchange responding in part to the hardening rates for money here. In addition to $1,000,000 engaged for Japan last week it is understood $4,000,000 more may ultimately follow, but beyond this there is no prospect of further heavy engagements. Time money continued to work firmer through the week, maintaining the tendency of the preceding week in this respect, foreshadowing a call from the west for funds before the end of the present month. Money is in plentiful supply in all banking centers, however, nothing like the high rates witnessed in many crop moving seasons of recent years being anticipated this year.

TRADE IN WHOLESALE LINES.

Nearer approach to best previous records in factory outputs, more certain assurance of increasing employment of labor, and facilities in the production of finished materials, and a display of increased confidence on the part of buyers and investors in the commercial and financial situation were encouraging developments in wholesale trade lines last week. The number of buyers attending sales in local jobbing houses exceeded all expectations, individual purchases were more liberal, and the demands made upon productive capacity and transportation facilities were more urgent and came from a wider territory than at any previous time in two years.

Higer temperatures brought out a rush of late summer orders for seasonable lightweight merchandise, and the outward movement of dry goods, clothing, and footwear was materially increased, while the cost of general merchandise displayed a well defined upward tendency. Stocks of summer goods were reduced to a minimum, and jobbers had better facilities for displaying fall merchandise to best advantage. Orders booked for the latter were more liberal and indicated that merchants had given up expectations of more favorable terms later in the season.

Demand for staple groceries, canned goods, and dried fruits and stimulated by reports of reduced productions and insignificant reserve stocks; offerings of standard goods were held with more confidence, and the tendency of values was strongly favorable to sellers. Sugars were rigidly maintained at the recent advance in values; there was practically no old crop coffee offered for sale, and flour was taken at full prices.

HIGHER PRICES FOR STOCKS

Wall Street Believes Business Will Now Move Forward.

QUESTION FOR THE FUTURE:

Will There Be Further Tariff Agitation?—Money Promises to be Dearer.

Outwardly the stock market regarded with favor final action on the tariff. Its reasoning apparently was that most business interests, knowing what would be the price of imported goods, would be able to proceed with their special activities. This obviously will mean a further expansion in business, for uncertainty has been removed, and even with the tariff under discussion statistics showed a gradually improving volume of business.

It is a certainty that not for eighteen months at least will there be any further congressional action on tariff schedules. In the meantime sufficient enthusiasm will remain to lead the public into the market.

Consideration of Tariff.

But there is another consideration. It is whether the people of the middle west and west will be satisfied with what has been done. This is said merely to point out a contingency. While there will be tranquility for a time, the test will come when the congressional campaigns begin. It can then be discovered whether or not the degree of dissatisfaction, if any should exist, will be of sufficient importance to create a further revision of the tariff downward. If any doubt shall be raised on this point there will follow a slowing up of business. To assert this is merely to speak in accordance with history, and even if there were no history for guidance, it is fundamental in business that a change in the tariff is equivalent to a change in the yardstick, and no merchant will make large engagements until he knows how his cloth is to be measured.

Wall street, however, is safe in assuming that a good market can be carried on for several months before it will be disturbed by consideration of the tariff.

Dearer Money Predicted.

The money market promises to be the immediate general factor operating in the securities situation. It is becoming evident that interest rates will be higher this fall than they were last. The margin over the reserve requirements of the national banks will be much smaller than one year ago. The bank statement issued last Saturday showed a surplus reserve of $25,945,600. This compares with $59,224,276 last year and $7,700,550 two years ago. The excess now is 56.2 per cent less than in 1908. The fact of expanding business, which it is assumed will follow the settlement of the tariff, will operate to increase the demand for money and cause higher rates.

The statement on Saturday showed a loss in cash of $7,479,400 and a large increase in loans. The figures follow:

PIT SENTIMENT IS BEARISH

All Cereal Prices Work Much Lower Under Heavy Selling.

PATTEN CROWD ON BEAR SIDE

The government crop report for August will be issued today at 1 p. m., Chicago time. It will give the preliminary estimate of the winter wheat crop, the condition of spring wheat and corn, the old crop reserves of oats and condition Aug. 1. Last month the indicated yield of winter wheat was 397,000,000 bu and of spring wheat 296,000,000 bu. Private advices indicate that the winter wheat figures will be raised a little, while no change is expected in spring. The July report indicated a yield of 3,117,000,000 bu, compared to a final outturn last year of 2,669,000,000 bu. Oats a month ago promised a yield of 1,030,000,000 bu, compared to a final crop in 1908 of 807,000,000 bu. Not much change is expected in either corn or oats. Reserves of oats Aug. 1, 1908, were 38,797,000 bu.

Large Yields Are Promised.

A bearish sentiment dominated the wheat trade during the greater part of the week, influenced mainly by the fact that the northwestern spring wheat crop appeared to be making rapid progress toward maturity without suffering any material loss from rust or other drawbacks. Present prospects indicate the largest yield of spring wheat in the history of the country, and without bull leadership the trade was inclined to discount the expected heavy accumulations of wheat later on. Under the dollar mark for September there was fair support and shorts appeared to be satisfied for the time being. The Patten crowd was on the bear side, with the Armour house operating on both sides of the market. Final prices were 4@4⅛ to 4⅞@5c lower.

Winter Wheat Relatively Strong.

Judging from present indications winter wheat should work to a premium over the spring wheat. While the crop of the former is probably considerably larger than early estimates indicated, the total yield will be much below a year ago and under the average for recent seasons. Moreover, the supplies of old winter wheat were practically exhausted, while there will be sufficient stocks of spring wheat to last out the season without the usual spectacular bulge in cash values which usually marks the tail end of the crop. With a big run of spring wheat and ample reserves in the northwest many traders are spreading between Minneapolis and the winter wheat markets.

Black rust was reported at several points during the week, and one Minneapolis report said the prospective yield had been cut down 25,000,000 bu in the three states in the last ten days by rust and heat damage, but private advices from experts now in the field did not indicate any such amount of injury. Premature ripening will cut down the yield probably to some extent, but the outlook is still extremely flattering.

Harvesting Is Under Way.

Cutting has begun at points all through the three states and at some places in Canada and on this side of the line will be general by the end of this week, so that there will be small chance of further damage from rust. The Canadian crop is still susceptible to damage and will be closely watched the coming week. Conditions in Manitoba are understood to be less favorable than in the western provinces. Intense heat in July with an excess of moisture has retarded maturity to some extent, and may delay harvest until there is danger from frost.

Discouraged by the continually declining prices foreigners who were inclined to buy freely much higher up have practically pulled out of the market, and export sales except to fill old contracts have been small. There has been some demand for shipment immediately, but new contracts have been of a limited volume. At the same time, local export brokers are of the opinion that all that is needed to again stimulate an excellent business with foreign buyers is to have the market steady for a time. Some assurance is wanted that the bottom of the market will not again fall out.

Cash Situation Is Encouraging.

On the whole the cash situation so far as winter wheat is concerned is undoubtedly strong. More wheat has been sold to go out from Chicago the next few weeks than is now in sight and several of the leading cash firms have little if any wheat unsold. Shipments have averaged heavy so far this month, and wheat will be shipped out as fast as it can be loaded. Receipts at the same time continue heavy, but not a great deal of wheat is being consigned, most of the arrivals being on sales made some time ago. On the decline farmers generally have shown a tendency to hold their wheat. Whether this tendency would still prevail if futures should work still lower is a question, but with old stocks exhausted and the chances in favor of a comparative scarcity of both red and hard winters before another crop there seems to be little reason for any hasty marketing.

Liverpool Price Trend Lower.

Recently Liverpool has shown a weaker tendency than for some time past, influenced mainly by the steady declines in this market, but prices are still closing to a working basis for export, and as crop returns in Europe do not promise any bumper yields a strong tone is expected in foreign markets. The Argentine outlook is none too good, although this factor has been lost sight of temporarily, so bearish has been the local sentiment.

With the attitude of the market leaders bearish, outside buying is discouraged, but it is significant that these same market leaders with about 90 per cent of the trade were bullish 10c higher up, while at the present time few traders can see any virtue in wheat at any price. Many conservative traders who consider sentiment too unanimous on the bear side are covering their shorts, and are willing to await further developments.

Corn Values Under Pressure.

Corn values have suffered severely, the magnificent crop promise, indifferent cash demand, and the slump in wheat and oats contributing to the weakness. All months shared in the decline, but the far off months were the especial targets of the bears. Receipts were moderate and cash prices held comparatively firm. So far there has been no indication of heavy selling by the country, and the big reserve stocks reputed to be back in the interior are as slow as ever in coming out, leading to the suspicion that they have been badly overestimated. The shortage in September has again been greatly increased. Many of the bulls have not lost heart and are predicting that the nearby shorts will find themselves in a worse predicament than in July. Selling of the deferred months has brought values for those deliveries down to a much more reasonable basis, but with heavy prospective yields of all the coarse grains sentiment is still bearish. Hot weather has caused some complaint, but the general outlook is still indicative for the largest crop of corn ever raised in this country. Final prices for the week showed net losses of ⅝@1⅞c.

Oats Decline Is Checked.

A further radical readjustment in oats values was checked around 36c for September and December by heavy profit taking by shorts and commission house buying. Elevator interests have been consistent buyers throughout the week but in the face of the steady outpouring of oats from country houses and bear pressure by big local professionals their opposition to the declining tendency was not very effectual. Country sales have been large evidently and a big run is expected this week and for some time thereafter. The oats are of excellent quality this year and with the possible exception of Iowa nearly every state has a big crop, the total being undoubtedly the largest on record. Receipts so far have been light and the cash market has been fairly firm, a better shipping demand having been in evidence the last few days. Closing prices were 1 to 1⅝@1⅜c lower.

Continued light receipts of hogs at all western points, active support given the market by packing interests, and a moderate revival of the export demand for lard combined to give the provisions market a firm tone. Monthly stocks were bullish as expected, although supplies of meats other than contract grades do not suggest any material scarcity. Late selling eased the market to some extent. Prices are high and the declining grain markets induced considerable scattered liquidation and checked the volume of outside business. Present values are abnormally high and some traders of a conservative turn of mind are not bullish, notwithstanding the hog run is so light, arguing that present market conditions are more or less artificial, and that prices are being bolstered for the purpose of unloading high priced product. Pork closed 10c lower; lard, 5c up to 5c off, and ribs 2½c off to 22½c higher.

REAL ESTATE—FARM LANDS.

FOR SALE—BUY LAND AT WHOLESALE. I want to get in touch with the small investors—the men who have from $500 to $5,000 that they would like to put into real estate. There is money in land. In the last fifteen years more money has been made in agricultural land in the United States than in all the mines of the world. Good land is a safe investment—you cannot lose and the chances are ninety-nine to one that you reap a substantial profit.

THE BEST MONEY HAS BEEN MADE IN BUYING LAND IN LARGE TRACTS.

Now this is my proposition: If you have not capital enough to swing a good sized deal alone, get your friends to join you in a syndicate, pool your funds, and take advantage of wholesale prices.

I am in position to secure the lowest prices and the best terms on some of the finest agricultural land in the west in tracts of from 2,000 to 10,000 acres.

I want to show you. If you can form a syndicate with a capital of from $5,000 to $25,000 I can satisfy you in regard to the investment.

I APPRECIATE ACCOUNTS OF HONORABLE people [men employed or in business, ladies with allowances from their husbands, or incomes from other sources] who want large or small sums, confidentially, with or without security. My location [30 min. from loop district], and my being the President of a large manufacturing wholesale vehicle establishment [Bradstreet's and other agencies show its standing], and not a professional money lender, assures a privacy not possible to those who deal with brokers in downtown office buildings, where money lenders congregate. Professional lenders demand high rates, usually asking so much that the average straightforward citizen realizes that exorbitant charges, for any time, are burdensome. My average price, all charges positively included, is never more than 1, 2, or 3 per cent monthly, depending on risk and amount loaned. Individual waiting rooms. WINE AND LIQUOR FACE HIGH TARIFF

Congress Increases Rates on All Malt and Spirituous Drinks When Imported Into Country.

BIG AID TO ILLINOIS

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—[Special.] The consumers of imported wines and liquors will have to pay a heavier price for their drinks in the future. Properly considering these articles as luxuries, congress in the new tariff law has imposed duties higher than ever before applied.

Thus further protection has been accorded to the wine and liquor interests of the United States, which it is expected will lead to greater consumption of domestic products. It is estimated also that more revenue will be derived from this source as a result of enforcement of the new law.

Except on soft drinks and mineral waters every article included in the schedule dealing with spirits, wines, and other beverages has been subjected to an increased rate of duty. Champagne furnishes an excellent illustration of the course pursued by congress with respect to this schedule. Quart bottles which under the Dingley law paid a maximum duty of $8 a dozen and a recipe duty of $6 a dozen, must pay $9.60 a dozen. Pint bottles will be dutiable at $4.80 a dozen instead of $4 a dozen, and half pint bottles at $2.40 a dozen instead of $2.

Domestic Vineyards to Gain.

It is the expectation of champagne producers in the United States that the increase of duty will be highly beneficial to the industry. The sources of supply of this product are found in the vineyards of California which cover 240,000 acres; New York, 30,000 acres; Michigan, 10,000 acres; Ohio, 5,000 acres; and Missouri and other sections aggregating 7,000 acres. The investment in the vineyard industry is estimated to be $100,000,000. The total annual production of domestic wine is upwards of 55,000,000 gallons.

All of this, of course, is not champagne. Various brands of still wines are put upon the home market in competition with foreign imports, and large quantities are exported to the far east. The American people consume more than $6,000,000 worth of imported champagne annually, and about $5,000,000 worth of still wine, such as Bordeaux, Chianti, Rhine, Moselle, etc.

On still wines, as on champagne, there has been increases of duty from 40 cents to 60 cents a gallon when not in bottles or jugs and containing 14 per cent or less of absolute alcohol and from 50 to 60 cents a gallon when containing from 14 to 24 per cent of alcohol. Pint bottles of still wines hereafter will pay a duty of 92½ cents a dozen instead of 60 cents; quart bottles, $1.85 instead of $1.20 per dozen. Vermuth, ginger wine, and ginger cordial, in packages other than bottles or jugs and containing less than 14 per cent of absolute alcohol, will pay a duty of 40 cents a gallon instead of 40 cents, and containing more than 14 per cent of absolute alcohol 60 cents a gallon instead of 50 cents. If in bottles, 92½ cents a dozen instead of 60 cents, and if in quart bottles $1.85 instead of $1.60.

Importers Plead in Vain.

Considerable pressure was applied by importers to induce congress to maintain the Dingley rates on the ground that the industry was sufficiently high to protect the industry in the United States. The importers of Italian wines were especially insistent that there should be reductions instead of increases, calling attention to the large Italian immigration and the desirability of enabling those people to secure at a low price the beverages to which they were accustomed. Congress refused, however, to take this special class into consideration, holding that it was legislating for the entire country and must protect the wine industry and increase the revenue.

Its attitude was strengthened by information received, showing that there is a tremendous quantity of cheap wines entering the markets of or in reserve in Europe, and if the bars were let down heavy shipments would be made to this country, with a disastrous effect upon the domestic production.

The total output of France, for example, is 50,000,000 bottles annually. Of this quantity, between 20,000,000 and 30,000,000 bottles are consumed in France as a still wine, 10,000,000 bottles are consumed at home as sparkling champagne, about 8,000,000 bottles of sparkling champagne are sold in England and the balance, about 4,000,000 bottles, are shipped to the United States.

Distilled Liquors Interest Illinois.

Of especial importance to Illinois is the increase of duties on distilled spirits. Hereafter these will pay a tax of $2.60 per gallon instead of $2.25. According to the last census statistics there are 805 establishments in the country engaged in the industry. These establishments have a capitalization of $50,101,000 and pay salaries and wages to their employés amounting to more than $4,000,000. Their output is valued at $131,210,000.

Eleven of these establishments are located in Illinois. Their capitalization is $5,000,000; they disburse almost $500,000 in salaries and wages and their products are valued at $54,101,000. Practically all of the home production is consumed in the United States, less than $2,000,000 worth being exported. It is evident that, with the increased duty on the imported article which necessarily will follow the application of the new duty, drinkers of Scotch whisky and other beverages will have to pay a higher price or be content with drinks of native manufacture.

Ale, beer, and porter also will pay higher rates of duty hereafter. If in bottles or kegs they will be dutiable at 45 cents a gallon instead of 40 cents, and if in casks, 25 cents a gallon instead of 20 cents. In 1907 the United States imported 7,171,000 gallons of these beverages, valued at $3,375,000. This is by any means represent the consumption. Including extract of malt, which amounted to only 3,500 gallons, valued at $3,000, the American people drank ale, beer, and porter valued at over $300,000,000.

An enormous capital is invested in the malt industry in the United States. The census figures state there are 1,531
